You will also know Angela as the Berks County dairy princess. She is studying dairy and animal science at the Berks campus of Penn State with one more semester to go before transferring to the main campus in State College.

Melissa was one of the members of the Berks County dairy bowl team that won in Pittsburgh at the National Holstein Convention last year.

Under the Phil-Don Farm prefix, they milk 68 registered and grade Holsteins and have 67 heifers and calves. A home-bred excellent and five very good cows are part of the herd. Angela and Melissa each own 19 or more mature cows, heifers, and calves in the herd, and Pamela is known for her championship showmanship abilities.

The sisters banter good-naturally about whose cows give the most

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — A possible merger between PennAg Industries Association and the Pennsylvania Agronomic Products Association (PAPA) is to be considered Tuesday during a meeting at the Eden Resort.

The meeting is being held between the executive committee of Penn Ag and a PAPA committee.

If the meeting results in the PAPA committee approving of such a move, then PennAg leadership may have something fairly substantial to present to its members on the issue when it holds its 118th convention at the Hotel Hershey Sept. 16 and 17.

The discussions between PennAg and PAPA are but one effort by those with a stake in representing Pennsylvania's agribusiness to improve political strength and reduce duplication of effort.

The most apparently logical strategy would be for one group to serve as a big tent for all the other organizations, according to Dave Brubaker, executive vice president of the PennAg.

As it is now, there are about 100 different agribusiness organizations or associations, Brubaker said. Some of the members of PennAg, which is the largest agribusiness association in the state, belong to several different trade associations, all primarily with a similar mission, especially when it comes to legislative issues.

The proposal is for PennAg to serve as the host for the industry council, with the council representing, not eliminating, independent

Pork Quality Assurance Necessary, Has Real Benefits

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — By signing up under the Pork Quality Assurance (PQA) Program, producers could experience a $2-$3 per hundredweight decrease in production costs.

Signing up for PQA is not complicated, according to pork professionals who spoke to about 75 producers and agri-industry representatives at a meeting at the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster last week. The meeting was co-sponsored by Penn State.

The decrease in production costs as a result of using PQA was pointed out in a study conducted by the Ohio Pork Producers Association.

Pennsylvania has a similar program, adopted by the guidelines written almost a decade ago by the National Pork Producers Council.

As for Pennsylvania's program, "a lot of producers just don't know about it," said Duff George, Hatfield's hog buyer. George said the PQA meeting was part of the important educational process, "not an obstacle" for producers.

Hatfield is using the program to bolster marketing of its products overseas. According to John Rei-

TIMONIUM, Md. — Among the many exhibitors at the recent 10-day Maryland State Fair were some of the finest dairy cattle from across the nation. On separate days throughout the week each breed held their own open show. Represented were Holsteins, Guernseys, Ayrshires, Brown Swiss, Jerseys, and Milking Shorthorns. On Monday morning, September 2, the Grand Champion of each breed division was brought into the ring at the conclusion of the open Holstein show. Judge Robert Morrell was joined by Paul Miller, and Dr. Angelo Pozetti of the Italian Brown Swiss Association. Together, they carefully evaluated each breed champion. Then, a sparkling Supreme Champion of Show for the 1996 Maryland State Fair was chosen. The Grand Champion Jersey cow quickly became Supreme Cham-

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
SEPTEMBER 4, 1996

Grain and soybean bids fell sharply again, pressured by lack of export demand and increased corn and bean crop estimates from the FCC. Wheat 4 to 13 cents lower. Corn 8 to 28 cents lower. Sorghum 14 to 17 cents lower. Soybeans 15 to 22 cents lower. Wheat bids were shoved lower due to the weakness in corn and bean bids, today. Some export tenders are expected this week but yet to be seen. The FCC increased their corn and soybean crop estimate which put pressure on bids. Traders are a little skeptical about the figure but do believe it will be larger than the USDA's first guess. Very slow export demand this week for all commodities also weighed on bids. NY Phil Frozen Eggs

AUGUST 30, 1996

Prices were unchanged to slightly lower for whole egg, and unchanged for the balance of items. The market tone was generally steady. Demand was light as buyers waited until after the Labor Day weekend to inquire for future needs. Floor stocks were about adequate. Raw material offerings increased under a barely steady market tone, and most breakers limited purchases. Edible liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed in the Eastern region under federal inspection for the week ending August 24, 1996 were 3% less than last week, and 3% less than the same week last year.

Delmarva Broiler

SEPTEMBER 4, 1996

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was fair to good. Offerings were adequate to closely cleared in most quarters. Live supplies were moderate; weights were mostly desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were moderate to heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 59 to 73 cents. Trade sentiment was in a range of steady to firm. In the parts complex, Leg items were adequate to short. Inquiry for Wings increased and supplies were in generally good balance. Breast items were irregularly distributed; however, boneless skinless were slow to clear in some quarters. Bone-in breasts were generally adequate.

National Egg Market

SEPTEMBER 4, 1996

Prices were reported as unchanged. The market tone was steady to barely steady with heavier sizes in the best position. Demand was best where featured but in a full range of light to good. Supplies generally on extra large were clearing, large at least sufficient for trade needs and lighter weights were fully adequate. Breaking stock supplies were noted as adequate to occasionally ample for the fair demand. Light type hen offerings were generally sufficient for the light to moderate demand.

ROSH HASHANAH, SEPT. 14.

FRIDAY THE 13TH

Triskaidekaphobia? That's fear of the number 13. Most hotel designers bow to it; you'll notice there's no thirteenth floor. For some people, Friday the 13th makes triskaidekaphobia even worse. It's argued that there were 13 people at the Last Supper and that the crucifixion of Christ happened on a Friday. Some ships refuse to embark on Friday the 13th; for others, it only has to be a Friday to keep them in port. Winston Churchill wouldn't travel on Friday the 13th — too unlucky. Male song sparrows evidently don't suffer from triskaidekaphobia, however. They keep singing for about 13 minutes after sunset.

We are all tattooed in our cradles with the beliefs of our tribe.

— O W Holmes

TIP OF THE WEEK

Don't harvest potatoes until the frost has killed the tops down.

POTATO SOUFFLE

8 medium potatoes
3 tablespoons butter
3 eggs, separated salt to taste
3 tablespoons grated onion
2 tablespoons minced parsley bread crumbs

and parsley. Mix into mashed potatoes, beating until well blended. Beat egg whites until stiff, then gently fold into potato mixture. Grease soufflé dish and sprinkle bread crumbs on bottom and sides. Pour in the potato mixture and bake at 375° F for about 45 minutes, or until nicely browned and risen.

Makes 4 servings.

HEATING

ARSTREAMER

The PuraFire heater provides a consistent, cleanburning and fuel efficient source of warmth for all types of poultry and swine houses. With near 100% efficiency, it uses less energy to yield greater BTUs for your money. Choose from two models: the C80M variable output (40,000-80,000 BTUH) and the C225 (225,000 BTUH). Each is LP or natural gas compatible and can be mounted inside or outside your confinement house.

SCALES

WayPig

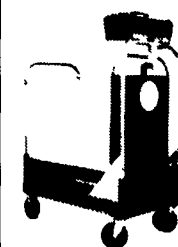

500 Animal Scale

This rust resistant steel scale is used for weighing up to the largest hog. The entire unit serves as the weighing area so that an animal leaning on the sides won't prevent an accurate reading.

Litter Scale

An entire litter can be placed in the portable WayPig at one time. The new oversize scale gives a clear readout of the weight in pounds and kilograms. The compact design allows it to glide easily through aisles and around tight corners.

Replace Speculation With Observation

If you want to get ahead in the dairy business, you need to replace speculation with observation. To fill in the gaps of what you don't know about a situation, you need to gather the facts rather than suppose what you think is true.

Managers of successful organizations deal with what is called critical success factors (CSF's). These concepts in the managers' minds are the things they continually watch to see that their operations are successful. By watching successful managers, these CSFs can be identified.

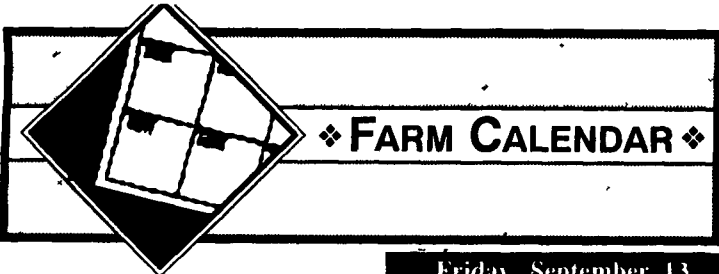

Bill Heald in Penn State's dairy and animal extension says that for dairy farmers, two CSFs are daily dry matter intake and daily milk production. Farmers that calculate and record these daily and make notes of what imparted the daily outcome continue to make improvements. These improvements are at the heart of a dairy operation's profitability. Feed is approximately half the cost of producing milk, and milk often generates 90% of the farm income.

When dry matter intake per milk yield is fine-tuned, the herd is working near maximal efficiency. It is like fine-tuning a carburetor on a gas engine or adjusting the oxygen and acetylene on a cutting torch. Today's cows have the genetic potential to produce thousands of pounds more than they are currently. Therefore, today's cows must need fine-tuning.

If you speculate that today's dry matter intake and milk production per cow is about the same as yesterday's and everything is OK, you can't pinpoint daily environmental factors impeding production. In turn, you can't make important management changes to fine-tune production efficiency.

So you need to replace speculation with observation. Keep records. Gather the critical facts. Daily record the bulk tank milk weights divided by the number of cows in production and the amount of feed consumed.

In other words, replace speculation with observation!

♦ FARM FORUM ♦

Editor:

With the passage of the state budget, New York farmers won much needed property tax relief. That's important to farmers across the state because our property taxes are four times the national average and the highest of the country's 40 agricultural states. The viability of the state's number one industry — agriculture — is important to the state economy and to working men and women all around the state. This measure will also benefit rural areas and cities all across Upstate New York and Long Island. That's because the tax relief that farmers see will be spent locally, at places like computer stores, machinery shops, hardware stores, farm equipment dealers, car and truck dealerships, lumberyards, and feed mills.

The 26,000-member New York Farm Bureau waged an all out, grassroots campaign to win passage of legislation that would lighten the heavy property tax load paid by the state's farm families. The new program which will bring school taxes down for farmers through a refundable tax credit on the state level, thereby assuring no shift of the tax burden to non-farmers.

This new law would never have seen the light of day without the relentless efforts of Governor George Pataki. He initiated the proposal and it kept alive because he knows the tough times New York farmers are having staying competitive and profitable, and the tough times that rural economies are feeling.

The state's farmers owe a huge thank you to Governor Pataki. We also thank the Agriculture Chairs who first brought the issue to state lawmakers several years ago, Assemblyman Bill Parment and State Senator Randy Kuhl, and Senate Majority Leader Joe Bruno, who himself introduced a farm property tax relief proposal, earlier this year.

The farm property tax relief measure is historic — the most important piece of state legislation for farmers this century. It's long overdue and an economic stimulus that will fuel the recovery of agriculture and the state economy.

To Estimate Corn Yields

According to Robert Anderson, extension agronomy agent, one way to estimate corn yields before harvest time is to count the number of good ears in 1/1,000th acre.

Within this area, hand harvest every fifth year. Count the number of rows of kernels on each ear and determine the average number of rows per ear. Next, count the number of kernels per row on each of these ears. Do not count the kernels on the tip or butt of the ear that are less than one half the size of the normal kernels on the ear.

Next, calculate the average number of kernels per row. The yield in bushels per acre may be determined by multiplying the number of good ears per 1/1,000th acre by the number of rows of kernels by the average number of kernels per row, then divided by 90 to determine the yield.

To Know

Soybean Maturity

Mike Brubaker, Brubaker Agromonic Consulting, reports soybeans need 30 to 40 days between end of bloom and first killing frost to reach maturity.

End of bloom is determined by the appearance of small pods in the top of the plants. Once soybean leaves are turning yellow, they have reached maturity. If frost hits after that, there should be no significant yield reduction.

Full-size soybeans will continue to mature after frost. As with corn, frost damaged soybeans do not dry as well in the field as normal mature soybeans. Combine cylinder speed may need to be increased to properly thresh the tougher pods caused by higher moisture.

To Find IPM Info on WWW

Computers and telephone lines now make it possible to move information quickly. Farmers may now access Integrated Crop Management (IPM) information from Iowa State University on the World Wide Web (WWW).

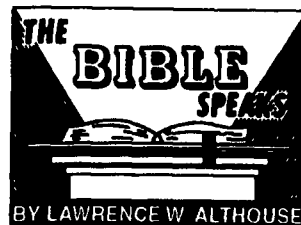

For several years, farmers have been receiving crop information from Iowa State via mail. Because Iowa's weather is very similar to Pennsylvania's, many of the problems found in Iowa's crops show up in Pennsylvania at the same time.

The newsletter from Iowa contains information on insects, diseases, management strategies, fertility, and other topics of interest. Under the web, the information will be available to the user two days after it is written. This is the same day the hard copy goes to the printer.

Iowa Cooperative Extension estimates by using the WWW, farmers will receive the information six days earlier than the hard copy method. The information on the network will include the same color photographs which are included in the hard copy. This information may be found at: <http://www.ipm.iastate.edu/ipm>.

FINDING THE BOOK

September 8, 1996

Background Scripture:

2 Kings 22 through 23:20

Devotional Reading:

Deuteronomy 30:15-20

King Hezekiah, as we observed last week, was one bright exception in a long and dreary list of Judean and Israelite kings who led their kingdoms into ruin and oblivion.

There is one more exception to this all-too-general rule: King Josiah who reigned over the southern kingdom of Judah from 621 to 590 B.C. "And he did what was right in the eyes of the Lord, and walked in all the ways of David his father, and he did not turn aside to the right hand or to the left" (2 Kings 22:2). Josiah is remembered as one of the greatest reformers in Old Testament history.

The reform started with a reconstruction project. Apparently, because of the spiritual lassitude of the people, the temple had slid into serious disrepair. It had become just one of a great number of places of worship in the kingdom. These rival shrines were dedicated not to god, but to pagan deities that sometimes were worshipped along with the Lord.

THE BOOK OF THE LAW

So, the first recorded act of King Josiah is the project to restore the temple of the Lord in Jerusalem, an extensive project that cost a great deal of money. When the king sent emissaries to the high priest, Hilkiah, to inquire whether there was enough money to pay the contractors and workers, we see a monarch who is concerned about people — in this case, the workers who have worked so hard to restore the temple. He not only was concerned about them, but he trusted them as well: "But no accounting shall be asked from them or the money which is delivered into your hand, for they deal honestly" (22:7).

Upon receipt of this inquiry from King Josiah, the high priest revealed that "I have found the book of the law in the house of the Lord" (22:8). It is implied that the book — actually a scroll — had been lost and was then found by accident. This scroll is believed to be the earliest form of the present book of Deuteronomy. Apparently it contained commandments about which the people had long forgotten.

Actually, the demands of the newly-found scroll were so radical, that the whole nation was indicted by them. The way they had been living, individually and corporately, has been seriously out of step with what God had long ago revealed to their forefathers. So striking is the contrast that, "when the king heard the words of the book of the law, he rent his clothes" (22:11). Tearing one's clothes was an ancient symbolic act indicating guilt or remorse.

GOD'S WRATH

When King Josiah read the scroll, he was appalled to realize how much he and his people were failing to live by God's commandments. To confirm its legitimacy, he sent representatives to Huldah, a prophetess who would know the truth of the matter. Huldah minced no words — great calamity would fall on the nation "Because they have forsaken me and have burned incense to other gods...therefore my wrath will be kindled against this place" (22:17). But Huldah also said that, because the king had shown such abject repentance upon reading the scroll, the terrible prophecy would be fulfilled only after he died.

Josiah is a more conscientious king than Hezekiah. Instead of rejoicing that the prophecy wouldn't be fulfilled in his lifetime, he decided to reform Judah, assembling all the people, reading the scroll in their presence and then, with them, making a covenant to live by the newly-found law of God. Thereupon Josiah rooted out all the pagan idols and sacred places of Judah.

Reform is no less possible today than in the time of Josiah. Like the people of his time, we may not see a need for it. But whenever we rediscover the Word of God and we take it to our hearts we find a compelling need to change. And the Book that can awaken us, unlike the scroll in Josiah's time, is not lost — just ignored.

"It's great to be part of the team at ADC that produces a quality product and stands by its farmers"
—Levi & LuAnn Ransom
Nubolson, PA

ADC Is the Place To Be

Quality milk and support of its members – the outstanding benefits that Levi and LuAnn Ransom refer to – are among the strengths of the premier dairy cooperative in the region

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative has a 78-year history of excellent service to its members. Financially strong, ADC guarantees a market for all member milk and excels in maximizing returns. ADC is a leader in providing equity payments, quality bonuses and over-order premiums to members.

Nearly 4,000 dairy farmers agree that "ADC is the Place to Be."

The details of the concept are to be worked out by the different groups that may wish to form an alliance or merge with PennAg, but the reality of representation of the state's agribusinesses is that each small faction can no longer afford to stand alone when it comes to creating effective public education programs or when campaigning for legislative reforms.

The main issue is that industry groups are finding themselves representing fewer and fewer entities as the businesses themselves merge or consolidate.

According to Brubaker, there is a growing consensus that there would be a great benefit to the entire agribusiness industry in the state if an agribusiness council structure were to be set up so that each different association would be represented and policy positions and educational information spread from a central location.

Brubaker said that toward this end there have been seminal discussions of a merger between PennAg and the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation.

In a late August letter to members, Brubaker stated, "It is anticipated that other groups may want to join with us to strengthen the voice of agribusiness in our state, and to gain some economies of scale."

That is the concept, in a nutshell. To help make it a possibility, the PennAg members are to vote on proposed changes to its bylaws.

As it is, the PennAg bylaws provide for a "past presidents' council" to help guide the association.

The proposed amendment to the bylaws would change that to be an "industry council."

Also proposed are sections that would detail formation of the council, the purpose of the council, the self-determination of organization of the council, and council representation on the PennAg board of directors.

In other words, PennAg would continue to exist as it is, but a council would be formed from representatives of the different segments of the agribusiness industry (that with or without a current association).

The council would serve as a central focal point for agribusiness policy formation and for contact with legislators, possibly news media, and other outside groups.

In effect the council would become the main voice of agribusiness in the state.

With 430 active members, PennAg is the largest agribusiness association in Pennsylvania. However, there are about 100 different agribusiness associations within the state, according to Dave Brubaker, executive vice president of PennAg.

Brubaker said this week that each of the associations which are specific to a segment of the spectrum of agribusiness at one time had enough members and money to be completely independent and effective.

However, most segments of agribusiness have undergone mergers and consolidations. That has caused a diminished strength by each independent group to conduct effective public educational programs and also to lobby for beneficial legislation.

"One (of the reasons for the proposal) is influence," Brubaker said. "Much of agriculture is divided into (many specialized segments). One group with larger membership has more influence.

"Also, there are economies of scale," Brubaker said. "Each group has overhead costs and other expenses, publications. Hopefully, we can coordinate and get the most for the dollar.

"We're in a consolidating industry," he said, "and we need to keep numbers up and not keep hammering people with increases in dues."

According to Brubaker, a new organization structure, with the industry council, can be structured in a way that each component can have a reasonable amount of autonomy.

As far as a merger with PAPA, Brubaker said, "I've been with PAPA since it was established and we're almost always on the same side of an issue anyway."

Youth Shows Reported At Maryland State Fair

LOIS SZYMANSKI
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, Md. — During the first half of the Maryland State Fair, Cow Palace housed 4-H and FFA dairy and beef cattle. During the second half of the 10-day affair open exhibitors moved into the barns. 4-H and FFA exhibitors from all across the state of Maryland brought the best of their stock to show during the last week of August. For many, the stock they raise is more than just a project. It is training for a future, and the Maryland State Fair is a great gauge to measure their growing successes, and to find out what areas still need improvement.

The six breeds of dairy cattle the youth exhibited included, Holstein, Ayrshire, Guernsey, Milking Shorthorn, Brown Swiss and Jersey. After careful evaluation of the Grand Champion in each breed category, a Supreme Dairy Champion was chosen.

Senior exhibitor, Donovan Hollingsworth of Queen Annes County impressed the crowds and the judges as well with his Grand Champion Holstein cow, a junior three-year-old. The cow, Tri Dee Skybuck Charcoal also exhibited in the 1996 Holstein Futurity on Monday, September 1, finishing in fifth place.

The Reserve Grand Champion of the Holstein Show, and also the Total performance winner and the Best Udder and Best Bred and Owned in Show was the senior dry cow, Ehrhardt Astro Jet-ET, owned and exhibited by Kevin Ehrhardt of Baltimore County.

The Grand Champion Ayrshire, Maple Dell Soldiers Aur, was the senior two-year-old cow, out of Maple Dell Rebels All and sired by Maple Dell Soldiers. She is owned by Melissa Patrick of Howard County. The Reserve Champion Ayrshire, owned by Mark Creek of Howard County was an aged cow, (4 years old or older), called Palmyra Comet Blush. She was also the Best Bred and Owned in the show.

The Grand Champion Guernsey was Gr-Dix Lee Smokey Whiskey, a senior 2-year-old, owned and exhibited by Katie Dixon of Kent County. According to Katie's Dad, the cow was one bred and owned by Katie on their farm, Dix Lee Farm. The Reserve Champion Guernsey was aged cow, Walnut Ridge Frank Maggie, owned and exhibited by Amber Myers of Frederick County.

The Grand Champion Milking Shorthorn, owned and exhibited by Sherry Albaugh of Frederick County, was a junior three-year-old cow called Horizon Cavilier Elsie. The Reserve Champion Milking Shorthorn was also the Best Bred and Owned of show. Owned and exhibited by Adam Harvey, Adams Elegant Kathy was the champion junior two-year-old cow.

The Grand Champion Brown Swiss, owned and exhibited by Aimee Smith of Frederick County, was her senior champion cow, Hoosier Knoll Mallet. The Reserve Champion cow, also owned by Aimee Smith, and also the Total Performance winner, was the senior class reserve cow, Towpath Pretus Fran. Aimee Smith's junior two-year-old, Dublin Hills JM Juice took the award for Best Bred and Owned in the Brown Swiss show.

ited by Emily Birch of Harford County. It was her aged cow, Cowbell Juno Dodie. The Reserve Champion Jersey was also the Best Bred and Owned Cow of show. The junior three-year-old, Jea Glen Cannoneer Brooke was owned and exhibited by Brandy Bussard of Frederick County.

The beef show held on Monday, August 26, featured judge Dr. Scott Schaake from Kansas State University. Angus, Hereford, Shorthorn, Simmental, and Cross-bred or other breed steer were shown. The Grand Champion steer was owned by Carroll County 4-H'er, Brett Fogle. At the Wednesday night livestock auction the 1,240-pound steer was sold to Stop Corporation for $3 per pound. The Reserve Grand Champion Steer was owned by Ryan Orndorff of Howard County. At auction the 1,205-pound steer brought $2 per pound and was sold to Mid Atlantic Developing Corporation.

Also at auction were the Grand Champion swine, owned and raised by Erin Chaudry of Howard County. Her 245-lb. pig was sold to Mullinix Grain and Fertilizer for $3 per pound. The Reserve Champion Swine, a 240-pound pig owned by Leroy Schaeffer of Carroll County, sold to Hatfield Meats for $1.50 per pound.

Convention Heads West

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — For the first time in 10 years, the annual meeting of the state's leading farm and rural advocacy group, the New York Farm Bureau, will take place in Rochester.

Slated for December 2-5 at the Holiday Inn-Genesee Plaza in downtown Rochester, the New York Farm Bureau convention will feature the adoption of the organization's 1997 legislative policy, a host of interesting speakers, local farm tours, entertainment, and a reception featuring food products grown in western New York.

At the convention, the organization will also name its Distinguished Service to Agriculture Award winner, choose its Young Farmer Achievement Award winner, and honor the county farm bureaus that have demonstrated superior performance in membership and program areas.

For more information on attending the NYFB state convention, call Pam Rafferty, NYFB Organization Dept., at (518) 431-5606 or contact your county Farm Bureau president.

Chester County Dairy Milk Lines

Walter Wurster
Extension
Dairy Agent

This will be my last column for Lancaster Farming. I will be retiring on September 30th. We have been assured that my position will be replaced with basically the same job description as I have been operating under the past seven years — dairy, agronomy, 4-H dairy & tractor safety and water quality. How soon a new agent will be hired is uncertain at this time.

My first career after graduating from Penn State was developing, with my family, a successful dairy farm and a herd of Registered Holsteins which I operated for over 30 years. When my knees and hips began showing the wear and tear of milking in a stall barn, I was lucky enough to find an opportunity to be an Extension agent in Chester County. It has been a very satisfying experience because of the great farm families and residents of the county that I have had the privilege to know and work with. I will probably still do some volunteer work if I am asked because I am told that the most important priority for a successful retirement is to keep busy.

As I look into the crystal ball and consider how Extension can best serve the dairy industry and specifically Chester County farmers, I see some positive signs for the future. The County Commissioners are taking a serious look at how they can give farmer owners some tax relief using new updated values for Act 319, the Clean & Green Law. I have been working on this project for a number of years and with new assessments coming out in early 1997, final values are being refined at this time.

Another area is Penn State's initiative to develop programs in the future that will target the needs of the Pennsylvania dairy industry. The former dairy agent in the county, Dave Swartz, told me that I would really have to be on my toes to keep ahead of the dairy farmers in Chester County. Well, was he ever right! It seems that whenever a new, innovative idea came along during the past seven years, I would get a call from a dairy farmer. Of course, that is what made the job so interesting. I believe that Extension programs in the future will focus more on one, two or three-day workshops that will be on specific subjects. When a farmer completes a session he or she will have an indepth understanding of the topic and be comfortable applying the principles learned on their operation.

With all the information that is available to farmers today, sometimes the biggest problem is separating the wheat from the chaff; or what is applicable to a particular farm and what is totally useless for that farm. One of the strongest assets of Extension is that it is a non-partisan evaluator of ideas and applications that are proposed by agri-business. Many ideas appear great on the surface, but cannot stand the test of controlled research conducted at universities. It is important that Extension agents continue to work with and support agri-business while at the same time being objective in evaluating products and concepts. I have really enjoyed working with the 4-H program and I am indebted to the volunteer leaders that have contributed so much of their time to make the program successful. Teaching kids values, leadership and information is the best way to insure a sound agricultural industry in the future.

I have always been a positive thinker — I believe the glass is half full, not half empty. Therefore, I have faith that the dairy industry and the farming community in Chester County will continue to be strong because of the quality of people who are driving the tractors and caring for the livestock. My thoughts and prayers will be with you as we all move into the 21st century.

Superior Rumen By-Pass Protein From Superior Technology

While only recently introduced into the U.S. dairy market, Soy Pass® has had exceptional success and acceptance worldwide. Last year, more than one million cows were fed Soy Pass®. Why? Because Soy Pass® users have profited from

- Increased milk production*
- Reduced feed cost while maintaining milk production

The success of Soy Pass® can be attributed to its unrivaled properties

- 74% By-Pass Protein – and it's digestible
- An ideal amino acid profile – a key to maximum performance
- Excellent Palatability – cows love Soy Pass®!

Soy Pass® is a patented, all vegetable, by-pass protein. All of the protein in Soy Pass® comes from soybean meal, the standard against which all other proteins are judged.

For information on how you can include Soy Pass® in your dairy rations, call 1-888-SOY-PASS or contact your consulting nutritionist or feed supplier.

Jersey Reigns Supreme At Maryland State Fair

pion of the 1996 Maryland State Fair, amid cheering and applause.

The top cow, Sparklers Unique Jeanna is a six-year-old, owned by Michael Heath and Douglas King. She is out of Gil Bar Unique Sparkler, and has already had four calves.

Ernie Kueffner and I bought her out of a herd in Wisconsin," Michael Heath said. "She had placed second as a five-year-old at Madison. In April we sold her at the Kueffner 24 Carot Gold Sale." Sparklers Unique Jeanna sold for $17,000 at that sale. She was the top dollar cow there. Michael Heath retained half ownership of the cow, and Douglas King bought out the other half. When asked about future plans, Heath said, "We plan to breed her back . . . to a Duncan Chief or Imperial.

Other Grand Champion cows at Maryland State Fair included the Ayrshire Champion, Bell's Farm P. Elegance, a senior three-year-old owned by C. Bell and M., B., T. Baker, Willow Brook Farm, Elmer, New Jersey, and out of Oak Ridge C.H. Peer.

The Grand Champion Brown Swiss was George William Smith III's five-year-old cow, Kinderkay Jade Cherisse-ET, out of Bridge View Elegant Jade-ET. This champion from Frederick, Maryland has produced 25,000 lbs. of milk.

The Guernsey Grand Champion, three-year-old Crown Stone Perfecto Cuddles is owned by William S. Schnebly, and out of Lily Lane Penny Perfecto-ET.

The Grand Champion Holstein, Tri Day Adeen was a senior two-year-old cow owned by Kristi and Adrienne Crutch of Oseana Holsteins, Lumberport, West Virginia. Tri Day Adeen is out of Marcrest Encore.

The Grand Champion Milking Shorthorn, Horizon Royal Shelly was the champion senior three-year-old cow, owned by C. and J. Young and C. Fisher of Horizon Farm, New Enterprise, Pennsylvania.

"I had heard about the quality of the cows represented here each year," said Judge Robert Morrell. "This is my first year to attend and I have to agree with what I have heard. Every cow we looked at was a fine representation of its breed," Judge Morrell said of the champion class. "It was a fine group. I wouldn't be ashamed to have any one of them in my barn."

Margaux Wins Maryland Holstein Futurity

LOIS SZYMANSKI

Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, Md. — Marlin Hoff of Coldsprings Farm opened the 13th Annual Maryland Holstein Futurity with a rousing rendition of our National Anthem. Then, as Hoff hurried to change out of his tuxedo and into show clothes, Master of Ceremonies, David Brauning, introduced the eighteen entries for the 1996 Futurity. A Coldsprings Farm, Hoff family cow was to take second in a close class of Maryland's top Holsteins.

My Lady's Manors, Robert and Mary Smith had three entries in the 13th Annual Maryland Holstein Futurity, which was held on the evening of September 1, at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium. Of them, Lady's Manor Melwood Margaux took all the honors, becoming Miss Maryland Futurity — 1996.

"She was bred on the farm," said Robert Smith of his big winner. With 23,204 pounds of milk to her credit this big, black and white Holstein moved quietly around the ring at Cow Palace while organ music wafted on the breeze. When it was her turn to take the spotlight she moved with grace, as if she knew just how much class she carries. Lady's Manor Melwood Margaux was sired by Arlinda Melwood-ET, and is out of ECM-23204.

The Holstein Futurity, a three year process, begins with the dairy breeder nominating promising calves and making payment of a fee. The following year the calves are renominated, based on their growth and type of potential. Another fee is paid. They are grown out as yearlings, then bred to have their first calf around 24 to 26 months of age. As two year olds, they must be renominated to stay eligible, and a divisional fee is paid. By the time the animals are three years old they have completed their first working lactation of milk. A final fee is paid for them to be eligible to participate in the futurity. Three years ago 490 animals were nominated. The eighteen Holsteins in the ring on September first represented those with the quality and staying power to compete.

Judge, Robert Morrell from Pennsylvania said, "It was a really close class. There really was no clear cut winner out there. The top three were that close! And it was a top quality class the whole way down." He smiled. "There wasn't a bad cow in the bunch."

The top three cows Judge Morrell spoke of included Matthew Hoff's, Coldsprings Sky Brook—ET, who took second, and Shannon and Paul Harrison's and C. Hill's, Ms Dun Loafin Black Maria, who placed in the third slot. Rounding out the top five were; Marlin K. Hoff's Coldspring Inspire Bola in fourth, and DD Hollingsworth & Family's Tri Dee Sky Buck Charcoal.

Fewer Entries In Westmoreland Show Reflect County Trend

DAVID HIEBERT
Westmoreland Co.
Correspondent

According to Shepherd, the countywide herd total peaked in the 1990-1995 time slot at about 11,300 head. The number of dairy herds in the county has dropped from about 210 (11,000 head) in 1990 to about 160 herds and 7,800 head now. Gary feels that retiring farmers who do not have a new generation to replace them has been the big factor in the decline. Gary also cited lower farm profitability as a second cause for a re-

MUTUAL (Westmoreland Co.)
— The slight decrease in entries for this year's Westmoreland County dairy show reflect the countywide trend toward fewer animals and fewer herds, according to Gary Shepherd, County extension agent. Entries this year totaled 86 down slightly from last year.

At the Westmoreland County Dairy Show, junior champion (open and 4-H) Ashley Hixon, Scottdale, shows Santee-Acres Mathie Speck. Ashley is the 1996 Dairy Maid for the Westmoreland County dairy promotion board. Reserve junior champion (open) Katie Buttermore (5 years old) shows the reserve junior champion (open) Fern-Spring-Broker Blossom. The fall (sr.) calf is owned by William G. Buttermore & Son. Katie is the daughter of Ron and Tami Buttermore, Mt. Pleasant.

This dairy show, however, counters at least one of these problems, as the participants and winners have strong family backing. Youngsters with anxious and helpful parents brought animals into the ring and came out winners. Siblings stood side by side as the placing was sorted out. Children of winners from previous years took home rosettes.

Judge for the show, Oren Bender, owner and operator of Cove Run Farms, Accident, MD recalled that he bought his first cow as a 17-year-old at the dairy sale in Greensburg. From that small start with a $220 investment, he has now grown his dairy into a moderate sized operation.

Clinton Sale Tops $33,000

LOCK HAVEN (Clinton Co.) — The 24th Clinton County Fair ended on Aug. 10 with the annual Junior Livestock Sale. The sale grossed $33,200 for 48 members from their 109 animals.

Livestock buyers purchasing animals with no personal need were resold to the packer bidder. This year there were two, H.J. Bierly Livestock, Mill Hall and New Holland Sale Stables, New Holland.

The sale included rabbits, lambs, goats, hogs, steers, and dairy beef. This year a separate show was held for dairy steers raised on the all grain feeding program.

The sale started with rabbit entries. The grand champion exhibited by Nicole Fogleman, Castanea sold for $45 and was purchased by Rusty Herlocher Auto Sales, Lock Haven. The second place rabbits exhibited by Robert Merrill, Loganton, sold for $35 and purchased by Albright's Mill, Go where you've never gone before.

The new 4WD Massey Ferguson® 240 at 41 hp* and MF 253 at 48 hp give you the traction and clearance you need to get across the wet spots. Through the high weeds. And up the steep slopes.

They can also reduce compaction. And increase stability, especially when doing loader work.

Best of all, we've kept all the great features that have made the MF 240 and 253 two of our most popular tractors:

- High-torque Perkins engines that are unequalled for rugged reliability and efficiency.
- Advanced Ferguson linkage and hydraulics to give you faster, more precise control of implements.

- Superb dealer and parts support to keep you on the job.
- And high resale value to protect your investment.

ninger, manager of hog procurement for Hatfield, PQA provides an "enhanced value of the product," something "our customers expect," he said. "The biggest push for the PQA program is our foreign markets." The foreign buyers are adamant that the product be certified and expect that when they buy, PQA ensures product safety. Those who buy from Hatfield "expect it to be safe to begin with" said Reininger.

The Pennsylvania PQA program involves certification at three levels, according to Ken Kephart, Penn State swine specialist. Level I and II provide the producer with the background and importance of handling of medications properly. Level III requires a more thorough understanding of the critical control points and involves a written commitment by the producer to maintain the enterprise within the guidelines of the program.

"The enrollment on the Pork Quality Assurance program in Pennsylvania and surrounding states has not been as high as we would like," Kephart said. Pennsylvania has 140 producers certified Level I, 159 certified Level II, and 244 on Level III.

To retain Level III certification, producers are asked to review their herd health program annually and recertify with a verifier every two years.

Packer representatives such as George and Reininger have been working to spread the word about PQA, attending producer meetings to discuss certification. Certification simply involves a review of the methods by which the hogs are raised with the help of the veterinarian to ensure the final product is drug- and disease-free.

There are 10 critical control points vital to certification level III, according to Kephart. They are:

- Have a herd health management plan
- Have a veterinarian/client relationship
- Store drugs correctly
- Use only FDA approved drugs or extra-label drugs in a responsible manner
- Administer all drugs properly
- Follow label for use of feed additives
- Maintain treatment records
- Use drug residue tests when appropriate
- Implement employee/family awareness of proper drug use
- Complete PQA checklist annually.

At the meeting, according to Chet Hughes, Lancaster livestock extension agent, 21 producers were recertified under PQA. Certified under Level III were 39 producers, and nearly a dozen producers were not certified on any level but were interested in signing up.

For producers, PQA certification can mean $2 or even up to $5 per hundredweight improvement in operations, according to Kephart.

George said he works with producers on a face-to-face basis to educate them about PQA and convince them to sign on to a PQA program. Foreign markets continue to dictate what type of product they want and they demand a certified product, according to Reininger.

Also at the meeting, producers were provided with three other directives in the pork sustainability program begun by Penn State. Other directives under review include environmental assurance, nutrient reduction on the farm, and improvement of percent lean in the hog product.

"The purpose of the Sustainable Swine Production Program is to assist producers in the production of a wholesome, residue-free product without jeopardizing the environment or economic viability of the operation," Kephart said.

"We want our producers to all understand the importance of producing a safe and wholesome food product," said Hughes.

MADISON, Wis. — Celebrate the future of the dairy industry at the ultimate producer show, World Dairy Expo, October 2-6. The worldwide dairy industry gathers each fall in Madison, Wisconsin to exchange ideas, source out suppliers and genetics for the year 2000, and shop the international market place of dairy technology. Make plans now to see the best cattle, the latest dairy technology exhibits, and top notch industry seminars at this special 30th anniversary show.

Opening ceremonies on Wednesday, October 2 will mark the 30th anniversary of the show. First held in 1967 as World Food Expo, the show has seen tremendous growth. In 1995 a record number of 68,750 people came to the show. Nearly 3,700 visitors from 78 countries gathered to see the future and participate in its makings.

The famous show ring will be dressed in a formal black and white theme as over 600 cattle exhibitors enter to showcase their 1,800 head of cattle, according to World Dairy Expo's General Manager, Tom McKittrick. The seven breed shows, over the five days, will build with excitement for the Supreme Champion selection on Sunday, October 6. McKittrick says, "Our dairy cattle judges will even be dressed for the anniversary, judging the classes in formal tuxedos."

The future exists through the commercial trade show, where walking down an aisle is like taking a trip through a giant shopping mall filled with equipment and technology for every aspect of a dairy producer's operation. Exhibitors from the United States, Canada, New Zealand and around the world offer producers and agri-business representatives the opportunity to see proven products side by side with the latest technological advances in the dairy industry. Whether a producer is looking to replace their TMR mixer or learn about the latest management software, World Dairy Expo is the place to be.

But the showcase doesn't stop there, it goes on to include youth contests with more than 700 participants, from the United States and Canada, competing for top honors in judging, showmanship, and classification contests. These contestants are the future of the industry and their excitement solidifies the continuing industry showcase of World Dairy Expo.

fies the continuing industry showcase of World Dairy Expo.

With 68,750 people from 78 countries, a two-year-old Exhibition Hall, almost 1,800 head of cattle and a 1,400 booth trade show, it may be hard to remember that it truly has been 30 years in the making. Every year new things big and small, have been added to get Expo where it is right now. This year is no exception. Watch for these new additions:

Touch crean kiosks will greet Expo visitors in the Coliseum and lobby of the Exhibition Hall. These replace the old wooden boards and allow visitors to find booth locations and grounds information at the touch of a finger.

World Dairy Expo is an international dairy cattle exhibition and trade show and is the largest of its kind in the world. Hours for World Dairy Expo are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday and 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Sunday. Daily admission is $4 per person and season passes are $15 for the five-day event. Parking is free. For more information or to obtain a daily schedule, contact World Dairy Expo at 608-224-6455.

Gold Cup Benefits Hospital

DEVON (Chester Co.) — Members of the show jumping team that won the silver medal at this summer's Atlanta Olympics, all of whom have figured significantly in past American Gold Cup competition, will be trying again this year to win their share of the more than $165,000 in prize money.

The Gold Cup, Sept. 12-15 at the show grounds on Route 30 in Devon, benefits The Germantown Hospital.

Not only will spectators get a close-up view of these Olympic stars, they'll also be treated to exciting exhibitions by trick rider and roper S.L. Pemberton, returning again this year by popular demand.

The Gold Cup features family-style fun, with exclusive boutique shopping for adults, pony rides and a petting zoo for youngsters, and a celebrity dog show for animal lovers of all kinds.

Anne Kursinski of Flemington, N.J., added another team silver medal from Atlanta to the team silver medal she won in 1988 in Seoul.

Kursinski set a Gold Cup record last year when she won the prestigious event for the third straight time, which brought her total number of victories in this event to four. Not only did she win the Gold Cup with Dynamite last year, she also placed second on Eros, who was her Olympic mount this year.

Another member of the silver medal team, Peter Leone, won the $25,000 Welcome Grand Prix on Fridav evening last year on Legato, the same horse he rode in Atlanta this summer.

During the competition in Atlanta, both Kursinski and Leone said they definitely planned to compete at the Gold Cup again this year.

The silver medal team will be honored in the Dixon Oval on Sunday during opening ceremonies for the $75,000 Gold Cup.

Michael Matz of Collegeville, Pa., riding Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Dixon's Rhum IV, and Leslie Burr Howard, on Jane F. Clark's Extreme, both contributed to winning the silver medal for the U.S., and both expect to be at the Gold Cup.

Anne Kursinski, winner of last year's American Gold Cup and a member of this year's Olympic Games show jumping team, is expected to defend her Gold Cup title Sept. 12-15 at the Devon show grounds.

KUBOTA DEFIES THE LAW OF AVERAGES

Kubota engineers defied all the laws of "average" when they designed Kubota's Grand L and M-Series diesel tractors. Loaded with features, these versatile tractors can tackle your toughest farming tasks.

The 2WD and 4WD Grand L-Series generates 25 to 37 PTO horsepower in four compact, state-of-the-art models.

Shift-on-the-go with Kubota's Synchron-shuttle transmission, or choose a GST (Glide Shift Transmission) for 8 speed clutchless operation.

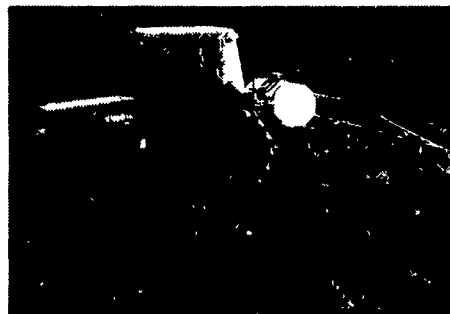

Kubota's M-Series increases your power with two models producing 42 to 50 PTO horsepower. The M-Series 4WD models incorporate Kubota's bevel gear drive for smooth, tight turns.

Both the Grand L and M-Series are powered by Kubota's low noise and vibration E-TVCS diesel engines. These easy maintenance diesels are lean on both fuel and emissions, and are also environmentally friendly. Independent rear PTO and hefty 3-point hitch is standard.

See your Kubota dealer today and let them show you why Kubota's Grand L and M-Series are not your "average" tractor!

Kubota Tractor Corporation markets a full line of tractors through a nationwide network of over 1,000 dealers. Financing is available through Kubota Credit Corporation.

BACS Field Day Looks At Systems Approach To Crops

SPRINGVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — More than 200 producers and agri-industry representatives toured the fields and examined the results of a wide variety of research plots on Wednesday here at the research farm of Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service (BACS).

According to Rob Kauffman, BACS Research Farm manager, at the annual field day producers saw "not just varieties, but an entire herbicide systems approach," he said.

Producers can use new technologies in combination with varieties from an economic standpoint. According to Kauffman, producers can see an array of practices involved in the systems approach to weed, insect, and disease control of crops.

Kauffman said it was an ideal growing year for corn. Corn yields on the 70-acre research farm could top out at 175, perhaps even 200 bushels per acre, he said. "We hit 200 bushels our first year here," he said.

This is the third year for the BACS field days. Included were tours of BT corn and IR/IT corn varieties, STS/roundup tolerant and conventional soybean varieties, SR corn, and several corn and soybean herbicides. Various equipment dealers, including C.B. Hooper and Landis Brothers, were also exhibiting new products at the field day.

Mike Brubaker, BACS president, said that as consultants, BACS has been using the research farm in concert with four other research sites in the Mid-Atlantic region to evaluate a wide range of products for their clients to determine the best products to use.

After lunch, Charles Brosius, state secretary of agriculture, spoke to the producers who sat on hay bales in the tobacco shed. Brosius spoke about how changes at state level and in extension will affect all producers.

"The Extension Service of the future is going to be computer-driven," said Brosius. Brosius told producers that looking at the modern technology offered by field days such as that of BACS "is what ag research is all about."

While there have been state increases in funding for ag extension and research, farmers need to rethink their cultural practices if they want to survive. If you're doing the same things you did five years ago on your farm, "you definitely won't be competitive in end of the show, showmen and animals were all ready for a release from the pressure.

Generous participants all donated the proceeds from milkings done at the Fair to the Westmoreland Scholarship Fund. This fund provides a $500 boost to several Westmoreland County 4-H'ers' college capital each year.

today's marketplace or the marketplace years from now," Brosius said.

Brosius spoke at length about the new state nutrient management law and how important it is for farmers to conform to the requirements. It would be easier if producers would "do it ourselves than have the government tell us to do it."

Walton Walks Away With Chester Champion

KIMBERTON (Chester Co.) — It turned out to be quiet a day for first-year member Bennett Walton of Coatesville who walked away with the grand champion steer of the Chester County 4-H Beef Show and Sale, held recently at the Kimberton Fairgrounds.

The judge for the day was William Holloway, a breeder of registered Angus cattle, coach of the York County livestock judging team, and volunteer 4-H leader. Holloway had the opportunity to judge the show, with 21 market steers and six breeding heifer projects.

Bennett's champion Angus steer was purchased by Hoss's Steak and Sea House of Duncansville, represented by Robb Harris for $2.55 per pound. Kasey McAllister of Spring City exhibited the reserve champion steer which was purchased by Herr Food's of Nottingham represented by Dennis and Dottie Byrne for $2 per pound and donated to The House of His Creation in Coatesville.

There was a total of 16 market steers that sold with the average price per pound being $1.11, well above the current market value. Auctioneer for the sale was Bill MacCauley of Atglen. Herr Angus of Nottingham was the volume buyer.

In the market steer division local winners includes: Class 1 (805-840 lbs.): 1. Jonathan Howe, Downingtown; 2. Sara Howe, Downingtown; 3. Jason Marsch, Pottstown.

Class 2 (835-1030 lbs.): 1. Eliza Walton, Kennett Square; 2. Jonathan Howe; 3. Jonathan Marsch, Pottstown.

Class 3 (1045-1070 lbs.): 1. Nathan Howe, Downingtown; 2. Sara Howe; 3. Jason Marsch.

Class 4 (1095-1125 lbs.): 1. Jason Wagner, Spring City; 2. John Lewis, Glenmoore; 3. Jamel Chatman, Glenmoore.

Class 5 (1180-1225 lbs.): 1. Nathan Howe; 2. Adam Byrne, Nottingham; 3. Phillip McAllister, Spring City.

Class 6 (1230-1240 lbs.): 1. Bennett Walton, Coatesville; 2. Kasey McAllister, Spring City; 3. Julia Howe, Downingtown.

Class 7 (1335-1420 lbs.): 1. Kasey McAllister; 2. Becky Byrne, Nottingham.

Members also had the opportunity to compete in the showmanship division. Grand champion showman in the senior division

New from — Great Plains 12' End Wheel No-Till Drill

No-Till technology and maximum productivity in a 12' size

All of the benefits of Great Plains no-till technology are now available in a new 12 foot size. The new 12' End Wheel No-Till drill is designed to handle the planting needs of small to medium sized operations with maximum productivity. Built to the high quality standards of Great Plains, the 12' End Wheel No-Till drill will plant in the most demanding of no-till conditions with extreme accuracy.

The end wheel design makes this drill extremely maneuverable. Keeping all ground-working components in-line with the end wheels prevents openers from bulldozing or bridging when working in rolling terrain. The end wheels also act as stabilizers to hold the openers steady when seeding on slopes.

Excess debris is no problem for this unit. Opener and coulters stagger of 10 3/4" allows trash to flow evenly and freely. No-till coulters create a mini-seedbed allowing openers to concentrate on seed placement.

Planting depth adjustments are quick and easy with the "T"-handle depth control system. State of the art solid seed tubes ensure that the seed exits the chute with "zero motion drop" for ultimate seed placement accuracy. The optional Seed-Lok™ wheel then presses each seed into moist soil for optimum germination.

The improved straight-arm, solid stand opener design, combined with the cushioned press wheel provides maximum down pressure with less wear and tear.

The large, welded seed box holds up to 2.4 bushels per foot. Exclusive Great Plains fluted feed seed cups coupled with the 4-speed gearbox deliver outstanding accuracy in varying rates and seeding conditions.

Designed with safety in mind, the 12' End Wheel No-Till drill comes equipped with transport safety lights and a wider walkboard.

Dairylea Executives Travel To France

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — As part of Dairylea Cooperative's ongoing efforts to strengthen its relationships with international dairy businesses, Dairylea President Clyde Rutherford and Chief Executive Officer Rick Smith recently embarked on a trip to France to meet with representatives of Besnier — the parent company of Sorrento Cheese, which is a major customer of Dairylea's.

"International trade agreements are opening up on opportunities for the U.S. dairy industry in the world marketplace," said Rutherford. "It is important for Dairylea to further cultivate relationships with our customers who are already leaders in international dairy trade."

Besnier is a major, global dairy enterprise, operating 70 facilities worldwide — 60 in France and 10 abroad. Besnier is the largest manufacturer of cheese in the world, and markets products in more than 100 countries.

Acting on an invitation from Besnier, Rutherford and Smith spend four days meeting with the company's representatives, including owner Michele Besnier, as well as government officials.

Time was also spent touring Besnier facilities and a variety of farms throughout France.

As a result, Rutherford and Smith returned home with a broader understanding of the dairy industry in France and international dairy trade, as well as getting a glimpse at the country's economic and social way of life.

According to Smith, the Besnier operations they toured were quite impressive. In fact, Smith noted that the state-of-the-art plants matched — and many times exceeded — the best facilities he has visited in the United States.

One cheese-making facility, handling approximately 2 million pounds of milk per day, was so technologically advanced that the work force involved in the entire manufacturing process of shredded consumer-sized packages of cheese numbered only three people.

Said Smith, "There is no way to accurately describe some the processes we witnessed, except to say that the automation and robotics were truly unique."

As for the dairy operations that were toured, Rutherford observed that French farmers had not adopted new technologies and management techniques on anywhere near the level as that adopted by American farmers.

"Production quotas have reduced the incentive for efficiency and productivity," noted Rutherford. "On the other hand, there seemed to be less stress at the farm, and an emphasis on diversified agricultural activities that do not rely solely upon milk production for income and livelihood."

Besnier buys milk directly from approximately 28,000 dairy farms — which average 375,000 pounds per year — for a total of approximately 10 billion pounds. This compares to approximately 2,600 farms producing the 4.5 billion pounds of milk that Dairylea markets.

Rutherford added, that just as in the United States, dairy policy and its impact are framed by the national culture, rather than by any type of isolation of the industry itself.

The trip also involved some in-depth discussions on how Dairylea and Besnier could strengthen the growing relationship between the organizations on a number of levels, and pursuing joint activities in the future where it makes sense.

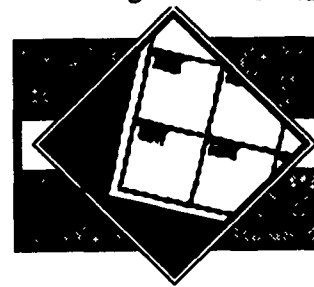

According to Smith, Besnier is looking outside France and Europe for its growth. Currently, Besnier has six operations in the United States — four Sorrento operations and two Besnier operations. These U.S. operations represent Besnier's single greatest commitment outside of France.

"The trip was very educational and certainly cemented our relationship with the Besnier companies," summarized Smith. "Increased communication with renowned national and international dairy companies continues to be a major thrust of our efforts as we approach the next century."

Dairylea is a Syracuse-based, dairy farmer-owned cooperative with more than 2,600 member farms throughout the Northeast. It markets more than 4.5 billion pounds of milk annually and participates and is invested in a milk marketing network stretching from Maine to Maryland to Ohio.

Werleys Named Berks Farm Family

milk or have the best type, and Pamela takes it with a smile when reminded that she was upset by a sheep while competing for the supreme showmanship award among all species at the Kutztown Fair. Little Matthew already knows a lot about the facts of life when it comes to breeding cows, and he climbs trees while waiting for the photographer and the rest of his family to get the cow set up in front of the farm sign for a farm family portrait.

"I always tell people farming is my hobby, Phil said. "If I were doing it for the money, I would get out. It's in my blood. There is something different every day. The four seasons change things, and we can take off and go to the fairs. I like to work around the third cutting haylage so I can go watch the kids show their animals. That's what I get out of it."

The farming blood started in the Werley family when Phil's dad, now 81, bought the neighboring farm in 1946. In 1968 the family purchased this farm, and starting in 1977, Phil and his older brother went into partnership with the cows between the two farms. In 1982 the brothers dissolved the partnership, divided the cows by pulling numbers out of a hat, and Phil built a new dairy barn on this farm.

Seven years ago the Werleys started to feed a TMR mix with a top dressing of 40 percent protein pellets. Within the year, the herd average jumped 3,000m to over 20,000m. But today, they have backed off on the purchased feed. All cows are fed TMR in one group and given no top dressing.

"When we went to feeding as one group, we didn't make as much milk, but I had more money left over," Phil said. "The bottom line is better."

Donna agrees. "We looked at the milk price as not all that great," she said. "There is nothing wrong with a top producing herd, but where are you financially? It costs more to make big records, and we are paying off the farm and put up a new silo. Two years ago we bought a new tractor so we needed to look at the bills."

Now the herd average is between 18,000m and 19,000m. Costs of production have decreased, and herd health has improved because the cows are not pushed as hard.

"We saw the biggest difference on the first calf heifers," Phil said. "They were not geared to be pushed quite as hard, and we lost more first calf heifers than we do now. And the cows stay around a little longer. We actually have a lot of old cows in the herd."

The Werleys have three different pastures for their dry cows, milking cows and bred and open heifers. But they do not use rotational grazing as the term would indicate. Phil thinks that if you have a hilly farm rotational grazing may work best, but when you can raise 25 to 30 tons of corn silage per acre, that goes a long way toward feeding the herd for the year.

Calf-raising and dry cow care are of great importance in this dairy operation. Phil believes that if you have healthy dry cows coming into freshening, the calves will also be healthy when they are born. One of the next projects on the wish list for the Werley is a new calf barn.

The family is involved with many organizations and activities. Along with the County, State and National Holstein associations, they belong to the Berks County Farmers' Association (Phil is a board member); Pennsylvania DHIA; Sire Power; and Genesis.

Donna is a Sunday School teacher, pianist, and board member of the Church of the Brethren. She belongs to the Hamburg PTA and serves as a dairy bowl coach and a 4-H dairy club leader.

But the family is especially involved with 4-H program and the Berks County Holstein Club. "One of the best things we did for our kids was get them into 4-H and the Holstein Club," Donna said. "You really get to meet a lot of people, good friends that are going to be friends for a lifetime. We have also gone to a number of National Holstein Conventions."

But with all the activities, home is where the heart is. It goes back to the blood that runs in the family. "We have gone many different places, like when the National Holstein Convention was in Texas," Donna said. "We visited the large farms where they milk almost around the clock. After you see these large operations, you are glad to get back from vacation. It's good to get home again. We appreciate the small family farm."

Also honored at the banquet were two 4-H students and two FFA students from Berks County. These honorees are: Kathryn Sterner, daughter of George and Linda Sterner, Bechtelsville; Crystal Peterson, daughter of Karen and John Peterson, Honey Brook; Ryan Geschwindt, son of David and Diane Geschwindt, Shoemakersville; and Nicole Knepp, daughter of Ted and Dawn Knepp, Mohnton.

The Building you want. The Lease you need.

Whether your new farm or commercial building is of pole, timber column, stud, steel or block construction; choose Telmark lease financing.

Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider the features:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs may be as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules match your cash flow. Payment options include monthly, quarterly, annually, as well as, skip or specially designed seasonal payments.

How do you start leasing a building from Telmark? Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost. And call your Telmark representative

Milk Cooperatives To Pay Premiums

RESTON, Va. — Members of Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative Association will be seeing extra dollars in their milk checks beginning in September. That is because the cooperative has approved the immediate distribution of certain Class I over-order premiums negotiated by the association.

"Depending on the anticipated volume of Class I milk to be sold in premium markets, the returns to producers could easily range from 22 to 30 cents per hundred-weight," said George Walgrove, general manager of Maryland and Virginia.

The distribution of these premiums starts with milk produced after August 1, 1996. The cooperative expects additional payments to members to continue through late fall. These extra returns will change each month as Class I over-order premiums and sales adjust to current market conditions.

"We at Maryland and Virginia have been encouraged with the higher than anticipated milk prices," states Walgrove. "Unfortunately, high feed prices have negated a substantial portion of these milk price gains. Because of this, the board of directors has approved this plan to enhance producers' milk checks immediately."

Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative Association, headquartered in Reston, Va., is a milk marketing and processing cooperative which markets milk for 1200 dairy farmers throughout Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, and Delaware. The cooperative includes Marva Maid, a milk processing division in Newport News, Va.; a manufacturing division in Laurel, Md.; and an equipment division in Frederick, Md.

Merit Award Winners Named

BOZEMAN, Mont. — The American Simmental Association (ASA) has announced the 1996 recipients of its prestigious merit awards.

Five gold award winners and 10 silver award recipients have been selected. The gold award includes a stipend of $500, while the silver award is valued at $250.

ASA requires that the Merit Award stipend be used for "post-secondary educational purposes."

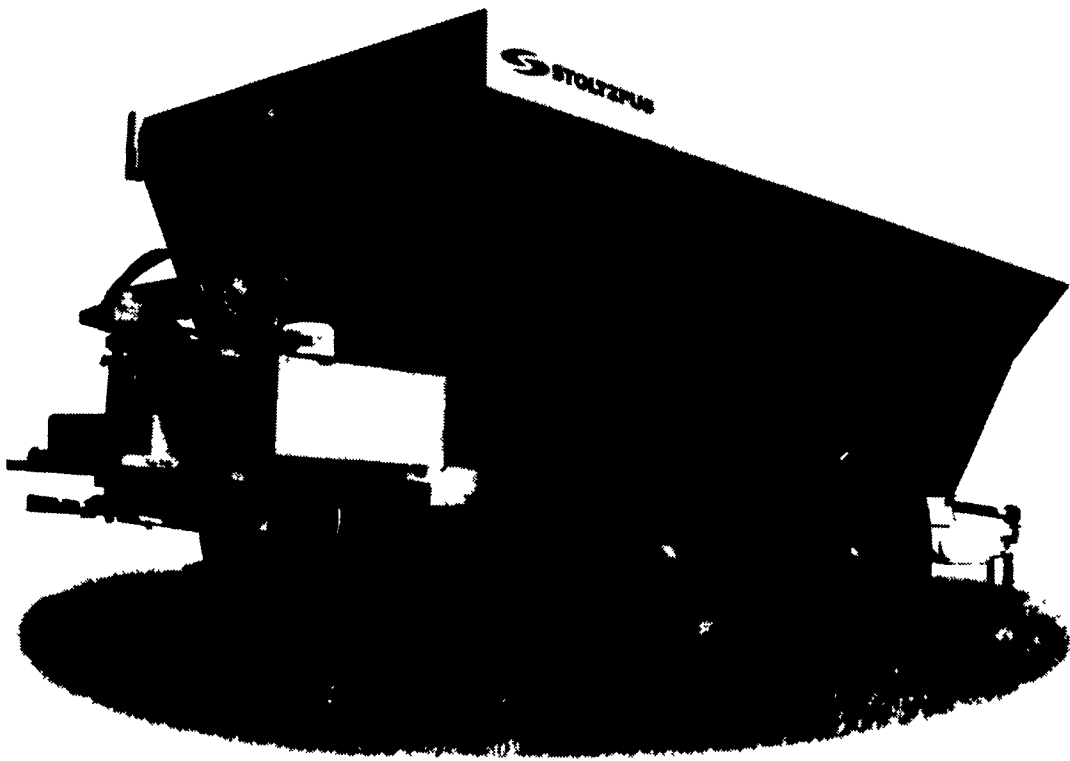

Gold Award winners are 1. Jes-sica Gentry, New Haven, Ky.; 2. Dest Martin, Copan, Okla.; 3. Shaun Neumann, Round Top, Sometimes You Need A Spreader Built Like A Tank.

When spreading stockpiled lime, for example. The Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreader is likely the most powerful spreader of its kind on the market today. You see, we've been building them since 1945, and farmers are still using Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreaders they've had for 20, even 30 years. Our special drag chain is 4 times stronger than stainless steel, and handles frozen and heavy stockpiled lime with ease. Plus, for spreading compost, composted sludge, poultry litter and certain fertilizers, the WLS is without equal for sheer volume spreading. We call that performance. You'll call it terrific. We hope you compare a Stoltzfus WLS with other spreaders. It makes us look even better. Price? Sure we may be a little more. But when you end up replacing cheaper units in a few short years, what have you saved? Stoltzfus quality always pays for itself many times over. Just how tough is a Stoltzfus WLS? Plenty tough. Call today. We'll tell you where to find the dealer nearest you, and send you free literature to inspect.

Tri Day Adeen Holstein Champion At Maryland State Fair

LOIS SZYMANSKI
TIMONIUM, Md. — On September 2, the morning after the Maryland State Holstein Futurity, Holsteins were back in the ring at Cow Palace at the Maryland State Fair. One hundred and six exhibitors showed a total of 184 head of Holsteins with Judge Robert Morrell of Pennsylvania, evaluating each one.

By late afternoon a Grand Champion Holstein was chosen. Tri Day Adeen, a senior two-year-old cow, sired by Marcrest Encore, and owned and exhibited by Kristi and Adrienne Crutch of Osceana Holsteins, Lumberport, West Virginia took all the honors, becoming Grand Champion of Show.

The Reserve Grand Champion of Show was owned and exhibited by King, Strouse and Heffner. The five-year-old cow, Shannondoah Gentry, was sired by Walkway

The Premier breeder award went to My Ladys-Manor Farm.

Chief Mark, who also sired the winning 1994 Maryland Holstein Futurity cow and the 1994 Maryland State Fair Open Holstein show Grand Champion.

"You would have to travel all over the country to find a group of cows as fine as those I judged today," Judge Morrell said. It was his first time to come to the Maryland State Fair, and as a judge he was pleased with what he saw.

My Ladys-Manor Farm was named the Premier Breeder of Show, adding one more feather to the cap of the Smith family. They had won the Holstein Futurity the evening prior.

"We've worked at this a long time," said Robert Smith, who was obviously pleased with how the family cows had fared. My Ladys-Manor Farm is operated by Robert, his dad, Ross Jr., and brothers Ross III, and Harold.

Premier Exhibitor of Show was Savage Leigh Farm, and the family of Wayne and Cindy Savage; Chip, Jami Leigh, Kelli and Ryan Savage of Knowville, Maryland.

The Junior Champion female was Windy-Knoll-View RKB Petrie, a winter heifer calf owned and exhibited by W. Campbell and R. Heifner, who also had the Junior Reserve female, Harvue OCS Astre Christie, a spring yearling heifer.

The Senior Champion was the Reserve Champion of Show, Shannondoah Gentry, and the Reserve Senior Champion went to Ernest and Elliott Kueffner's long-time production cow, R-Sapphire Charo-ET.

The main difference between this annual Holstein show and other cattle shows throughout the year could very well be the crowd that gathers to watch. Held at a State Fair, many of the onlookers knew little about the world of dairy cows. Announcer David Brauning quickly filled visitors in on what was coming in and going out of the ring, adding little known facts for visitors to take home. When the (two-cow) class for longtime production cows entered the ring he said, "To qualify for this class cows must have produced in excess of 100,000 pounds of milk. These two cows have produced over a half million glasses of nature's finest beverage, milk!"

Lancaster DHIA Gives Free SNF Test

JAY MYLIN
Manager

Lancaster DHIA Board of Directors voted to provide SNF testing for all herds at no extra charge at their last board meeting, August 20, 1996. Jere High, Lab Manager, reported that with the upgrade in computer software, SNF testing no longer slows the equipment. The lab network system transfers the SNF data to the laser printer without any involvement from lab personnel. The results will be printed on the pink lab report (CMR #6) received two or three days after the herd is sampled. Lab cost remains $.25 per cow which includes fat, protein, SCC and SNF. M.U.N. test will remain at $.15 per cow option.

Lancaster DHIA serves dairymen in Berks, Chester, Dauphin, Lancaster and York County. For more information on our services call us at (717) 665-5960.

America's Top Horses and Riders Gather in Harrisburg

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The country's best horses and riders—including a number of equine celebrities—will travel to Harrisburg, PA October 10 to 19 to compete in the prestigious Pennsylvania National Horse Show. Held annually at the State Farm Show Arena since 1945, the show is one of the nation's premier equestrian events. Sponsored by the Harrisburg Kiwanis, the show has contributed more than $1.4 million to the benefit of Central Pennsylvania children in its fifty year history.

As the Kentucky Derby kicks off the country's top horse racing series, the Pennsylvania National Horse Show opens the triple crown of horse shows. These shows—the Pennsylvania National in Harrisburg, Washington International in D.C., and The National Horse Show at New York's Madison Square Garden—share a prestige earned over more than fifty years by inviting only the country's best equestrians to participate. Horses and riders compete for the privilege of acceptance.

Among the equine celebrities appearing at the show is Black Beauty, the star of the beloved children's movie. The coal-black Quarter Horse returns by popular demand after drawing record crowds in 1995. Black Beauty will perform nightly Wednesday through Saturday, October 16 to 19 "at liberty"—without rider or tack.

The 1996 show will feature the best the country has to offer in equestrian competition, exhibitions, and even shopping. More than 1,000 horses—hunters, draft horses, saddlebreds, jumpers, roadster horses and ponies and quarter horses—will compete for more than $200,000 in prizes.

America's top Grand Prix horses and riders, including a number of past Olympians, will vie for $50,000 in prize money in the Budweiser Grand Prix. Many of the nation's best saddlebred and roadster horses will travel from across the country and from Canada to compete for Pennsylvania National honors. Horses, riders and hounds representing fox hunts from New Jersey to Virginia will compete as teams Monday night, October 14, culminating in a class where the last jump is taken three abreast. The top seat equestrian riders in the country—all age 18 or younger—have spent the year qualifying for the AHSA Eisers & Pessoa National Hunter Seat Equitation Medal Championship. One will be selected national champion—one of the two greatest honors a young rider can earn—at the show on Sunday, October 13.

Tiny, agile Jack Russell terriers, a traditional part of fox hunting, will race over fences into a simulated fox's lair Monday and Friday nights, October 14 and 18. The North American Fox Hunting Horn Blowing Championship, held for the first time in 1995, will feature representatives of recognized fox hunting packs playing classic hunting melodies. Fine representatives of the Appaloosa, the versatile, spotted breed of horse associated with the Nez Perce Indians, will be showcased on Wednesday night, October 16.

On Family Night, Friday, October 18, one child age 12 and under is admitted free when accompanied by a paying adult. Free pony rides, a Peddle Pull competition and a chance to meet Black Beauty will make the night an unforgettable one for horse-loving kids.

More than 40 shops will feature fine jewelry and equestrian art, sportswear, custom-made shoes and boots, needlework, antique books, saddlery and hand-painted furniture.

Since 1946, the PNHS has raised more than $1.4 million for community organizations that benefit children. Among them are the YMCA, YWCA, Salvation Army, Boys and Girls Clubs, and the Dauphin County Library Learn To Read Project.

Tickets, beginning at $6 for adults and $4 for children ages 12 and under, are available by phone beginning September 3. For more information phone (717) 975-3677

State Fair Features Beef Showmanship Clinic

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — After getting their animals entered and washed on weigh-in day, most 4-H and FFA members probably want to "hit the midway" at the state fair before serious competition begins on ensuing days.

This year, at least 50 youngsters and their parents pushed aside the temptation for an hour or so on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 25, to attend a beef cattle showmanship clinic at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium. The event was arranged by 4-H officials from the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service.

It featured Matt Claey's, an extension youth livestock specialist at North Carolina State University and nationally known livestock judge. Claey's was in Maryland to judge the state fair 4-H and FFA market lamb and breeding shows.

Here are some of his beef cattle showmanship pointers:

•Each exhibitor should carry a show stick and Scotch comb and use a leather-and-chain show halter on the animal.

•Hold halter strap in overhand fashion for maximum control. Tap your steer's nose to gently with thin end of show stick, if necessary, to get his attention. Checking your animal (short tugs on halter strap) when he is moving lets him know you are getting ready to stop.

•Use the Scotch-driving technique to start your animal moving in the show ring. This involves tapping him on the rear flank with the thin end of your show stick while pulling forward on the halter strap.

•Push your calf on his shoulder to make him step back. This may be done with your hand or butt end of show stick.

•Look for hidden hills and valleys in the show ring. Set your animal up for showing on a hill; avoid the valleys.

•Be courteous and exhibit good showmanship in the show ring; help the exhibitor ahead of you in line if his calf gets stubborn and won't move.

•Wear a pleasant look and proper show-ring attire. Avoid military-style camouflage clothing. Wear a leather belt and boots, no sandals or gym shoes. (Boots help to protect your feet if a beef animal accidentally steps on you.)

•Be a livestock person—precise and well-informed. Don't lie to the judges or anyone else. Being a good showman starts with practice at home. Know what your animal is being fed, and how much. Know his average daily gain.

Claey's illustrated his talk with live demonstrations by three 4-H members and their beef steers. While his remarks applied to beef steers, he noted that most of them were also applicable to showmanship techniques for market beef heifers and breed classes.

Frost Could Hurt Late Maturing Cornfields

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Frost may nip Ohio corn yields, according to an Ohio State University agronomist.

Ohio's first frost usually hits from late September to mid-October, depending on the region of the state, Peter Thomison said. Ohio corn, on average, matures by mid-September. But much of Ohio's corn crop, planted late this year because of the wet spring, may not mature before the first freeze arrives. That could cause yield loss, Thomison said.

"Growers need to know what stage of development their corn crop is at to better understand how frost could impact them," he said.

On Aug. 18, 89 percent of the state's corn had reached the silk stage of growth. Normally, all corn has reached this stage by Aug. 18. Corn plants usually need about 60 days from silking to reach maturity. So, even corn that had silked will not mature until

Crop Field Day For Clarion County

CLARION (Clarion Co.) — On September 18, a crop field day will be held at Long Acre Potato Farm in northern Clarion County.

It will feature many corn and soybean plots and tillage demonstrations. There are plots on B+ corn, comparison of starter and sidedress fertilizer programs, weed identification, corn hybrid evaluation, Roundup ready soybeans, inoculation programs for soybeans, and weed control programs for soybeans.

Wagon tours will help the visitors see some of the 1,850 tillable acres of the Long Acre Potato Farm, located in Clarion and Forest County and which is home to 750 acres of corn, 200 acres of wheat, 340 acres of oats, 350 acres of soybeans, and 180 acres of potatoes.

The afternoon program will feature equipment demonstrations including corn planter setup and operation with different row cleaners and chisel plow set up for residue management. A soil compaction comparison will be shown through the use of a soil pit.

Pesticide credits, two core and two category 01, will be available and lunch will be served. Commercial sponsors will be on hand to discuss new products for corn and soybeans in the region.

The field day will be held rain or shine and is sponsored by the Penn State University Cooperative Extension in cooperation with Farm Services Agency and Natur-

Detwiler Gives Percent Of Steer Price

BEDFORD — Carl Allen Detwiler of Roaring Spring sold his reserve grand champion at the Bedford Fair junior beef sale for $1.40 per pound to Joe Appleby of Everett IGA. The steer was then resold with the designation that half the second buyer's price be split between the scholarship fund and the effort to add showers to the barn area restrooms. Detwiler also donated five percent of his earnings to the showers. Detwiler's name was inadvertently missed in our earlier report of the sale.

WILL THE IRS INHERIT YOUR ESTATE?

We can help prevent the loss of your estate due to taxes

New York Life's Survivorship Whole Life policy was created to provide you and your spouse with life insurance coverage, and needed liquidity, when your estate taxes are due.

It works like this: When one spouse dies, the resulting estate tax can be deferred until after the death of the surviving spouse. At that time, the policy's proceeds become available, and can be used to help pay the usually heavy estate tax. In other words, New York Life makes the proceeds available when they're needed the most.

You've worked hard all of your life, and shouldn't have to spend time worrying about what will happen to your estate. Call us for all the details and let us show you why New York Life is The Company You Keep.

SHIPPENSBURG
(Cumberland Co.) — Months of hard work paid off in hard cash for dozens of local 4-Hers during the Cumberland County 4-H Livestock Roundup Sale.

The highest price in the market hog sale was the $800 that Eberts Paints paid for the 237-pound grand champion hog of Kasi Sheaffer of Carlisle.

The champion pair of market hogs, which were raised by Shane Conaway of Newville and weighed in at a combined 486 pounds, brought $840 from Duron Paint Co.

In the market hog showmanship event, the senior division winner was Michelle Cornman of Carlisle. The intermediate showman was William Leib of Mechanicsburg. The junior showman was Morgan Creek of Shippensburg.

The market lamb sale saw Kasi Sheaffer on top again. She sold her 107-pound grand champion to Pine Haven Farm and Shetron Welding for $1,050. Her reserve champion, a 121-pounder, sold to Keith's Farm & Dairy Supply for $950.

Josette Fought of Carlisle sold her champion pair of lambs, which weighed a total of 198 pounds, to Shup's Feed Supply for $410.

The senior showman of market lambs was Kasi Sheaffer. Jennifer Creek of Shippensburg was the intermediate showman and Jaime Fought of Carlisle was the junior showman.

Shane Conaway of Newville sold his 69-pound grand champion market goat to Farmer's Trust Co. for $550. The 71-pound reserve grand champion goat of William Leib sold for $150 to Huntsdale Stock Farm.

The champion pair of goats, which weighed in at a total of 132 pounds and were raised by Derrick Carpenter of Newville, was bought by Shippensburg Agway for $275.

The goat showmanship contest saw Tim Zeigler of Newville emerge as the senior showman. William Leib was the intermediate showman and the junior showman was Morgan Creek.

During the steer sale, the big money was brought home by Michelle Cornman. She sold her 1,065-pound animal to Hoss's Steak and Sea House for $3,300.

The 1,200-pound reserve grand champion steer raised by Bobby Davidson of Shippensburg was bought by Wenger Meats for $1,550.

Michelle Cornman again made the list when it came to rate of weight gain winners. One of her hogs posted a gain of 2.045 pounds per day.

Chris Hershey of Shippensburg had the goat weight gain winner with an animal that gained 0.398 pounds per day.

The steer weight gain winner was an animal raised by Lucas Nailor of Mechanicsburg that gained 2.703 pounds per day. Matt Kerch of Shippensburg had the lamb weight gain winner, an animal that gained 0.909 pounds per day.

All of the big sellers at the sale had done well during the 1995 sale as well.

Shane Conaway had the champion market goat and champion market hog last year. Kasi Sheaffer has had the champion market lamb for three years running now.

Hoss's Steak and Sea House was the buyer of the grand champion steer owned and shown by Michelle Cornman.

Kasi Sheaffer's reserve grand champion market lamb was purchased by Keith's Farm and Dairy Supply.

Simmental Field Day Held

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. — The Maryland Simmental Field Day was held at the Howard County Fairground: Exhibitors from Four States showed animals in breeding and steer classes. The classes were placed by Hank Suchting of Reistertown, Md.

The first class included the heifer calf champion, Pond View Tara, shown by Shane Smithson of White Hall, Md. Joshua Jenkins, Purcellville, Va., with MHF Miss Cherry Red, was first in the second heifer calf class.

Pond View E9, shown by Jennifer Smithson, White Hall, Md., was first in the third heifer calf class.

The July-August Heifer Class had Miss Dynamo, shown by Jessie Amos, of Unionbridge, Md., in first place.

K&K Maggie won the May-June Class for Meghan Saunders, Fleetwood. Shelby Lynn Rarick, Fleetwood, Pennsylvania, had K&K Ms Tootsie, first in the April class.

Pond View Misty, shown by Tiffany Harward, won the largest class of the day. She was awarded reserve junior champion heifer. Meghan Saunders led the junior champion heifer.

The January-February yearling class had FHO Sweetie by Grant Coleman, Elmer, N.J. in first and later champion senior heifer in the last class.

Pond View Val, by Jennifer Smithson, topped the class and was named reserve senior heifer champion. Grand champion heifer was K&K Ms Maggie, and reserve was Tiffany Harward.

The 2-year-old cow-calf was awarded the champion banner while being shown by Melissa McNutt, Street, Md. The reserve champion was shown by Amy Matthews, Frederick, Md., with the 3-year-old or older, AJK Margo.

late September, about the time the first frost could arrive, Thomison said.

The earliest stage corn could be this week and still reach maturity before the average frost date is the dough stage, about 35 days before maturity, Thomison said. But on Aug. 18, only 12 percent of Ohio's crop had reached the dough stage.

The situation looks the same using growing-degree-day (GDD) ratings. The GDD maturity rating system is based on heat units and is usually more accurate in determining corn maturity than the days-to-maturity system. Corn growth is directly related to the accumulation of heat over time rather than the number of calendar days from planting.

After Aug. 19, central Ohio usually has another 670 to 800 GDD before mid-October, the area's average frost date. But, corn in the silk stage at that date needs another 1300 GDD before maturity, Thomison said.

The amount of damage from frost depends on the severity of the freeze and the growth stage when the freeze occurs. Corn in the soft dough stage, 35 days before maturity, will suffer a 35 percent yield loss if only the leaves are damaged. If the entire plant is killed, yield losses could be as much as 55 percent, Thomison said.

In the full dent stage, 15 to 20 days before maturity, leaf damage from frost will cause a 27 percent yield reduction, while death of the whole plant could mean losses of 41 percent. When the milk line is half way down the kernel, about 10 days before maturity, a frost could still cause 6 percent and 12 percent yield losses, respectively.

Growers should assess how much grain they want to sell and how much they need to keep for feed. Farmers who could use silage should consider making silage from cornfields that probably won't mature before the first frost, Thomison said. Corn used for silage is better when harvested at an earlier kernel development stage than grain because of the higher moisture level required for silage.

If growers want to sell some corn and use the rest as feed grain on their farms, they should sell the most mature, low moisture corn and use the high moisture corn as feed. High moisture or frost-damaged corn will not significantly lower the nutritional value of feed, but it will receive a sizable penalty if sold, Thomison said.

On Being a Farm Wife (and other hazards) Joyce Bupp

"Could you use some sweet corn?" offers the voice in this early-morning phone call. It's neighbor John, who lives with his family on their farm adjoining ours. I reluctantly turn down the generous offer, explaining that the sweet corn patch planted for our use is also in a state of prime production.

"Could you use some tomatoes?" I counter, winning a good-natured, thanks-but-no-thanks rejection. After spending most of the cool, cloudy summer wishing for ripe tomatoes, our entire neighborhood is suddenly awash in an abundance of lush, red orbs. Seems most of us have plenty for ourselves and more leftover to share.

This is one of my most treasured aspects of country life.

Neighborhood sharing. Caring. Looking out for one another. When death, accident or illness strike a farm family, friends and neighbors are quick to respond with labor, equipment, meals and a myriad of those kindnesses that help cushion the blow of a tragedy.

For the most part, it is volunteers who man our rural fire and emergency crews, dropping their chores at home or leaving their beds in all sorts of bad weather to respond to others' emergencies. Nowhere is this more visible than in the awesome turnouts that arrive, almost unbidden, in the wake of one of a farmer's worst nightmares — a barn fire.

While most rural neighborhoods seem to share this willingness to demonstrate the Christian value of loving one another, few groups surpass the support system of the Amish community. I have long admired and respected their steadfastness to agriculture, to one another.

It was awe-inspiring to me in recent days to witness for a brief time part of the barn raising for a southern York County Amish family whose farm buildings were destroyed by what was believed to be arson. Volunteers from Amish communities from as far as 100 miles away were reported to have turned out to help.

In the brief little more than an hour I watched the building taking place, a bare, new-yellow-wood barn floor became an anthill of activity. Long wooden spans were carried into place, two dozen sets of arms moving them from the point to assembly onto the floor. There, more lumber and cross-pieces were added until an entire side of a barn wall framing was assembled.

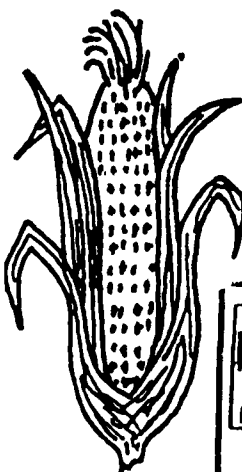

Then, with long poles and an inspiring piece of teamwork, the high, wall frame was slowly, gently, eased up into place. And a perfect fit, it appeared to be. Meanwhile, dozens of other volunteers were putting finishing touches on to metal roofing, pouring concrete, finishing areas for housing a dairy herd.

Just as they built together, communities also once banded together as a group to effectively punish those who were found to be guilty of wanton destruction of property. Unfortunately, lynching has since been banned.

However, one bystander at the barn-raising suggested what might be an appropriate way to deal with individuals who wantonly destroy property by use of fire.

Burning at the stake.

Yvonne Peterman's Reign To End But Promotion Will Continue

LOU ANN GOOD

MUNCY (Lycoming Co.) —

With 165 acres and 70 cows, most farmers are happy to have some sons to help. But Kendall Peterman has said a "million times" that he doesn't need any sons. "I have my girls," he said.

Two of those girls are married and live too far from Peterman's Pride Farm in Muncy to help out. Although the youngest, Yvonne, is the state alternate dairy princess and a full-time college student, she still finds time to work on the farm.

"It was always advantageous to have two older sisters to do the work, but now the disadvantage of being the youngest is that I am the only one left to do all the work," she said.

Her dad refers to his wife Cheryl as also one of his girls. Since he works off the farm as a full-time welder, he does the feeding and crop work and his wife does the milking.

For Kendall, that means rising at 4:30 a.m. to do the feeding so that he can be at work by 6 a.m.

"That's my dad — he was raised that way — to be an overachiever and workaholic," said Yvonne, her voice full of respect and pride for her dad. "He's not happy unless he's accomplishing something."

According to Yvonne, he has passed this characteristic to his daughters. Yvonne believes that work is meant to be enjoyed. While there were a few times during her growing up years that she envied friends for not needing to hurry home to do barn chores, she said, "It's basically worked out for the best. Growing up on the farm taught me to be more responsible."

When it comes to "wants," Yvonne believes she is in the minority compared to others of her generation. She said, "I'm the kind of person who doesn't like to ask for too much because I know what it takes to get it. I don't need a $120 pair of shoes."

As the only girl in her high school class who lived on a farm, Yvonne said that whenever a classmate found out, they'd ask incredulously, "You really live on a farm?"

Yvonne would always retort, "Yes. What do you expect? Me, to look different?"

She's found it exciting to educate people about farming. She said, "People are most surprised to learn how much research and scientific studies are put into raising cows. They think you only need to feed cows grass and the cows give milk. They are surprised at the planning processes required to raise crops successfully and the rotating of crops year after year."

During Ag in the Classroom visits, Yvonne amazes the kids whenever she tells them how much a cow eats.

While Yvonne is in the minority in her county as far as growing up on the farm, she is pleased with the receptivity the community shows in wanting to learn more about farming.

"Unlike many areas, the radio station in our area often calls me and asks me to come and tell them about what I'm doing as dairy princess and about dairy products."

Yvonne has so enjoyed radio speaking that she's thinking about the possibility of pursuing a career in radio.

"My whole future is up in the air right now," the 20-year-old Penn State junior said.

She is majoring in agricultural business management and has a minor in ag communications at Penn State University.

"I've always wanted to go into the business end because I'm more studious, but when I do public speaking, people often tell me, 'You're so good at it, you should go into communications.'"

Some of the poise and articulate fluency that Yvonne exhibits may be attributed to her age. She said, "Unlike many dairy princesses, I waited until I was in college to run for dairy princess because I knew that I could do a better job."

High school activities such as band, basketball, and yearbook would have limited her involvement. For the past two years, she has attended Penn State's Wilkes Barre campus, which is a 45-minute drive from her home. She has been able to schedule classes three days a week and uses the other two days for dairy princess duties.

"It's worked out really well for me. I'm busy every day," Yvonne said.

Although some may disagree, Yvonne's advice to prospective dairy princess is "Wait until your college years. You're mature enough to be committed and responsible to do the work."

Yvonne's commitment to promoting dairy products did not start with her reign as dairy princess. In 1991, her sister Shannon was the Lycoming County dairy princess. That same year, her sister Rhonda was the alternate and Yvonne was a dairy maid. It was real family togetherness as the three sisters worked together in mall, school, and special event promotions.

It was such fun that Yvonne resolved to become a county dairy princess. When she first ran for the position, she was named alternate. She used her experience as alternate as a stepping stone to become the county dairy princess the following year. Not only was she named county dairy princess but also, after competing on the state level with 34 other contestants, Yvonne was named a state alternate.

Unlike many counties, Yvonne takes responsibility for setting up her own dairy promotions and driving to them. She sends out letters requesting appearances and follows up with phone calls. "I have outrageous phone bills," she said.

Yvonne believes that being of college age allows her to be more capable in scheduling and driving independently to appearances. "Committee persons are busy. It doesn't always work out to have to adapt your schedule to theirs," she said.

Yvonne credits PDPPS central district co-chairperson Wanda Yoder of Belleville for helping her achieve so much.

"Wanda is the greatest person, she is so considerate and encouraging. It was Wanda who told the contestants at the breakfast before the pageant to throw your heart over the fence and your body will naturally follow."

Yvonne repeated this advice and its effect on her as part as her impromptu speech.

Yvonne believes her answer was a bit different from the other contestants — enough to give her that winning edge.

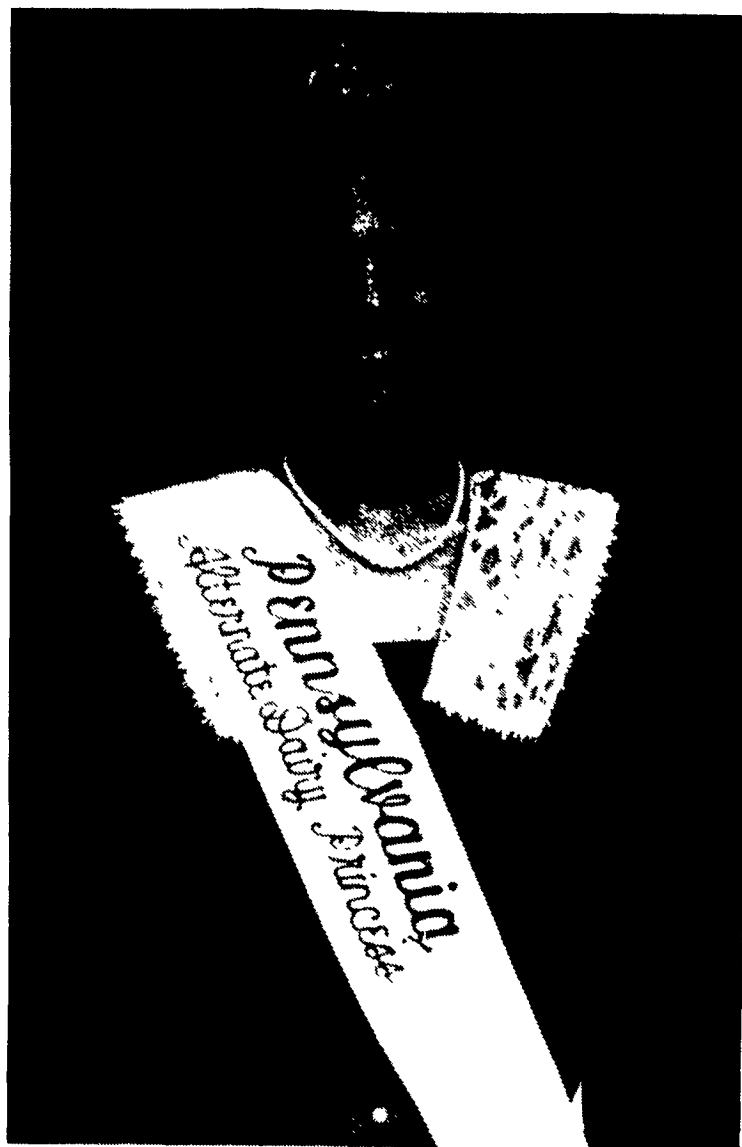

Of the family's 70 cows, about 38 are registered Holsteins and Jerseys. Yvonne's dad is the second generation of his family to farm Peterman's Pride Farm. When Yvonne was 11 years old, the family changed the eight parlor barn to a 38-stall barn.

"We kept the old barn frame, ripped out the inside and put in tie stalls, gutter cleaner, and mats," Yvonne said.

"It's much better, cleaner, and easier to milk," Yvonne said of the change. "The only drawback is that there's not a lot of exercise opportunity for the cows."

Over the summer Yvonne worked at All Sports, putting numbers and names on football Jerseys. "I worked with two other guys and I spent half the time answering their questions about cows," she said.

This is the first semester that Yvonne will dorm at college. Her roommates share her enthusiasm for dairy promotion. One is Jen Davis, a former Berks County dairy princess and current ambassador. Another is Angela Worley, the current Berks County dairy princess. The third is Joanne Kirst, Cattleman's Queen.

Dairy promotion is a way of life for Yvonne Peterman. Growing up on a dairy farm, she found she was a minority among her peers. At an early age, she learned that the non-farming community is intrigued to learn that raising cows involves much more than feeding them grass and milking them. In Lycoming County, Yvonne has represented the dairy industry by serving as a dairy maid, the alternate and later the county dairy princess, and now is Pennsylvania Alternate Dairy Princess.

After working in dairy promotion, Pennsylvania Alternate Dairy Princess Yvonne Peterman discovers she enjoys public speaking and hopes she can continue to communicate her knowledge of the dairy industry to the non-farming public.

State Dairy Princess Pageant Will Select New Royalty

Yvonne's reign is coming to an end. On September 21, she with Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Rhonda Kieklak and the other state alternate, Heather Oberholtzer, will relinquish their titles when the new state royalty will be selected from county dairy princesses.

The pageant and dinner held at the Sheraton Inn-East in Harrisburg will be a special celebration for the 40th year of Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services, Inc.

State dairy princesses who reigned since the program began in 1956 will introduce themselves. Tickets are $20 each for the milk punch and cheese reception that begins at 5:30 p.m. and the dinner that begins at 6:30 p.m.

Reservations may be made for the pageant and dinner by completing and mailing in the following form.

The Best In Bag Lunches Marlene O. Nash, R.D. Multi-County Nutrition/Health Agent

With school back in session, the challenge of packing a nutritious and tempting lunch for your child has again arisen. The standard sandwich and fruit can become a monotonous lunch for kids. The following suggestions can add interest and maintain nutrition for your bag lunch at work as well.

Strive for variety, starting with the bread selection. Try different kinds of breads — pumpernickel, cinnamon, raisin, French or oatmeal. Experiment with different shapes, such as, pita, bagels, tortillas, crackers, or English muffins. Some of these, like the crackers, may be high in sodium. However, this selection can be balanced by choosing lower sodium items at the next meal.

If your child objects to sandwich filling mixtures like chicken salad, keep it simple with sliced chicken or turkey. Otherwise, experiment with different fillings. Mix tuna or flaked fish with bean sprouts, alfalfa sprouts, or mandarin oranges with a small amount of salad dressing. Try chopped cooked meats or poultry with shredded cabbage, minced onion, and plain, lowfat yogurt. Season with pepper and dry mustard. Go vegetarian with a mashed bean mixture that is low in fat and high in fiber. (Recipe follows.)

You can also add variety to the lunch by providing a snack as a treat. Make a snack mix with bite-size wheat, rice, corn, and bran ready-to-eat cereals or unsalted pretzels, nuts, sunflower seeds and raisins. Dried fruits can be an alternative dessert.

It is not necessary to include a food from each food group in your children's lunch every day as long as they get adequate amounts from all the food groups in your other meals and snacks during the day.

If your children are tired of sandwiches, try some of these cold foods:

- Plain, lowfat yogurt and fruit.
- Raw vegetable salad with strips of lean cooked meat or poultry.
- Cottage cheese and raw vegetable pieces.
- Fresh fruits and cheese.
- Brown rice salad with cubes of roast beef or stewed chicken.
- Cold cooked pasta with raw or cooked vegetables.

- Vegetables marinated in salad dressing with cubes of cheese.

It's important to remember food safety practices when packing bag lunches. Foods such as hard-cooked eggs, meats, milk and milk products and salads containing them, should be refrigerated until just before leaving home. Keep your cold foods cold by using an insulated nylon lunch bag instead of a brown bag; include an ice pack or gel freezer pack; use a vacuum bottle for foods that need to be kept cold, like milk and yogurt, for example.

MEXICAN BEAN SANDWICH

- 2 servings, 1 sandwich each
- 1 teaspoon vinegar
 - ¼ - 1 teaspoon chili powder
 - ¼ teaspoon onion powder
 - 2 teaspoons salad dressing, mayonnaise-type
 - ¾ pinto or kidney beans, cooked, drained, unsalted, chopped (see Note)
 - 3 tablespoons celery, chopped
 - 2 flour tortillas
 - 4 slices tomato
 - 2 leaves lettuce

1. Mix vinegar, chili powder, and onion powder with salad dressing in a bowl. Add beans and celery; mix well.

2. Soften flour tortillas in a heated frypan about 1½ minutes. Turn, if necessary.

3. Place half of bean filling onto each tortilla near one edge. Top with lettuce and tomato. Roll up.

NOTE: Canned, drained pinto or red kidney beans may be used in place of cooked beans. Sodium will be 318 milligrams for beans and 282 milligrams for kidney beans.

Nutrients per Serving: 175 calories; 3 grams total fat; 1 gram saturated fatty acids; 1 milligram cholesterol; and 53 milligrams sodium.

Snacks Fill Nutrition Niche

NEWARK, Del. — The snack is finally being recognized as a legitimate food source, and not just food for entertainment's sake. In fact, for certain age groups, snacking can add the missing components that make up an overall nutritionally sound diet.

According to Dr. Sue Snider, University of Delaware Cooperative Extension food and nutrition specialist, teens are especially susceptible to snacking.

"Studies have shown that up to half of all teens skip breakfast regularly," Snider says. "This leads to more snacking, especially in the mid-morning."

The specialist says that many teens actually seem to subsist on snacks. A whole week may go by without the teen consuming a traditional full-course meal. Unfortunately, teens may choose snacks that are likely to have excessive amounts of sugar, salt and fat. Snacks for vending machines and fast-food restaurants often fall into this category.

Because adolescents have an increased need for protein, iron and vitamin C, they can try building snacks around these nutrients. In addition, Snider suggests they keep in mind the Dietary Guidelines for Americans that recommend reducing fat and sodium intake and increasing dietary fiber. Snider says parents can encourage their teens to eat healthily just by keeping nutritionally sound choices in the pantry.

Good choices to keep on hand include:

- Fresh fruits, including citrus fruits for their high vitamin C content.
- Yogurt and cheese to supply protein and calcium.
- Sandwiches on whole-grain bread to provide protein and dietary fiber. Avoid using luncheon meats that are high in fat and sodium.
- Instant soups and hot cereals for quick hot snacks.
- Low-fat munchies such as pretzels or popcorn.
- Raw vegetables.

Attention Researchers And Genealogists

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — The Hershey Museum is offering a two-party workshop on "Using the State Library and Archives." Researcher, Jim Beidler will acquaint participants with the historical and genealogical resources and services available at these sites, as well as methods for maximizing research time at an unfamiliar site.

From 10:00 a.m.-noon on Thursday, October 3, participants will meet at the Hershey Museum. Here, Jim will introduce the strengths and weaknesses of each repository, talk about the use of primary sources, and give hints on how to prepare for a research day.

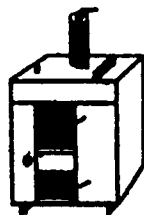

On Friday, October 4, participants will meet at the State Archives in Harrisburg from 9:00 a.m.-11:30 a.m., and the State Library from 12:30 p.m.-3:00 p.m. At each site, participants will receive a short orientation tour before being able to conduct individual research with assistance from the instructor.

Class size is limited, so call (717) 534-3439 for registration fees and information. The Hershey Museum is a non-profit, educational and cultural organization administered by the M.S. Hershey Foundation and is located at the west end of Hersheypark Arena.

Home on the Range

Pack Creativity Into Lunches

School days are here again! In most households the start of a new school year means buying school clothes, planning your child's lunch and making after school arrangements for each child. It also means having snack foods for children when they come home from school or providing snacks for the child to take to an after-school program.

Parents with young children have an advantage when planning snacks because they have greater control over the snack choices. Parents, not the children, are responsible for the food shopping and make the final decision concerning food choices in their homes. These are important patterns to establish as research indicates adolescents continue to follow the snack pattern they develop during early childhood.

How do you determine what to buy for snacks? Do you ask your child what he/she wants? Do you get your child what "you like" for a snack? Does your child get snack ideas from tv ads? Do you plan snacks based on your child's nutritional needs?

Children's snacks should contribute to their total nutrient needs for the day. This translates into selection of foods from the bottom half of the Food Guide Pyramid most frequently; grain based foods, fruits and vegetables.

The designer sandwich is a nice snack for any age child. You start with a bread — white, whole wheat, raisin, French, pita, English muffin, bagel, hot dog roll, muffin, biscuit, etc. Combine equal amounts of regular peanut butter and plain yogurt; mix in small amount of flavor — jelly, maple syrup, concentrated juices, applesauce, mashed bananas, crushed pineapple, etc. Add sprinkles — raisins, chopped nuts, crisp rice cereal, granola, sprouts, shredded carrots, shredded zucchini, sesame seeds, etc. Serve with a glass of milk and you have a delicious snack supplying your child with nutrients instead of empty calories.

The parent could provide several choices of breads for the child to choose. The child (with adult supervision) could mix the peanut butter base and store in the refrigerator and add a different flavor item each day. Parents would prepare the sprinkle choices such as shredding the carrots or zucchini.

Another quick, child friendly recipe to make on a weekend is "snack mix." The parent and the child should check the pantry to find things for the mix. Is there a box of cereal that is almost empty and nobody wants to eat it? Dump the cereal in a bowl and have the child separate the cereal pieces from the crumbs, saving pieces for later. Pop a big bowl of plain popcorn — this is the base for the mix. Add cereal pieces you separated. You can add additional cereal pieces if your child has a favorite. Add pretzel pieces or small crackers and raisins or mini marshmallows.

Be creative when searching for food for the mix. Mix well and place a cup of mix into individual storage bags. Parents should store the bags and leave out only one bag per child per day. This encourages the child to eat all of the ingredients in the bag rather than eating one item in the mix.

Danish Salad is another easy to prepare recipe for children. Have your child select two or three fruits they like; put small amount of each into a bowl and add ¼ up plain or vanilla yogurt and mix. If your child is using canned fruits, parents should open the can and put contents into refrigerator container the child can open safely if they are making their own snacks.

Muffins are popular with children and these can be made in the mini pans to keep the snack small. Most muffin recipes can be adjusted to increase calcium by adding ¼ cup of nonfat dried milk solids to the dry ingredients in the recipe. Good muffin choices are fruit or vegetable muffins — pumpkin, applesauce, carrot, or zucchini.

Snacks are an important food source in a child's diet, providing 25% to 35% of their total daily food intake. If snacks consist mainly of candy, chips, soda or Hi-C children are getting lots of calories from sugar and fat but very few vitamins or minerals necessary for growth and development.

How do you encourage your child to choose nutritious snacks? Start by showing them "nutritious" examples by the choices you make for snacks. Use the "Nutrition Facts" label when purchasing snacks to determine the amount of fats and sugars compared to vitamins and minerals. Allow your child to help make snacks — children will be more willing to try a food they have helped prepare. This is an excellent opportunity to teach food safety basics — always wash your hands before starting food preparation and before eating!

When it comes to sandwiches, vary the taste by trying raisin bread, or a pita, English muffin, bagel, biscuit, or one of the many other breads available today.

GINGER SNAPS

- 1 cup shortening
- 2 cups dark molasses
- ½ cup brown sugar
- ½ cup water
- 7 cups flour, approximately
- 2 teaspoons ginger
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons baking soda

Combine molasses, sugar, and water, and cook slowly for 15 minutes. Just before removing from heat, add shortening and ginger. Stir until shortening is melted. Cool mixture, and add baking soda, flour, and salt.

Mix ingredients thoroughly. The dough should be very stiff. Chill dough for several hours in refrigerator.

Turn out dough on lightly floured board and roll as thin as possible. Cut with round cookie cutter and place half-inch apart on a greased cookie sheet.

Bake at 375 degrees until crisp and golden brown. Makes 8 dozen.

These cookies improve if allowed to ripen in a stone jar for several weeks.

Oh No! More Zucchini?

While you may be inundated with this prolific summer squash, you should know that half of a medium-sized zucchini contains few calories but provides a quarter of the recommended daily allowance of vitamin C plus some vitamin A, calcium, iron, and potassium.

The following recipe is from The American Cancer Society Cookbook, which recommends zucchini as an excellent source to get the three to five daily servings of vegetables are recommended by the U.S.D.A.

Sauteed zucchini dressed with yogurt or sour cream is a delicious, quick vegetable recipe. Because sour cream is higher in fat content, it is healthier to substitute low-fat yogurt.

SAUTEED ZUCCHINI WITH YOGURT AND HERBS

- 1 pound zucchini (about 3 small)
- 2 teaspoons butter
- 1 small onion, sliced and separated into rings
- 6 tablespoons yogurt or sour cream
- 2 tablespoons fresh chopped parsley
- ½ teaspoon crumbled oregano or 2 teaspoons chopped fresh
- Salt and freshly ground pepper

Trim ends with zucchini. In food processor or by hand, slice zucchini thin. In heavy skillet, melt butter over medium heat; add onion and cook, stirring, until tender. Add zucchini and cook, stirring often, just until barely tender, about 5 minutes.

Remove from heat and stir in yogurt, parsley, oregano, and salt and pepper to taste. Stir to coat well and serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

QUESTION — Christine Ayers of Clarks Summit would like a recipe for apple cider doughnuts.

QUESTION — A faithful New York reader would like a recipe for an old-fashioned strawberry shortcake with a cooked frosting.

ANSWER — Christine Ayers of Clarks Summit wanted a recipe for cabbage salad that tastes like that made at the Country Cupboard Restaurant in Lewisburg. Thanks to Trudy Ashelman, Orangeville, for sending the recipe.

Country Cupboard's Creamed Cabbage

- 1 head cabbage
- 2-3 celery stalks
- ½ carrot for color
- 1½ cups sugar
- ½ cup vinegar
- 1½ cup mayonnaise
- ½ teaspoon salt

Remove heart and bad leaves from the cabbage and shred. Chop celery and carrot very fine. Mix vinegar, sugar, and mayonnaise together. Add all dry ingredients. Add to the cabbage, celery, and carrot, mixing well. Chill for 2 hours before serving or for best flavor, set overnight.

ANSWER — Thanks to Mae Stancill, Bel Air, Md., for answering Melva Baumer's request for main course dished that can be hauled to the field to feed hired help. Here are some of Mae's favorites, which may be served with salad or another side dish.

Quick Tater Tot Bake

- ¾ to 1 pound ground beef or turkey
- 1 small onion, chopped
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 16-ounces frozen tater tot potatoes
- 1 can cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
- ½ soup can milk or water
- 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese

In a skillet, brown the meat and onion. Drain fat. Season with salt and pepper. Place in a greased 1½ -2-quart casserole. Top with potatoes. Combine soup and milk or water; pour over potatoes. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-40 minutes. Serves 2-3.

Chicken And Dressing Casserole

- 1 stick butter
- 1 can cream of chicken soup
- Celery, chopped
- 1 chicken boiled, boned, diced
- 1 package Peppridge Farm stuffing
- Onion, chopped

Melt butter in baking dish. Reserve 1 cup stuffing, mix remainder with butter. Add chicken Layer with onion and celery. Smooth this over. Add soup. Smooth again. Add reserved stuffing. Pour 2 cups chicken broth over mixture. Bake at 350 for 30-45 minutes. Freezes well, but do not add broth until ready to bake.

Crisp Crusted Baked Chicken

- 1 frying chicken, cut up
- 1 egg
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 1 cup instant potato flakes
- 1 teaspoon garlic powder
- ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
- ¼ cup butter
- Celery leaves and thinly sliced celery for garnish
- Wash chicken pieces and pat dry. Set aside.
- Beat egg and milk in bowl. In another bowl, mix potato flakes, garlic powder and Parmesan cheese.
- Roll chicken first in egg mix, then in potato flakes mixture.
- Melt butter in shallow baking pan. Roll coated chicken pieces in the butter and place skin side up in the pan.
- Bake at 400 degrees for 45-50 minutes or until juices from thighs run clear when pierced with a fork. Transfer to serving platter, garnish with celery leaves and celery slices and serve.
- To reduce calories, fat, and cholesterol, remove skin from chicken before coating; use diet margarine and egg whites only.
- Serves 4.

Baked Ham

- 1½ cups packed brown sugar
- 2 cups pineapple juice
- 1 tablespoon dry mustard
- 2 cups diced pineapple, drained
- 1 precooked boned ham (8-9 pounds)
- Whole cloves
- Gingerale
- Mix brown sugar, pineapple juice, mustard and pineapple in blender or mixer. Place ham on rack in pan, score fat and stud with cloves. Pour pineapple mixture over ham. Bake one hour at 350 degrees. Reduce heat to 300 and bake two hours longer. As juice in pan evaporates, add gingerale. Baste ham every 15 minutes, adding gingerale as needed. Thirty minutes before cooking time is completed, remove rack from pan, and place ham in direct contact with liquid.

HUMMUS

- 4-6 cups chick peas, blended
- 1 tablespoons tahini paste
- ½ cup lemon juice
- ½ cup olive oil
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 4-8 cloves garlic

Blend chick peas with about ¼ cup juice, 2 cups at a time, and put into bowl. Add tahini (don't lick tahini unless you want to taste it for a week), lemon juice, oil, salt, and garlic. Whip until heavy paste. Garnish with parsley and paprika. Spread lightly on pita bread for sandwiches or on flat bread. Add shredded carrots, lettuce, sliced cucumbers, tomatoes, onions, or desired ingredients. Roll up flat bread. Hummus is a high protein food often served in the Middle East.

COLD MEAT SANDWICH

- 1 to 2 cups leftover meat, chopped
- 1 small onion, peeled and chopped
- 2 tablespoons green relish
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice (optional)
- Dash pepper
- ½ to 1 cup mayonnaise
- Use leftover cooked beef, ham, chicken or turkey. Combine chopped meat, onion, relish, lemon juice, pepper, and mayonnaise.

HEAVENLY HERO SANDWICH

- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 2 tablespoons wine vinegar
- 2 teaspoons dried oregano
- Dash garlic powder
- 1 pound assorted deli meat
- ½ pound assorted deli cheeses
- 6 large olives
- Tomato slices, lettuce, and red onion slices
- Loaf of Italian bread, split
- Mix mayonnaise, vinegar, and herbs; spread on Italian bread. Layer on lettuce, tomato, onion, meats, and cheese. Top with large olive held on with a toothpick. Serves 6.

ROLLED CHOCOLATE COOKIES

- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup shortening
- 2 eggs
- ¼ cup cocoa
- ½ cup boiling water
- Flour
- 1 cup sour milk or buttermilk
- 1½ teaspoons baking soda
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- Mix sugar, shortening and eggs, stir in cocoa, which has been dissolved in boiling water. Dissolve soda in sour milk and add. Then add vanilla, salt, and flour. Use just enough flour to make it stiff enough to roll. If dough is chilled in refrigerator a few hours, or overnight, it will take less flour to roll, and produce a softer cookie. Bake at 375 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes. Makes 5 dozen.

- 1 pound ground beef
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 can tomato soup
- ½ cup raw rice
- 2 tablespoons parsley
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ½ cup water

Combine all ingredients except soup and water. Mix well and shape into balls, put in casserole dish. Combine soup and water, pour over meat. Cover and bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Uncover and bake 30 minute longer.

Texas Barbecue

- 1 pound ground beef
- ½ onion
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon paprika
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon mustard
- ¼ teaspoon chili powder
- ¼ teaspoon red pepper
- 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- ¼ cup vinegar
- 1 cup tomato juice
- ¼ cup catsup
- ½ cup water

Brown ground beef, drain, and add remaining ingredients. Simmer slowly for about one hour.

Diced Beef And Chicken Casserole

- 1 package dried beef
- 1 can cream of mushroom soup
- 1 can cream of chicken soup
- ¾ cup milk
- 8 pieces boneless chicken breast
- 8 ounces sour cream
- 1 box cornbread mix

Break dried beef in pieces and put in bottom of 9x13-inch pan. Place 8 pieces chicken on top of beef. Mix soup with sour cream and milk. Pour over chicken. Cover tightly with foil, bake 2½ -3 hours at 325 degrees. Sprinkle dry corn bread mix over top and put butter on top. Bake again, covered, 35-45 minutes.

Quick And Easy Baked Chicken

- 10-ounce jar apricot preserves
- 8-ounce bottle Russian dressing
- 1 package dry onion soup mix
- 1 chicken, cut up

Mix first three ingredients and pour over chicken. Bake at 350 degrees for 1½ hours. Serve over rice.

Chicken Supreme

- 4 whole chicken breasts or 2 fryers
- 8 ounces sour cream
- 1 can cream of chicken soup
- 3 cups crushed Ritz or Toll House crackers
- ½ cup butter, melted

Panboil chicken 25 minutes and debone. Place chicken in lightly buttered oblong baking dish. Mix together soup and sour cream, pour over chicken. Toss crumbs and melted butter and sprinkle on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves 6.

ANSWER — A reader wanted a recipe for tomato jam not jelly that had been printed on the recipe sheet in the Sure Jel box. Thanks to Anna Mae Zimmerman, East, Earl, who sent in the recipe that she clipped many years ago. Although the amounts are listed, the complete directions were not included. Imagine you can use these ingredients and following directions according to recent instructions in a Sure Jel box.

Tomato Jam (spiced)

Scald, peel, and chop tomatoes. Cover and simmer 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Measure 3 cups into 6- or 8-quart saucepot. Add 1½ teaspoons grated lemon rind, ½ teaspoon each allspice and cinnamon and ¼ teaspoon ground cloves to tomatoes.

- 3 cups prepared tomatoes
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 4½ cups sugar
- 1 box Sure-Jell fruit pectin
- 5 cups sugar

ANSWER — Lynne Adams, Bloomsburg, wanted a recipe for a cookie called pecan biscotti. Thanks to Trudy Ashelman, Orangeville, who sent a recipe.

Pecan Biscotti

- Nonstick spray coating
 - 2 cups all-purpose flour
 - 2 teaspoons baking powder
 - 2 teaspoons aniseed, crushed
 - 1 teaspoon finely shredded lemon peel
 - ¼ cup butter
 - ½ cup sugar
 - 2 eggs
 - ¾ cup finely chopped pecans
- Spray a large baking sheet with nonstick spray coating; set aside.

In a mixing bowl, stir together flour, baking powder, aniseed, and lemon peel. Set aside.

In a small mixer bowl, beat butter with electric mixer on medium speed until softened. Add sugar; beat until fluffy. Add eggs; beat well. Stir in flour mixture and pecans.

On waxed paper, shape dough into two 12-inch-long logs. Place on prepared baking sheet; flatten logs slightly. Bake in 375 degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool completely on wire racks about one hour. Cut each log into ½ -inch slices. Arrange slices, cut side down, on the baking sheet.

Bake in a 300 degree oven for 10 minutes. Turn over; bake 5 to 10 minutes longer or until crisp and dry. Cool completely on wire racks. Makes 48 cookies.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)

— They zip through our backyards at speeds sometimes topping 50 miles per hour and we often mistake them for large insects and quickly make way. Only after they pass do we realize we've just been buzzed by a hummingbird.

Wrapping up their migration from wintering grounds in Central America and Mexico, hummingbirds began trickling into Pennsylvania in late April. They often return to places providing a reliable food source — flowers or artificial feeders — or an ideal nesting site. But every year, there are young or displaced hummers looking for a place to spend summer, and countless Pennsylvanians are trying to attract them.

Hummingbirds appear throughout the state: less in urbanized and densely forested areas, more in rural and suburban sections. The birds tend to frequent areas offering the best feeding and nesting sites. Prime locations include woodlands with openings, edges of forests and waterways, fields with patches of wild flowers and backyards.

Although about 15 hummingbird species breed in the United States, the ruby-throated hummingbird is the only one that nests east of the Mississippi River. It's been coming to the commonwealth since colonial times.

As early as the mid-1600s, colonists recognized hummers as migrants, birds that came and left with warm weather. And the little birds charmed our forefathers. John James Audubon said, "The sight of a hummingbird . . . filled my heart with delight." W.E. Clyde Todd, a 20th century Pennsylvania ornithologist, noted, "... its very smallness intrigues the curiosity of the casual beholder."

Since 1975 there have been about a half dozen confirmed sightings of one other hummingbird species in the state: the rufous hummingbird. All have occurred in October and November, when the bird migrates. Considering this, it's a safe bet you won't see this one in your backyard over summer.

Male ruby-throats have a scarlet throat patch — or gorget — females, gray. Both sexes have metallic green plumage on the back and wings with a grayish-white underside.

The scarlet gorget is comprised of specialized feathers. When light hits them, the feathers reflect in one direction. If you're aligned with the reflection, you'll see the plumage at its iridescent best. If not, the throat patch will appear black.

"Hummingbirds get their name from the sound their wings make while in flight, not vocalizations," said Pennsylvania Game Commission biologist Dan Brauning. "Their wings beat from 50 to 75 times per second and make a sound similar to the buzz of a bumblebee. Ruby-throats do sing and hum. But their vocalizations aren't nearly as pleasant to the ear as those of other birds."

Speed and perpetual motion punctuate almost everything these unusual birds do. Their hearts beat more than 600 times a minute. They lap nectar at a rate of about a dozen licks per second. They also feed about every five minutes, mainly to satisfy their exceptionally high metabolism, a necessity for a hyperactive bird that motors like this feathered whirlybird does.

Because hummers are continuously converting food to energy, they spend a great deal of time feeding, looking for food or guarding reliable food sources from other hummingbirds and insects. That makes these birds very easy to attract to and hold in backyards. And many Pennsylvanians do.

"Feeding hummingbirds is probably Pennsylvania's number one summertime bird feeding activity," said Brauning. "Most residents hang commercial feeders, but more and more appear to be planting flowers to attract hummingbirds to their yards."

There's quite a variety of commercial feeders available. Choose one to your liking and put in a place where human activity is limited. Boil and cool a mixture of one part granulated sugar and four parts water to fill your feeder. Commercial nectars are also available. Do not use honey; it ferments and subsequently becomes a health threat to hummers.

Feeders should be washed in hot water and dishwashing liquid and rinsed every week or two. Otherwise infectious fungus may begin to grow on it. Pay particular attention to the feeding ports while washing.

Feeders provide an essential high energy food to hummingbirds, but the birds — especially their nestlings, which begin hatching in June — also require food with protein. Insects, ranging from gnats to flying ants, are usually preyed upon to provide this protein. Hummers most frequently catch insects while using their long, slender tongues to probe for nectar inside blossoms.

Hummingbirds are attracted to red. That's why most feeders and the flowers that are hummingbird magnets have red components. But hummingbirds don't have to see red to be pulled into your yard. The blossoms on a horse chestnut or black locust tree draw hummers, as do hanging fuchsia plants and patches of jewelweed.

Flowers that almost always attract hummingbirds, so long as the birds are in the area, include scarlet paintbrush, morning glory or petunias, coral bells, trumpet creeper or honeysuckle, gladiolus and begonias.

Once a hummingbird — or pair — claims your backyard as its own, it's usually only a matter of time before another hummer tries to move in. That's when the dog-fighting begins. Chasing usually gets the job done for hummers with home-yard advantage, but occasionally they use their claws and sometimes their elongated beaks to get their point across.

Hummers build their half-dollar-sized nests from a few feet to several dozen feet off the ground. The nests are constructed with plant stems and leaves, bound with spiderwebs and camouflaged with bits of lichens. Ruby-throats often raise two broods of two over a summer. Young begin flying about three weeks after hatching. Shortly after that they're on their own.

"Long-term population trends show our summertime hummingbird population has been at least stable and possibly increasing," Brauning noted. "The population is highest in the state's western two-thirds; scattered in the Poconos and patchy in the southeastern counties."

Hummingbirds will remain in Pennsylvania until the autumn's cold weather and shriveling flowers force them south. Feeding along the way, they'll head to the coast of the Gulf of Mexico, which they eventually cross in their trek to wintering grounds once they've stored enough fat to fuel the nonstop 500- to 600-mile journey.

Both the story and the pictures in "The Rooster's Gift," portray a delightful tale of life among the flock.

The Rooster's Gift

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Award-winning author Pam Conrad shares her great gift for storytelling in this modern day classic, "The Rooster's Gift."

Rooster has a special gift. He thinks that when he calls "Cot Cot Cot Cot Ca-toodle tooooo," he makes the sun come up. All of the chicks, especially Smallest Hen, are in awe of him.

Rooster is pretty proud of his magical gift as well—too proud. Until one morning when he oversleeps, and the unthinkable happens. . . the sun rises without him! Rooster is heartbroken and bewildered. What is his gift, if it isn't to make the sun rise?

The book shows how one young rooster, through his friendship with one small hen, comes to terms with his unique role in the grand scheme of things.

This delightful story with its brilliantly colored illustrations is targeted for the 4-8-year-old age group, but even adults will enjoy reading it aloud. The pictures by Eric Beddows appear almost three dimensional in the use of detail, sculpting, and shadow, which heighten the barnyard drama.

The hard-cover book, to be published by Harper Collins Publishers this month will be available for $15.95 at bookstores.

Smart Stuff

WITH TWIG WALKINGSTICK

Why don't you see other flowers besides wildflowers along roadsides?

Because everything about the colorful "wild" flowers helps them thrive there!

Most flowers in a floral shop are kind of like tamed grandchildren or great-grandchildren of wildflowers. These tamed flowers are what floriculturists call hybrids. That means people have selected and mixed the best qualities of different flowers to get something they want — like big, showy petals or a certain color. People raise these flowers so they all look the same, because it's easier to sell flowers in groups.

People shouldn't plant these pretty, uniform hybrid flowers along the highway, though. The more people mix different flowers, and get away from the original wildflower, the more susceptible the flowers become to disease and weather and things like that.

Wildflowers are a different matter. If you look closely, none of the flowers look exactly like each other, and they are a jumble of different kinds of flowers and colors. If one flower doesn't grow, another kind will. Wildflowers are nature's toughest flower design!

Scientifically yours,

Adams County

4-H Horse Show Held

The Adams County 4-H Horse Show was held July 27 at the Halcyon Farm, Ltd. near Dillsburg.

Nineteen 4-H members took part in the day-long competition, exhibiting their horse or pony in at least one of 44 classes. Each member works with their animal all year and also completes a project book. Members must attend 5 club meetings throughout the year, give an oral presentation, complete their project book, collect 3 class sponsors, and receive a grooming and showmanship score.

The county show, judged by Jim Trail of Chambersburg, marks the conclusion of a year of work for the 4-H members.

English Grooming & Showmanship — Senior Division: 1. Bobbi Jordan; 2. Sarah Sokolovich; 3. Bethany Dorr.

Western Grooming & Showmanship — Senior Division: 1. Jamie Lau.

Walk-Trot Equitation — Therapeutic Riding Division: 1. Nicholas Demko.

Obstacle Trail Course — Therapeutic Riding Division: 1. Nicholas Demko.

Open Trail Ponies: 1. Sarah Smith; 2. Katie Brady.

Open Trail Horses: 1. Amanda Walde; 2. Mariah Weir; 3. Sarah Emig.

Hunter Seat Equitation (not to jump) — Junior Division: 1. Abby Hoffman; 2. Savannah Ruth; 3. Katie Brady.

Hunter Seat Equitation (not to jump) — Senior Division: 1. Renee Cover; 2. Sarah Emig.

Hunter Under Saddle Ponies: 1. Savannah Ruth; 2. Sarah Smith; 3. Katie Brady.

Hunter Under Saddle Horses: 1. Renee Cover; 2. Bobbi Jordan; 3. Sarah Emig.

Hunter Hack Ponies: 1. Sarah Smith; 2. Katie Brady; 3. Savannah Ruth.

Working Hunter Horses: 1. Julie Fitzgerald; 2. Bobbi Jordan; 3. Sarah Sokolovich.

Hunter Seat Equitation (over jumps) — Senior Division: 1. Julie Fitzgerald; 2. Bobbi Jordan; 3. Sarah Sokolovich.

Pleasure Pairs: 1. Katie Brady & Summer Staub; 2. Bethany Dorr; 3. Sarah Emig.

The top 3 entries or top 2 pair in these classes are eligible to represent Adams County at the District 4-H Horse Show, August 17 at the Lebanon County Fairgrounds.

Winners in County-only classes include:

Horse Walk-Trot Warm-Up: 1. Julie Fitzgerald; 2. Sarah Emig; 3. Andrea Sponseller.

Pony Walk-Trot Warm-Up: 1. Sarah Smith; 2. Savannah Ruth; 3. Abby Hoffman.

Open Pleasure: 1. Mariah Weir.

K-Hill Farm has donated two traveling trophies for Working Hunter Horse and Working Hunter Pony, in memory of a special horse and pony. Abby Hoffman, riding Sadie Dreamcatcher, received the Working Hunter Pony trophy. Julie Fitzgerald successfully defended last year's title on Simply Irresistible, taking home the Working Hunter Horse trophy for the second consecutive year.

4-H Dairy Members Successful At Districts

A total of 165 head from nine counties were shown before type judges Ron Heffner, Jefferson, Md. and Mike Iager, Fulton, Md.

The day began with the showmanship contest. In the senior division, 14-18 year olds, Joy Hess, Gettysburg, placed third. The intermediate division included 4-H members 11-13 years of age. Shannon Holtzinger, East Berlin, placed third. In the junior division, 8-10 year olds, champion was Brad Campbell, New Oxford. Mollie Van Lieu, East Berlin, placed third.

Jersey reserve senior and reserve grand champion honors went to Mollie Van Lieu with her junior 2-year old, GR Pleasant Valley Line Grace. Van Lieu also placed first in the summer yearling class and second in the winter calf class. Angie Hoffman, New Oxford, won the fall calf class. Placing second in the spring yearling class was Carrie Stevens of York Springs. All five Jerseys received blue ribbons. Adams County placed first in the country herd class.

The Holstein show was the final show of the day. Winning the spring calf class was Clayton Wood, Littlestown. Cristine Holtzinger and Brad Campbell also exhibited in the spring calf class. Clayton Wood received a blue ribbon in the winter calf class. Carl Wilkinson, Aspers, exhibited in the winter calf class. Shannon Holtzinger exhibited in the winter calf and fall calf classes. In the summer yearling class, Sarah Gieron placed third and received a blue ribbon. Carl Wilkinson placed sixth in the spring yearling class. In the winter yearling class, Shannon Holtzinger placed second, receiving a blue ribbon. Mollie Van Lieu showed the third place senior 2-year old, and took home a blue ribbon. Clayton Woods placed second and received blue ribbon in the 4-year old class.

Adams County 4-H Dairy Club members receiving Master Showman recognition were Sarah Gieron; Brad Campbell (2); Joy Hess (2); Brandy Leigh Rhodes; Clayton Wood; Shannon Holtzinger (3); Carl Wilkinson; Angie Hoffman; Carrie Stevens; and Mollie Van Lieu (4).

Adams County 4-H Horse Members Compete At Districts

Several Adams County 4-H horse members recently competed at the district level.

The District VI 4-H Horse Performance Show was held at the Lebanon County Fairgrounds on Saturday, Aug. 17. Bethany Dorr, Gettysburg, placed first in senior division English grooming and showmanship.

Nicholas Demko, New Oxford, took home first place ribbons in walk trot equitation (therapeutic) and obstacle trail course (therapeutic). Dorr and Demko will be competing in the State 4-H Horse

Maryland Farm Queen Gina Rende Reigns

Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, Md. — Gina Rende can plan on spending the week of the Maryland state fair in a flurry of ribbons and royal appearances. The sixteen-year-old Caroline County youth was recently crowned State Farm Queen in conjunction with the 115th fair at Timonium. Passing on the crown to her successor at the contest held Sunday night was outgoing queen Lori Evans.

Gina, the daughter of Frank and Janice Rende, was one of 22 young women from around the state competing for the title of queen. The contest is sponsored by the Maryland Farm Bureau Women's Committee and the State Fair. The winner is selected based on her knowledge of agriculture, poise, public speaking ability, and community involvement.

The remainder of the royal court consists of Laura Ann Worthington, first runner-up from Smithsburg, Washington County; Laah Jane Broadwater, second runner-up from Swanton, Garrett County; Kristy Lynn Pumphrey, third runner-up from Millersville, Anne Arundel County; and Kimberly Kilby, fourth runner-up from Colora, Cecil County. These young ladies will also be making appearances at the fair this year and filling in for Gina throughout the year.

Rende lives on her family's 30-acre horse farm in Denton, on the Easter Shore. The family raises Standardbreds for harness racing, and also some Warmbloods. In 1984 they had the two-year-old trotting filly of the year in the Maryland Sire Stakes with their Standardbred filly, My Sunny Solo. The filly went on to do very well as a three-year-old as well, according to Janice Rende.

Although Gina was only four or five years old, she spent a great deal of time with the filly, reading her books in the horse trailer, says Gina's mother. As a matter of fact, Rende's introduction to equines goes back even earlier; her mother went into labor while at the racetrack, and Gina was almost born there. Her enthusiasm for horses today is evident in all the responsibility she carries at the farm. Each day Gina feeds and waters the horses, jogs the racehorses for four miles, gives each a water massage, bandages their legs, and cleans their stalls. She also helps bale, stack, and store hay on the farm, and has other general duties.

She will be entering her senior year at North Carolina High School this year. She is co-captain of the varsity field hockey team, president and the Science Club, vice-president of the Students Helping Other People (SHOP) organization, treasurer of the National Honor Society, and a member of the Student Government Association. She is also first trumpet in the Marching, Jazz, and Concert band, and was junior class president. During all this activity, she has maintained a 4.17 grade point average.

The Maryland State Fair, Maryland Agricultural Fair Board, and Mercantile Bank jointly donated an academic scholarship worth up to $5,000 to the new Queen. In addition, the Maryland Agricultural Fair Board will pay her a stipend for travel expenses.

Judges for the evening's event were Erica Fearn, northeastern field representative for the American Farm Bureau Federation; Dr. Mary Beth Bennett, extension agent from West Virginia, and Glenn Pirtle of Nationwide Insurance.

Gina Rende of Denton, Caroline County, is the 1996 Maryland Farm Queen.

Garden Fest Sept. 22

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — The Hershey Community Gardenfest will be held on Sunday, September 22 at the Hershey Gardens from 11 a.m.-6 p.m. This outdoor free event will feature music, food, games and programs for the entire family, and will be held rain or shine.

Green-thumb activities will cover a range of topics including "garbage gardening," potting and repotting plants, the history of the Hershey Gardens, flower arranging, herbal gardens, and much more. Children will be able to participate in a scavenger hunt, and play traditional lawn games.

Inexpensive traditional picnic fare by the Hotel Hershey Catering will be available during the day, and everyone will enjoy performances by ensembles of the Hershey Symphony, the Central Pennsylvania Suzuki Association, the Hershey Community Chorus, and the Milton Hershey School New Horizons.

For more information, call the Hershey Gardens at (717) 534-3493. The Hershey Gardens is a non-profit organization administered by The M.S. Hershey Foundation and is located near The Hotel Hershey.

Frecon Receives Scholarship

CLAYTON, N.J. — Joshua Frecon of Turnersville is the 1996 recipient of the Gloucester County Board of Agriculture Scholarship.

Joshua, a 1996 graduate of Washington Township High School in Sewell, N.J., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome L. Frecon. He will be attending Delaware Valley College in Doylestown, Pa. to study environmental design and ornamental horticulture.

Joshua was presented the award at the Washington Township High School Awards Program on June 14 by David Duffield, a member of the board of directors and a fruit and vegetable grower and marketer in Washington Township. Joshua, has been working the past two years at Bloomer's Garden Center in Sewell learning about and handling ornamental plants.

The Gloucester County Board of Agriculture Scholarship for $2,000 is given annually to a graduating senior who will major in an agriculture area in college and whose family is a member of the Gloucester County Board of Agriculture and of the New Jersey Farm Bureau.

Lycoming County 4-H Roundup was held at the Fairgrounds in Hughesville.

As the culmination of the year's work, all 4-H members were encouraged to bring their completed projects to be judged. Fourteen judges were scheduled to hold five-minute interviews with the 4-H'ers, checking to see that their products and project books met the requirements and inquiring about their learning experiences.

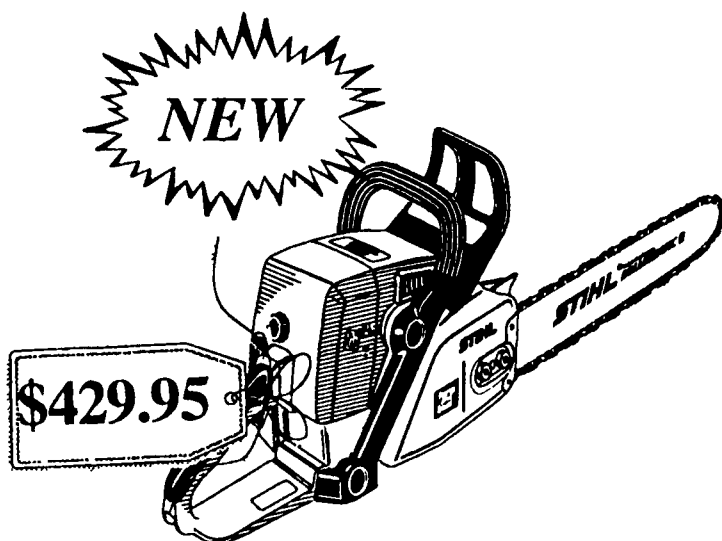

Scores were tabulated and ribbons awarded. The remarkable array of youth-produced items and exhibits were then put on display.

The highlight of the event was presentation of the sweepstakes and clover awards, which are given to 4-H'ers nominated by the judges for their exceptional execution of a project, and still present for the ceremony. The Clover Awards, for members 8-10 years old, were presented to Karissa Beechey for self-determined crafts, Grace Delany for market lambs, Katie Mulfinger for candlemaking, Colby Reeser for food and fitness for fun, and Becky Weaver for photography and for pumpkin growing.

Sweepstakes awards were presented to Jennifer Bowman for rabbits, Emily Bryant for create your own sewing, Grace Delany for woodworking, Samantha Good for jams and jellies, Marisa Isaacson for vegetable gardening and self-determined art, Angela Lovell for beef and swine, Philip Nau for hiking, Elizabeth Rollman for foods and your own and houseplants and photography, and Shelly Vandine for market lambs and woodworking.

Superior Broad Spectrum Disease Control With Dividend®

Starts Your Wheat In The Right Direction.

- Dividend seed treatment stops seed-borne scab, seed-borne septoria, seed rots, loose smut and Pythium*.
- Dividend treated wheat results in fast root development and quick seedling emergence, enhancing overall stand establishment.
- Dividend treated wheat has been shown in trials to increase yields over untreated wheat and wheat treated with other seed treatments.
- Dividend is safe to your crop—plant early or late, no-till or conventional tillage.
- Dividend offers the best worker safety profile available for seed treatments. It's less irritating to skin and eyes than other standard seed treatments—with less dust-off.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Back to school for many families means a more quiet house during the daytime. Now the van hauling the Amish to school zips by the house twice a day. Our grandson started kindergarten and rides the big, yellow school bus. This is a new experience for him and for his parents as their children grow older.

We've been keeping the grandchildren several times a week recently. The baby just had her first birthday and got a lot of nice presents. Then the mother had a birthday four days later and we invited the family to our home for a ham supper. It is a joy to watch the boys dig into the mashed potatoes and later try the watermelon too.

Before school started we took the oldest boy fishing with us. It was a day when the trout were not hungry. The water was clear and we could see the fish and so we dangled our bait in front of them but they were not interested. Finally one fish took the bait, and we did not need to come home empty-handed.

Our small community of Oregon again had a picnic at the pavilion behind the country church. It was a time for the older residents to reminisce about their school days and about people who are long gone. The memories did not always agree but it was interesting to hear what other folks remembered.

Someday the youngsters who start school this year will be the oldsters who sit and reminisce. Time goes by so quickly and it is easy to get the generations mixed as we meet new neighbors.

Honey Harvest Festival

WESTMINSTER, Md. — The 10th annual Honey Harvest Festival will be held at the Hashawha Environmental Center, Westminster, Md., on Sunday September 15 from noon to 5 p.m.

Sponsored by the Carroll County Beekeepers Association in cooperation with Hashawha Environmental Center, the festival is free. Events include hayrides for children, a chance to visit a real apiary, view an observation hive, honey related crafts, pioneer life demonstrations, a honey cookery show, a Beekeepers rodeo, auction, food, live entertainment from the Country music group Free Wheeling, and much more.

The popular early bird Honey and Pancake Brunch will be served from 10:30 a.m. until 1 p.m.

For more information, call Hashawha at (410) 848-9040. Hashawha is located four miles north of Westminster, Maryland off Route 97 on John Owings Road.

Supper To Benefit Mentally Handicapped

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Sunday Supper held September 29 is a fundraising event held on behalf of Keystone Residence, a program for those with mental illnesses or mental handicaps.

Minnie Sigfried will host a special supper at Our Daily Bread Restaurant located at 3302 Derry St. in Harrisburg.

Participants can sample Minnie's appetizing homemade soups and her fabulous breads and desserts in a casual dining atmosphere. All proceeds will go toward purchasing needed items for clients in Keystone Residence, which provides services and support to enable individuals with disabilities to live in their own communities as independently as possible. Keystone Residence owns or rents more than 70 homes and apartments throughout Dauphin, Cumberland, Lancaster, and Northumberland Counties.

Tickets are $10 each and may be purchased in advance from the restaurant or by calling Jorja Barton at (717) 232-7509.

Knitters' Day Out

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The 11th annual Knitters' Day Out will be held on September 14 from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at Cumberland Perry Vo-Tech School. More than 250 knitters from central Pennsylvania will participate in 34 workshops.

Guest teachers are Beth Brown-Reinsel, author of Ganseys and Anna Zilbourg, author of Fancy Feet. Brown-Reinsel, who is from Lancaster, will hold workshops on ganseys, which are the traditional sweaters worn by British fishermen. Anna Zilbourg will teach techniques for knitting color patterns — an essential skill for those knitters swept up in the current craze for knitting colorful, ethnic-style socks.

Other workshops include knitting basics for beginners, spinning, creative uses for various stitch patterns, machine knitting, finishing techniques and lots more. There will also be a knitter's market with 14 vendors.

The registration fee is $30; it covers both a morning and afternoon workshop, lunch, door prizes, and a bag full of patterns, catalogs and samples. Entrance to the knitters' market is only $2. Advanced registration is required for workshops and lunch. People interested in more information are requested to write to Knitters' Day Out c/o Rebecca Meehan, P.O. WORK WATCH

The Work Watch Is Back!

In the mid-1980's we sold hundreds of work watches to hard-working individuals like yourself who needed an accurate, dependable timepiece. They needed a watch that would withstand the dust, moisture, bumps, and temperatures encountered on the farm, in the orchard, and in the woods. Many who bought the work watch told us it was the best watch they had ever owned. Now, due to the past success and the present need, we are again offering the work watch through Lancaster Farming.

Our work watch has all the features needed to endure the punishment you will put it through. The WATER RESISTANT seal will protect your watch when you irrigate fields, fix broken water systems, get milk splashed on your arm while feeding calves, or walk the fence in the rain, to find out where your cattle are getting out. Being SHOCK RESISTANT, your work watch will continue to work when it is slapped by a cow's tail, a falling board, or the belt shield that your arm slams against when your wrench slips off the bolt. While your watch is scraped by branches, rubbed against walls, and knocked against machinery, the low profile, SCRATCH RESISTANT, glass crystal will resist the scratches and cracks that render watches unreadable. Finally, the BATTERY POWERED QUARTZ movement of your work watch is accurate to within 2 minutes per year, and does not need to be wound, meaning that your watch will be on time, all the time, without any effort on your part.

A final proof of the strength of this watch and of its suitability to your needs is the warranty. If your work watch stops running within THREE YEARS of the date of purchase, the manufacturer will repair or replace your watch at no charge. This is one of the longest warranties in the watch industry. The manufacturer's confidence in this watch means that you can have confidence in its durability and can know that this is the only work watch you will need to buy for the next three years.

Eureka Farms Brings Satisfaction To Kulp Family

LOU ANN GOOD

Lancaster Farming Staff
"Eureka!"

That's the comment Edward Kulp's great grandmother is said to have made when she first saw the picturesque Chester County Farm in 1892.

Eureka, which is a Greek expression for I found (it), can also be used to describe Ed's round-about search for a career.

Although Ed grew up on Eureka Farms, which now encompasses 200-acres and contains 125 milking cows, he had his sights set on a business career. He was set to follow that prescribed course at college when an accident in his high school senior year altered his life.

After his discharge from the hospital, Ed battled the after effects of a severe head injury. His attention span decreased, his speech was halting, and he had trouble staying awake.

"I didn't think I could even hold a job," Ed said of that span of his life. Instead of college, Ed worked at menial jobs on the farm.

It was a long, slow process, but gradually Ed overcame the handicaps. Four years after the accident, he went to Delaware Valley College where he earned a degree in animal science. After he was graduated, he returned to the family farm, intending to help out for two years and then go into an ag-related business.

"My brother had left to farm on his own and my parents were working very hard," Ed said.

But life has a way of turning up unexpected surprises.

For Ed, it was the satisfaction derived from working with the cow herd.

"I like milking a lot," said Ed who is in charge of dairy cow management while his dad specializes in field crops.

Previously, Ed had shown Ayrshires and the showline has been retained. Cow pedigrees intrigue him and Ed has memorized every one of the 125-head herd. Although the farm uses some AI services, most breeding is done with one of the farm's four bulls.

"We want bulls that produce high stature, and good feet and legs," Ed said of the farm's bulls that have sired some grand champion cows for them. The farm keeps no more than two bull calves annually for breeding purposes. The remainder are sold at auction. Heifers are used for replacements and also sold to kids for 4-H projects.

In 1988, Ed married Kay, who he met in front of an ice cream store — which seems appropriate for a dairy farmer. Kay, who is from Maryland, met Ed in Ohio, where both were attending a church conference.

Kay worked as an occupational therapist but quit when their first child was born. Although she helps out occasionally with feeding calves, Kay devotes her time to care for their three children, Kaitlyn, 5; Kelly, 3; and Aaron, 18 months.

Ed's grandfather had started out with Ayrshires in 1892. The Kulp retained Ayrshires but have added a herd of Holsteins and previously had a few Guernseys. But Ed readily admits that he admires Ayrshires. He said, "They graze when Holsteins aren't. Ayrshires have better mammary systems."

Cows are housed in a free stall barn and pick when to come into the milking parlor where they are also fed.

Most of the soil on the Kulp's farm is classified Readington silt loam. The elder Kulp installed tile drainage and waterways.

"Dad's heavily involved in soil conservation and does lots of strip cropping," Ed said.

Ed said that he would like to update some of the facilities on the farm but whenever my dad and I look at possible changes, we say, "That's nice," but we don't do anything about it. The thing is, we can't purchase any item that is really going to make us more money although we can think of plenty of things to save us time."

One of these is the three-hour feeding time required to switch around the 125 cows, when only 40 can be fed at a time.

His dad's caution in making changes, Ed said, has the benefit of enabling the farm to have little debt.

After several years of working for his dad, the two have now formed a joint venture. According to Ed, a joint venture is different than a partnership. The father and son worked extensively with extension agents and the farm's accountant to spell out the terms of the joint venture. Ed is now buying the cows and within seven years will purchase the equipment, and later the property.

"I'm comfortable working for my dad and we want to do what's best for the family. At this point it would be hard for my wife to jump in and do all the work my mother does on the farm. My parents want us to avoid debt, so we are tackling things slowly."

Eureka Farms has been in the Kulp family for almost 100 years. Ed and Kay Kulp with children Kaitlyn, 5; Kelly, 3; and Aaron, 18 months, farm in joint venture with Ed's dad Harold.

Problems facing farmers are not unique to today's era. Ed said that he recently found out that his dad had a setback years ago when he shipped in some cows from Canada. The cows carried brucellosis and the herd needed to be destroyed — some of their top cows.

"Today we vaccinate all calves," Ed said. But other problems such as weather plays havoc with the best laid plans.

"Because of last year's drought in this area, we needed to buy corn. For at least 14 years, we've always had good hay, but this year, we've had too much rain to have good alfalfa hay," which he says is necessary for producing good milk.

After last winter's abundance of snow, Ed would like to install a manure storage system. Generally the Kulp spread manure daily, but during the winter months, the best they could do was heap it up at the nearest field.

The snows hindered the daily routine of work. It took Ed six hours one day to clear the snow enough to reach the calf hutches.

Of the corn crop grown there this summer, Ed said, "You never saw such big corn."

Last July, the Kulp lost cows from the heat. This year they purchased a big fan installed over the holding area, which has greatly increased the cows' comfort.

The Kulp grow soybeans to add to a commercial parlor mix.

"My dad wants nothing to do with rotational grazing. He remembers doing that in the 1940s," Ed said.

"I hate to say that we won't ever do that because five years down the road might find us doing it. If we had less cows, perhaps it would be workable but not with the amount we have. Grazing wouldn't have even worked with a small herd last year because our grass was completely dead from the drought."

Starting in the spring, the cows are left in the pasture for two hours. "We have about a two-tenth milk walk to the pasture. Other years I enjoyed that walk but now I think of all the other things I have to do," Ed said.

In addition to father and son, the farm employs six part time people and a man who works 36 hours weekly.

The large two-story farm house is home for Ed and his family on one side and for his parents on the other side.

This arrangement works out well since Ed's parents both work on the farm.

The house appears to be surrounded by acres of woodland, but Ed said, "It's an optical illusion. It's only about 50 yards of woodland."

He recalls when the trees were smaller and the area was more like a swamp.

An isolated road winds through the acreage and the Kulp have trouble with people who dump trash on the land. Someone painted one of the trees red and blue that is now considered a landmark when people are giving directions.

At one time the farm had a milk processing plant and Ed's grandfather ran a milk jug route that was ended in 1947. The family has found a few milk bottles from that era.

The Kulp have a 50-year plaque from Atlantic Dairy Cooperative. Ed and Kay have been named a Young Cooperative Couple (YCC), and recently returned from a free trip to St. Louis, Mo. for the National Institute of Cooperative Education. The program included farm tours, a visit to a research center, lectures, motivational speakers, and a planning session.

To be selected as a YCC, the Kulp needed to fill out a questionnaire, be interviewed, and deliver an impromptu speech. Five couples were selected from the group of contestants.

The Kulp are active at Coventry Church of the Brethren.

"When we want to relax, we need to leave the farm," Kulp said. That happens about six times annually when they visit Kay's family.

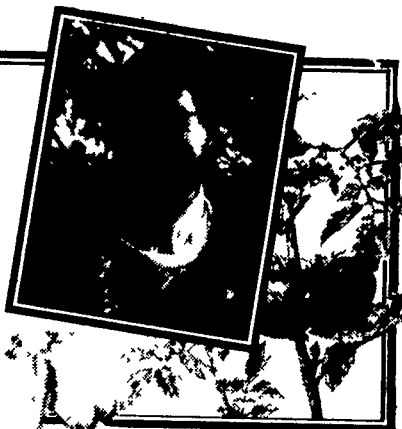

Children receive priority attention at Eureka Farms. Here 3-year-old Kelly plays with one of the many toys found on the Kulp's spacious front porch.

The Kulp admire the four Ayrshire bulls used for breeding purposes. Ed and his sister showed Ayrshires while growing up on the farm and continue to do so on a limited basis now. Both Ayrshires and Holsteins make up the 125-head milking herd.

RECOVERING FROM SUMMER'S WEEDY LAWNS

September is a great time for the great and small gardener to renovate your lawn. If the lawn has only become thin and large areas have not died, the chances of recovery are quite good. Generally, if not more than 20% of the grass died, the lawn can make a fairly quick recovery with a light application of nitrogen fertilizer. One pound of actual nitrogen (N) per 1,000 square feet should be sufficient to promote tillering and increase root production. Another pound of N can be applied in early November or early spring if necessary.

If large areas of turf have died (1 foot in diameter or greater) some repair work will probably be needed. The method and the amount of work that is needed to renovate a lawn depends on the existing situation. If the lawn consists of mostly desirable grass species and varieties and only needs to be thickened up, the process is fairly simple. If a complete change in grass species, variety, or the elimination of perennial weeds is called for, the entire area should be killed off with Roundup ahead of seeding. If a thick thatch layer exists, dethatching should be done to allow seed placement into soil. It may even involve regrading part of the area if it was not done correctly initially. Step by step instructions for different situations can be found in Extension Circular #412 Renovation of Lawns, available free of charge from your local Extension Office.

Simply throwing grass seed on a dead patch of grass rarely produces acceptable turf. The seeds must come in contact with soil and have space to germinate and grow. To prepare the soil for overseeding, rake up the dead grass, thatch, and any other debris, then scarify the soil surface. This step can be accomplished with a power rake, dethatcher, core aerator or a steel rake. You don't have to remove all the debris, however, there should be approximately 50% bare soil. The next step is to seed these areas with a quick-germinating, aggressive grass species. The seed that usually works best for overseeding is perennial ryegrass (this will germinate in 5 to 7 days). Enough seed should be applied so that there is at least 1/4 inch between the individual seeds. Lightly rake the seed into the soil, however, don't cover with more than 1/4 inch of soil. The seed should then be covered with clean straw or cellulose mulch.

Cheesecloth and burlap are also effective as mulches provided they are removed when the seeds begin to germinate. A small amount of starter fertilizer may be beneficial for the new seedlings. The success of the repair work will depend on late-summer or early-fall rains. In a demonstration area in York County at Pleasant Acres/Stoney Brook, Extension applied varying levels of renovation inputs in late August. You'll see the "deluxe method" versus the "bare bones" method of renovation. Then you can decide which way to go with your own lawn. Comparisons that can be made are:

- Planting Method - Slit till seeding versus broadcasting and dragging
- Vegetation Control - Roundup versus Mowing
- Grass Species Aggressiveness - Perennial Ryegrass versus Tall Fescue
- Soil Fertility - Use of fertilizer versus no fertilizer

For more information on the lawn grass self study plot, contact John Rowehl at 717 840-7408.

Breeders Capture Top Awards

DES MOINES, Iowa — Approximately 700 polled Hereford breeders made Des Moines, Iowa, home as they participated in the 23rd Junior National Polled Hereford Show and Forum recently.

The six-day event combined national contests and a 616-head cattle show throughout the week.

Six new council members were elected to the National Junior Polled Hereford Council early in the week. polled Hereford cattle.

Peewee Individual champions: Ali Grooters, Grant, Mich., and Kyle Roach, Centerville, Mich.

Junior individual champion: Roby Tucker, Kaufman, Texas.

Adult individual champion: Mark Duncan, Toulon, Ill.

Junior champion team: Texas — Russell Simmons, Petrolia; Roby Tucker, Kaufman; Precious Atlas and Jessica Herring, both of Grandview.

SCRAPBOOK

Entries are a year-to-year record of a state association's activities and members' polled Hereford activities.

1. Georgia; 2. Texas; 3. Pennsylvania.

BEEF BOWL

Thirty-four teams total competed in the junior and senior divisions. Teams are asked questions concerning the Hereford industry and animal science.

Junior team: Pennsylvania — Jarrett Findlay, Franklin; Kevin Rooker, Uniontown; and Zachariah and Jessica Dye, both of Amity.

STATE EXHIBIT

Each exhibit is judged on the use of the Junior National theme, "Catch the Spirit," neatness of the booth and cattle stalls, creativity of exhibits, attractiveness and state unity.

1. Mississippi; 2. Iowa; 3. Texas.

TEAM MARKETING

Participating teams "sell" an animal entered in the Junior National to a panel of judges promoting pedigree information, performance data and visual characteristics of the heifer, bull or cow-calf pair.

Junior: 1. Illinois — Jonathan Harst, Easton; and Ryan and Brent Heaton, Murrayville; 2. Texas — Russell Simmons, Petrolia; Precious Atlas, Grandview; and Roby Tucker, Kaufman.

OUTSTANDING STATE JUNIOR MEMBER

This award is given to one junior member in each state that has eight or more junior participants at the Junior National. (Listed in alphabetical order by state.)

1. Tom Boatman, Blountsville, Ala., and Matthew Tidwell, Hanceville, Ala. (tie); 2. Casey Rogers, Paragould, Ark.; 3. Kim Chastain, Danielsville, Ga.

SWEEPSTAKES AWARD

This award encourages state polled Hereford participation in all activities sponsored by the National Junior Polled Hereford Council.

1. Pennsylvania; 2. Georgia; 3. Wisconsin.

PRO-PERFORMANCE BREEDERS AWARD

This award recognizes juniors who utilize performance records in their breeding programs.

1. Heather Hicks, Cullman, Ala.; 2. Luke Vogel, Evans City, Pa.; 3. A.J. Ebert, Auburn, Ala.

1. Chris Mullinix, Woodbine, Md.; 2. Nicole Benedict, Mason City, Ill.; 3. Kyle McMillan, Highland, Ill.

SHOWMANSHIP

Contestants are judged on appearance and showmanship ability except for the final round of the senior division, where animal grooming is also evaluated. Approximately 375 exhibitors competed for their respective placings. Brett Barber, East Lansing, Mich., evaluated the classes.

Peewee: 1. Cattie Sims, Elgin, Okla.; 2. Cody Herman, Continental, Ohio.

Junior: 1. B.J. Herman, Continental, Ohio; 2. Sara Hunter, Goodell, Iowa.

LEWIS MEMORIAL AWARD

1. Randy Mullinix, Woodbine, Md.; 2. Curt Stockdale, Dayton, Pa.; 3. Ryan Walters, Waxahachie, Texas.

Women's Financial Info Program

LEWISBURG (Northumberland Co.) — A seven-week Women's Financial Information Program will be held from 7:00 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at St. John's United Church of Christ, Rt. 192, Lewisburg, every Wednesday from September 25 through November 6.

This hands-on lecture/workshop series designed to assist women (and men) in taking charge of their finances is co-sponsored by AARP and Penn State Cooperative Extension. Topics to be covered include: "Getting Organized: Where Are You Now? Where Do You Want To Be?"; "Banking & Credit: Tools For Your Cash Flow System"; "Investing For Retirement"; and "Professional Help: Where & How To Get It."

The $20 fee includes workbook, handouts, and light refreshments for each session. Registration is required by September 13. For more information call Penn State Cooperative Extension of Northumberland County at (717) 644-4455 or 1-800-479-2626 (ask for Penn State).

Active Parenting

HALIFAX (Dauphin Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extensions — Dauphin County Office and the Halifax Ministerium are co-sponsoring "Active Parenting of Teens." This is a six-week, video-based program held on Thursday, October 3, 10, 17, 24, November 7, and 14, from 7:00 p.m. until 9:30 p.m. at Valley's United Church of Christ, 3682 Peters Mountain Rd., Halifax. Cost is $15 per person or $20 per couple for registration and materials. For more information, call Penn State Cooperative Extension, Dauphin County Office at (717) 921-8803.

You Ask We Answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know whom to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

QUESTION — Mrs. David Weidenhammer, Bernville, would like to know if there are cassette tapes available that teach a person how to speak Pennsylvania Dutch.

QUESTION — A faithful Maryland reader writes that her family is desperate to get rid of cockroaches in the house. They've tried insecticide spray, Borax, and roach traps. All worked for only a short time. The little roaches actually got worse after using roach traps.

QUESTION — Mrs. B.R. Stoltzfus, Leola, is looking for a wholesale company that sells wooden hoops for crafts.

QUESTION — Harold Kuchler, Coatesville, needs to replace a Proctor-Silex 2-quart ice cream freezer bucket, preferably stainless steel. Where can he find one?

QUESTION — Irvin Gordon, Sykesville, Md., recently acquired a 200-C Steam Jenny that was manufactured by Homestead Industries of Coraopolis, Pa. The company is no longer in business. Irvin needs an owner's manual and a source for parts.

QUESTION — Lydia Martin of Mifflinburg would like to know if anyone could use a can and dasher for a White Mountain 8-quart ice cream freezer. Will sell for payment of U.P.S. The tub is no longer usable. Write to R.R. 3, Box 92, Mifflinburg, PA 17844.

QUESTION — Faye Dove, Myerstown, needs help in finding a book, "Dark Fury," by Helga Moray.

QUESTION — Vivian Kunkle, Oley, would like instructions on making homemade soup.

QUESTION — Roland Kamoda, Mononegahela, wants a source for ghinko tree seeds. Also, when is the best time to take conifer cuttings? What is used?

QUESTION — Mabel Shank, Swanton, Md., would like to know where you can buy a mattress and springs for a three-quarter bed, which is an antique.

QUESTION — Lucas William, Warfordsburg, wants that name of a product to keep the table of a planer from rusting and not form a buildup or need removing to use the planer.

QUESTION — Mary Ann Reich would like a counted cross-stitch pattern called Amid Amish Life that appeared in "Cross Stitch and Country Crafts" magazine in three editions from May-Aug. 1987 issues. She needs a copy of each pattern. Send to her at Box 205, R.D.#1, Beaver Springs, PA 17812.

QUESTION — Richard Knouse, Liverpool, wants a source for Dutchman's Pipe Vine.

QUESTION — A subscriber wants to know where to purchase instructions to crochet a dressy set (not tailored) for an infant baby girl. Set should include a sacque, cap, and booties.

QUESTION — Eldon Martin, Rt. 1, Box 66, Abbottstown, Pa. 17301, wants to purchase a used set of Mennonite encyclopedies.

QUESTION — Lynn Joshua, Lititz, wants to buy "Wildflowers and the Stories Behind Their Names," by Phyllis Busch, and "Sugar From Farm to Market," by Winifred Hammond.

QUESTION — Leon Rex, 4310 Best Station Rd., Slatington, PA 18080, would like to buy a wood stove called The Boss.

QUESTION — Charlie Collins, Pine City, N.Y., has a large flock of specialized birds. He needs a source for buying economically priced Sevin Dust to control poultry lice and mites. This product is getting harder to find in bulk packaging and from some dealers the cost is prohibitive, he writes.

QUESTION — A New York reader wants instructions for making non-edible gingerbread men ornaments that look like gingerbread men cookies not like those made from cinnamon and applesauce.

QUESTION — Sharon Rehm, 1213 Orchard Rd. Lititz, PA 17543 wants sources for wooden puzzles, manipulative toys and peg boards to help her developmentally delayed son.

QUESTION — Mrs. W. Martin, Lebanon, heard of storm windows that fasten on the inside of the window with magnetic strips and wants to know where to purchase them.

QUESTION — Andrea Bittenbender, Saylorsburg, writes that she inherited her deceased mother-in-law's pressure cooker canner. It has no instructions with it, but is marked "Magic Seal, Supreme Quality, NO 7-21" on the lid. The bottom of the pot has a 21, A, 44 on it. My suggestion is that she contact her local Penn State Cooperative Extension Office where they test pressure canners and are able to give proper instructions. Saylorsburg is in Monroe County and the telephone number for the extension office is (717) 992-7344.

QUESTION — Bill Johnson, Everett, wants to find a 1954 Chevy Huckster truck.

QUESTION — Evan Weidman, Westfield, writes that he has a cast iron sink with enamel inside. It is 13 inches deep, 15 inches wide, and 19 inches long. He would like to know if these sinks are made today and if American Standard or Radiator Standard of Baltimore are still in business.

JOHN DEERE 6000 SERIES LOW-PROFILE TRACTORS

Get high productivity with low-to-the-ground stability

Take the ups and downs of uneven ground in stride, and easily clear low overhangs. John Deere 6000 Series Low-Profile Tractors ride as low as 61 inches, yet measure 85 inches wide for steady, low-clearance performance.†

These 6000L Series Tractors feature a low operator's platform that straddles the transmission housing. This stability-enhancing design helps you handle mowing and baling chores with agility — and peace-of-mind — on rolling ground.

† With 21 5L-16 tires, and ROPS folded. Always keep the ROPS in its upright position unless working conditions require that it be folded down.

Clean up with these values on time-saving pressure washers

Clean up around the farm without making a mess of your busy schedule. John Deere offers pressure washers backed with a wide selection of grime-fighting accessories — all competitively priced.

John Deere All-Purpose Cleaner

- Non-abrasive cleaning action plus special additives that help avoid hard-water spotting.

FFA Members Attend Washington Leadership Conference

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Amy Hale, Jenny Hoover, Andy Nolt, J.R. Groff, and adviser Jodi Brown of the Cloister Chapter of Ephrata, Pa., attended the 1996 Washington Leadership Conference July 30-Aug. 4 in the nation's capital.

The conference is an activity of the National FFA Organization in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Education.

The week-long program helps FFA members improve their leadership skills and prepare for leadership roles in their chapters, communities and their future careers. They attended sessions on self-confidence, goal setting, and team building and participated in discussions on personal development, motivation and citizenship.

Former FFA officers led all sessions.

Students also increased their understanding of the nation's heritage with visits to Mount Vernon, the Smithsonian Institution, Arlington National Cemetery, the Jefferson Memorial and other historic sights in Washington, D.C.

A highlight of the week was a visit to the office of Congressman Robert Walker and Senator Arlin Specter of Pennsylvania.

The lowered platform provides excellent clearance, and you don't have to give up the convenient controls, easy entry, and easy exit found on standard 6000 Series Tractors.

Fuel-efficient John Deere engines power the 66-hp 6200L, 75-hp 6300L, and 85-hp 6400L. The oil-cooled PTO delivers full rated horsepower for top implement performance and modulated engagement for smooth operation. And all 6000 Series Tractors feature the durable PermaClutch 2™. This oil-cooled, multiple-wet-disk clutch cools after each engagement to greatly lengthen clutch life.

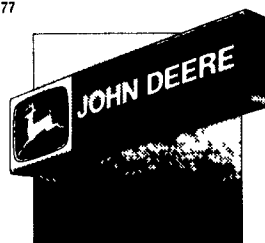

Add high-speed, high-capacity hydraulics for loaders and you've got ultra-high performance in an attractively low package.

Stand up to your rolling-ground work with the sure-footed productivity of a 6000 Series Low-Profile Tractor. See your John Deere dealer today.

Snowdale Brown Swiss Complete Dispersal

75 Registered Brown Swiss selling at Burton Livestock Exchange, Vernon, NY (Exit 33 off NYS Thruway), 45 Mature Cows, 16 Bred Heifers, 14 Calves Up To Yearlings. Sires Represented Include Eiden, Emory, Delux, Tradition, Noren, Yearling, Target and Debonair.

Note: The Snows have used a lot of young sires over the years and bred a lot of good cattle. Emphasis has never been to push for big records. The potential is unlimited. Proof of this exists when one of their home bred cows was sold to the Kelly Family in New Hampshire - "Snowdale Improver Desi" 689275, and soon after became New Breed Champion in 1991 for milk and fat: 9-9 365 days 41,730 3.9% 1609 Fat 3.7% 1541 Protein. This herd must be dispersed in its entirety due to Jason's health. A great opportunity to buy some of the best Brown Swiss bloodlines in the country. Catalogs at ringside. Blood and TB tested for immediate interstate shipment. Trucking and overnight accommodations available. Absentee bids accepted.

WIN!

An After-Harvest Getaway For Two

To Honolulu, Las Vegas or Orlando!

No purchase necessary. Entrants must be 21 years or older.

Prizes: Seven (7) trips for two (2). One trip for two per winner. Destinations vary. Five trips are to Las Vegas, Nevada (3 days/2 nights), one trip is to Honolulu, Hawaii (6 days/5 nights), and one trip is to Orlando, Florida (4 days/3 nights).

Each trip includes roundtrip coach air transportation from the major airport nearest the winner's home, roundtrip airport-to-hotel ground transportation and double-occupancy hotel accommodations.

1. To enter and be eligible for prizes, complete the Official Entry Form and deposit it with or mail it to your nearest participating Firestone farm tire dealer — or neatly print or type your name, address, ZIP code, phone number and age on a plain 3 x 5" piece of paper and mail it to: Firestone After-Harvest Getaways, Attn: Mindy Cowrie, 2633 Fleur Drive, Des Moines, IA 50321 — by October 31, 1996, the date this contest ends. Winners will be selected in a random drawing to be held on or about November 15, 1996, from all eligible entries received. Official Entry Form must be filled out completely to be eligible.

2. The odds of winning depend on the number of eligible entries received. Prizes are guaranteed to be awarded. No substitution, refund or transfer of prizes is permitted. Selection of the winners via a random drawing will be under the supervision of the Firestone Agricultural Tire Company (a division of Bridgestone/Firestone, Inc.) whose decisions are final. Each winner will be notified by mail or telephone.

3. Prize winners will be obligated to sign an Affidavit of Eligibility, Publicity Release and Release of Liability within 30 days of notification or an alternate winner will be selected. Any federal, state and local taxes are the sole responsibility of the winners. The approximate retail values of the trips are as follows: 3-day/2-night trip for two to Las Vegas, Nevada — $1,350; 6-day/5-night trip for two to Honolulu, Hawaii — $2,850; 4-day/3-night trip for two to Orlando, Florida — $1,450. The actual retail value of the trips will vary by destination and point of departure. For the names of the prize winners, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope by October 31, 1996, to Firestone After-Harvest Getaways Prize Winners, Attn: Mindy Cowrie, 2633 Fleur Drive, Des Moines, IA 50321. Requests will be fulfilled after the giveaway ends.

4. Winner and traveling companion (must be 21 years or older) must agree to travel on the days and selected airline(s) specified by the sponsor. Hotel accommodations will be specified by the sponsor. Travel dates will be between January 4, 1997, and February 2, 1997. Specific travel dates will be based on availability, and will be subject to some restrictions, such as a required Saturday night stay-over.

5. Contest is open to anyone who is 21 years or older, except employees of the Firestone Agricultural Tire Company, Bridgestone/Firestone, Inc. or its affiliates, Firestone farm tire dealerships, their advertising and promotional agencies, and the immediate families of each. Void where prohibited by law. All federal, state and local laws and regulations apply.

Mifflin County Youth Exhibit Project Animals At Fair

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co Correspondent
REEDSVILLE (Mifflin Co.) — A drenching rain during the dairy show at Mifflin County Youth Fair the beginning of August should receive honorable mention for outstanding showmanship.

The heavy downpour successfully competed against the announcer's voice over the loudspeaker in the barns.

It scattered the crowd of visitors, but the dairy show continued as scheduled in the show ring under roof.

Both youth and open dairy exhibitors managed to line up their animals for their classes in spite of the deafening rain.

By the end of the show, Andy Reed's junior 3-year-old Holstein caught the judge's eye significantly enough to earn supreme champion overall, grand champion of both the open and youth Holstein shows, best animal bred and owned, and best udder.

Reed-Gap S Buck Enchantment, sired by Hanoverhill Starbuck, has earned the Reedsville teen numerous awards through the years including grand champion during last year's Mifflin County Youth Fair.

Michael Yoder's senior 2-year-old, Paul-Sher Encore Leann, sired by Singing-Brook N-B Mascot-ET, earned reserve grand champion in the youth show for the Belleville teen.

Reserve grand champion of the open show went to Vernon R. Yoder of Ver-Nan Holsteins in Belleville and his junior 2-year-old, Ver-Nan B Star Verna, sired by To Mar Blackstar.

The Lee D. Yoder family from Lewistown received the premier exhibitor and premier breeder awards.

Livestock Auction
At Friday night's livestock auction, a total of 204 animals sold for $75,365.05 — more than a $9,000-increase over last year's sale total.

Lisa Macknair's grand champion steer sold for $3.75 per pound. Mike Watson of Mike's Excavating and Landscaping bought the 1,115-pound steer for a total of FREDERICKSBURG (Lebanon Co.) — The Sixth Annual Hinkelfest will be held Sept. 13-15 at the Farmer's Pride Airport.

Hinkelfest Sept. 13-15

The Hinkelfest is a community festival celebrating the chicken and egg industry that benefits local organizations in the community, including the Fredericksburg Fire Company, library, community association, Lions Club, and the American Legion.

The weekend's entertainment begins with "El Dorado" performing hits of artists such as Patsy Cline and Garth Brooks on Friday at 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. On Saturday, the country-western tunes continue with the "Mc-Kabes" on stage from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday evening, "Fall Guys and A Gal" will entertain the entire family with a variety of songs. Showtimes are 5 p.m., 7:30 p.m., and 9:30 p.m. "Fall Guys and A Gal" return Sunday at 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. "The Victors" will be filling the air with gospel music on Sunday at 1:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Everyone is invited to attend these shows free of charge. Sunday morning beginning at 11:15 a.m., a community church service will be held followed by a full course chicken breast dinner.

During this food festival, chicken is served a variety of ways.

NC+ Hybrids Appoints New Research Director

LINCOLN, Neb. — NC+ Hybrids has appointed Dr. Ted Givens to fill its newly created director of research and product development position.

Most recently, Givens was the NC+ Mexico operations manager. He has worked in seed research since 1974, after graduating with a doctorate in plant breeding from Texas A&M University.

At NC+, Givens will oversee and coordinate research staff at facilities in Hastings, Neb., and Colwich, Kan.; as well as winter operations in Puerto Rico and Hawaii. His office will be located at NC+ headquarters in Lincoln, Neb.

Custom Farm Seed Releases New Soybeans

MOMENCE, Ill. — Two new soybean varieties were introduced by Custom Farm Seed (CFS) for the 1997 growing year. They both offer highly desirable tolerance levels to white mold, according to Tom Murray, Custom Farm Seed soybean product manager and quality control assistant.

"We're continuing to maintain and build a defensive package to diseases while seeing yield increased," he said. "Both the new Mid Group I and Late Group I varieties offer strong disease resistance packages and high yields. This combination has shown increased yields during the last 10 years."

Along with excellent tolerance to white mold, the new Mid Group I variety CFS 140 offers excellent tolerance to charcoal rot. It contains the Rps1a gene for specific race resistance to phytophthora root rot.

CFS 140 represents one of the best choices for no-till and drill soybeans due to its excellent emergence and lodging resistance. It can emerge in tough conditions and does well in poorly drained soil. Shattering resistance at harvest is an added benefit.

The new Late Group I variety CFS 196 adapts to all row widths and has excellent early season emergence. It also offers excellent white mold tolerance, brown stem rot tolerance, as well as phytophthora root rot field tolerance. Its strong defensive disease package gives it the potential to produce exceptionally high yields.

Brillion Equipment Decal Reflects Forward Thinking

BRILLION, Wis. — New equipment in the Brillion Iron Works "Commander" line is sporting a new look: an updated logo decal that reflects the company's vision for the future, according to Lee Kortens, product manager for the company's farm equipment division.

"Brillion Iron Works has a long, distinguished history of manufacturing high-quality farm implements," Kortens said. "But we want to remind people that our success has come not from resting on our past accomplishments, but from continually looking to the future. We think the Commander line reflects that way of thinking."

The new logo features a more modern design and typeface, Kortens said. It can be found on the Brillion Landcommander, Soil Commander, Compaction Commander, the HFC Field Cultivator, and the Brillion pulverizer.

Case Introduces New Steiger Model

DENVER, Colo. — At 425 horsepower, the new Case IH 9390 STEIGER® tractor is the largest, most powerful model in Case Corporation's four-wheel-drive tractor line — a line that features numerous recent improvements.

"The 9390 will answer the call for a four-wheel-drive tractor with the horsepower, reliability, and durability to be the staple workhorse on any large farming operation," said Mitch Kaiser, Case marketing manager, tractors. "Customers with extra-heavy tillage conditions and large, one-pass air-seeding operations will have their needs met with the 9390."

The 9390 becomes the sixth tractor in the STEIGER family, joining the 9310, 9330, 9350, 9370 and 9380 — rated at 205, 240, 310, 360 and 400 horsepower, respectively. Row-crop special versions of the 9310, 9330 and 9350, which have steerable front axles in addition to articulated steering, are also available and feature a shorter turning radius ideal for row-crop operations. "Case offers more four-wheel-drive tractors than any other manufacturer in the industry," said

Kaiser. "In the Steiger tractor line, there is a model to match the needs of any farming operation."

The smaller 9310 and 9330 models have both gained five extra horsepower, and the larger models all feature new Cummins N14 engines with Step Timing Control.

Step timing control is a hydraulically controlled variable timing system that increases fuel injection during starting and light-duty operations. Kaiser said this leads to better fuel economy, less white smoke at startup and improved starting during cold weather.

Ring Drive Silo Unloader Incorporates Years Of Technology

FORT ATKINSON, Wis. — J-STAR Industries' Van Dale has introduced the new Pow'R-Ring™ silo unloader.

The unloader incorporates more than 45 years of silo unloader design technology in an affordable ring drive unloader.

Pow'R-Ring incorporates the Hi-Perform™ impeller, Sure Shot discharge assembly, and recently introduced Saber Edge™ augers. Saber Edge augers have an average of up to 20 percent increase in thickness at the outer ¼ inch edge of the flighting to provide better performance and less wear in hard packed and frozen silage.

The Pow'R-Ring also features a performance-proven, free-floating drive system with direct coupling positive ring and gear tooth engagement design. A center position guide wheel provides balanced ring drive performance and stability even in out-of-round silos and frozen conditions.

The new Van Dale ring drive unloader also includes a hefty 7½" diameter steel construction drive ring and rugged 8-bolt ring splice for maximum strength and stability. Self-lubricating, low friction slider blocks eliminate greasing.

Quasi Cow Has Motorists Mooing

A 28-foot x 64-foot "Quasi Cow" billboard has been designed by Dickinson Cattle Company, Inc. of Barnesville, Ohio. The brilliant blue profile similar to a mammoth Texas Longhorn is visible at mile marker #200 on Interstate 70 complete with a swining fly switching 12-foot tall.

Longhorn silhouette but not without some major problems. The long horns and tail of the sign created major stress points when considering some of the high winds that come during winter months.

The tail was the biggest problem. The tail hangs more than 12 feet long, which requires major support in order to sustain itself during the high winds. The original idea was to reinforce the back side of the tail with large sheets of steel. The next plan was to attach guywires to hold it in place. Knowing that cattle are mischievous creatures and would probably be scratching on the wires continually, that idea did not fly.

Finally, with a touch of realism, the support idea was abandoned in favor of a two-foot-wide hinge which allows the tail to swing back and forth when the wind

Interstate 70 helps connect San Francisco and Washington, D.C. It's constructed over much of State Highway 40, which is the famous old National Road. The National Road was one of the heavily traveled wagon roads used by settlers moving west to make their fortune. It is estimated that more than 100,000 passengers travel I-70 every 24 hours across Belmont County.

Dickinson Cattle Company is located north of Barnesville, Ohio on the south side of Interstate 70. DCCI is one of the largest Texas Longhorn cattle breeding ranches in the United States, capitalizing on consumer trends toward leaner beef. DCCI produces Texas Longhorn breeding stock, herd sires, Texas Longhorn Decor Products, and freezer beef.

State Competition Brings Out The Best In 4-H'ers

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — About 1,300 talented 4-H individuals and teams competed in 26 competitive events during the annual State 4-H Achievement Days held early in August here at Penn State.

The competitive events, from dairy judging to individual physical fitness competition, are designed to provide youth with the opportunity to develop self-confidence and increase skills in selected project areas.

... clenbuterol and other adrenergic agonists had no effect on show animals.
... only humans would have to provide a urine sample for testing.
... state police would only have to read fingerprints, not noseprints.
... only nurses would have to draw blood for testing.

... not even the IOC, NBA, and NFL would have to test for steroid use.
... the highest price paid at the sale would be for the overall combined champion project (phenotype of the animal, showmanship ability, knowledge of the project and industry, record book, etc.).
... winning would be a nice thing, but that would be about all.

IN A PERFECT WORLD...

Man only likes to count his troubles, but he does not count his joys.

— Fyodor Dostoyevsky

In a perfect world...

... hair would not be an economically important trait.
... the best steer in the barn the day before the show would be named champion of the show.
... the only baler twine in a showbarn would be keeping flakes of hay together.
... everyone at a junior steer show could look through the hair and beyond the color of a steer in order to see his true merit.
... all junior market steers would be sufficiently broke to lead so that they would not bolt and cause injury to themselves or humans.
... the best steer, regardless of color, would warrant serious consideration for champion.
... it wouldn't take six people to fit a junior project steer while the junior exhibitor watched.

In a perfect world...

... all market lambs would lose their lamb teeth on their 365-day birthday.
... Cheviots and Southdowns would have the same opportunity to be named champion as Hampshires, Suffolks, and crossbreds.
... tight hides and long necks were not significant economically important traits.
... treadmills would be used by people, not lambs, for exercise.
... drenching guns were used only for deworming lambs.
... black spray paint was left at home in order to repaint the mailbox.
... the only ice in the showbarn would be keeping the drinks cold.
... all market lambs would be shown slick-shorn or with butt-patterns.
... market lambs always would be exhibited and braced with their four feet firmly planted on the ground.
In a perfect world...
... fairs would have a sufficient number of classes in order to limit class sizes to a maximum of 12 pigs.

... there is no such thing as a showing that is too big.
... every hog showing had pens for placing the hogs.
... people selling feeder pigs had the purchase price pre-established and would not raise the price if a youngster wanted to buy the pig as a project animal.
... feeder pigs to be purchased for a junior project weighed 40-70 pounds, not 120-140 pounds.
... barrows would have a compositional advantage over gilts.
... seven-month old hogs needed a cane to get around the showing, rather than being driven by one.
... pigs would not fight in the showing.
... pigs shown in hot weather would not be dripping wet with oil, but would be cooled with water.
... inexperienced youngsters showing pigs would use canes rather than whips and slappers.
... pork quality (PSE, DFD) could be visually evaluated in the live animal.
... crossbred hogs that look like Hampshires would be shown as crossbreds, not as Hampshires.
In a perfect world...
... all livestock judges could evaluate livestock based on the merits of the animal without preference for or prejudice against color, breed, or the person showing the animal.
... the youngster exhibiting the animal did all of the fitting with adult supervision, but without significant assistance.

Wool Pool Meeting Held

HAGERSTOWN, Md. — The Eastern U.S. Wool Pool meeting was held here Saturday, Aug. 17. Chairing the meeting was Nancy Morey, Chenango Bridge, of the American Wool Council.

The purpose of the meeting was to continue communications with the various Eastern Wool Pool representatives, discuss their concerns, and share information from the American Wool Council. Pools from seven states were represented at the Wool Pool Meeting.

The meeting agenda included a report about new product development for wool. Addressing that discussion was Parvez Mehta, New York, American Wool Council Product Development. Mr. Mehta showcased fabric samples made of wool and wool blends. A 100 percent wool fabric that was washable in an ordinary automatic washer.

Stretch fabric made with wool and lycra for stretch garments. He explained that several years past, a wool/cotton blend for denim jeans was on the market, and although demand for the wool blends were good, suppliers could not meet the demand, so the retailer did not continue offering the product. Mehta feels that the future wool blends will be available to meet retailers demands.

Attendees received hands-on experience, on how classifying of wool compares from pool to pool and state to state. Presenting the Wool Pool Grading System and Marketing Report was Robert Padula, American Sheep Industry Raw Wool Services Director.

The Sheep Industry's goal is a uniform grading and classifying of wools, ultimately preparing a package of wool consistent with the needs of the processing woolen mills. About two dozen fleeces, previously micron tested for grade, were displayed for attendees to examine and compare their classing assessment with the tested grade of wool. A particular fleece grading a "Medium Wool" at one wool pool, may receive a "Coarse Wool" grade at a pool in a different county or state.

Complimenting Padula's talk was the presentation by Dr. Rodney Kott, Montana State University, extension sheep specialist, on "objective measurement" of wool and how the various wool pools can utilize it for their members.

The afternoon was devoted to the introduction of three wool buyers. Each discussed the requirements their companies wanted in wool purchases.

YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS
IN THE 21st CENTURY?"

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond.

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency; this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes.

Protect your valuable feeds from the elements... increase the efficiency of your feeds, your animals, and your labor.

WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS

It's important that you know your silo needs maintenance. Your silo will not fall when it's empty. Please check your silo for damage or check your insurance policy.

Think twice before filling with wet corn silage. Remember, this crop was grown with all kinds of rain, no two years are the same. Don't let the feed man tell you to put corn silage in the silo with higher moisture than normal. If you do, it will cost you more twisted stomach, health problems or damage to your silo.

CUSTOM BUILDING SYSTEMS

If you need an unusually large or complex building such as a field house, arena, automated warehouse, shopping mall or building with over-head cranes - the proven design expertise and construction experience of a major building systems supplier can save you time and money. Our computers contain over 300 proprietary programs for structural design and analysis. We'll meet your custom needs quickly, with as many cost-saving standard components as possible, to offer you all the advantages associated with Butler building systems.

Outside: Your Choice

The appearance of your new building is a critical factor. You just tell us what you'd like and we can build it! Our structural systems are designed to give you complete freedom in planing the size and shape of your building.

Butler shop buildings are built to give you years of high-use value, low maintenance and maximum comfort. Solid, practical design and rugged steel construction make Butler buildings durable and functional for years to come.

If you are interested in any of the following buildings, please send us information on the checked.

- ☐ Mini Storage Building
- ☐ Shop Buildings

HOW BIG A COOLER DO I REALLY NEED?

Depends on a lot of things. But one thing's certain.
Mueller makes the milk cooler that's right for your operation. And it's built to last. So it'll have high resale value the day you need a bigger cooler. For help deciding how big a milk cooler you need, contact your local Mueller dealer.

DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Scroll-Compressor Technology

New in 1994

You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment...
but it can cost you more!

Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller® milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$41,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kw for 12,000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$18,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

Increase Cattle Gains!

TOX-O-WIK® Cattle Oiler and Face Fly Fighter

It keeps cattle comfortable year around and free of weight-robbing insects and disease. It's automatic, trouble-free and rugged. Plus it pays for itself in profits from increased weight gain.

Our special TOX-O-WIK Insecticide is compatible with the animals natural body oils, skin and hair and keeps them free of flies, lice, grubs, ticks, mange and pinkeye.

- Insecticide tank wick feeds automatically, no valves, jets or pumps to clog.
- Mineral feeder
- 1 to 4 applicators per unit
- TOX-O-WIK Insecticide is the only insecticide recommended for TOX-O-WIK Cattle Oilers
- Dairy units also available

IN ALUMINUM BODIES EBY BUILDS IT

M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24', landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- LANDSCAPE BODIES - Lengths to 12', We'll build to your specs!

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer customer options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business - building bodies to haul it is ours.

Cattle Technology Exhibits Headline Fourth World Beef Expo

MADISON, Wis. — More than 1,100 head of beef cattle are expected for the fourth World Beef Expo, Oct. 10-12 here at the Dane County Expo Center.

The October dates are a new time of the year for Expo, formerly a spring show. The new dates will follow on the heels of World Dairy Expo (Oct. 2-6) and are expected to increase visitor attendance by eliminating conflicts with the Midwest planting and calving season.

The cattle will be competing in 17 breed shows. Cattle entries number 1,158, "which are very strong numbers for the new show dates and considering current prices in the beef industry," said Tom McKittrick, general manager, World Beef Expo. "We're excited about the quality of the entries and that the exhibitors are coming from 21 states and two Canadian provinces. It's a strong showing for a new time of year."

A power-packed Stockman School, sponsored by Roche Animal Health and Merck AgVet Division, will be on Friday, Oct. 11 in the Exhibition Hall on the Expo grounds. Speakers are some of the biggest grazing and ranching names in the industry and include

Gary Bates, Randy Blach, Bill Mies, Jim Leachman, and Stan Parsons. Grazing enthusiasts should note that Parsons is director of the "Ranching for Profit" school and Bates is a leading grazing researcher at the University of Tennessee. The Stockman School will be moderated by Jerry Lipsey.

Valerie Breunig, World Beef Expo sales manager, announces that the Coliseum will again be sold out. More than 200 companies will be exhibiting the latest in beef technology in the 300-booth trade show. "Despite low beef prices, I see optimism among the agribusinesses by their commitment to the industry and through their exhibits at World Beef Expo."

"I want to invite all cow-calf producers and feedlot operators to come and see the latest technology, talk genetics, price equipment needs for the upcoming year, and talk with agribusiness representatives who can help increase your bottom line," said Breunig. And if you're a member of the agribusiness community such as a banker, lender or feed mill operator, walk the trade show aisles and stay abreast of what's new in the industry by talking with producers and fellow agribusiness operators.

New highlights at this year's show will include a "Ladies of the 90's" World Edition Sale along with a Prospect Show and Sale. "The Prospect Show and Sale are a result of increased interest after World Beef Expo moved to an October time slot," said Diane Nichols, World Beef Expo livestock manager. "We expect that the fall show will attract the audience looking to purchase a show animal for the next show season."

More Families Accepted Into Century Farm Program

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has announced that seven new farm families have been accepted into the Maryland Century Farm program during the first six months of 1996, joining the 53 families in the program statewide.

"Our Century Farm program is continuing to generate a lot of interest. As a farmer, I am extremely gratified to learn about the families in Maryland who continue to pass the family farm tradition down to the next generation. I think honoring these Century Farm families is not only a tribute to past contributions, but also an investment in the future of Maryland agriculture," said Riley.

Governor Parris N. Glendening will present a special certificate and a sign to be placed on the farm to all the new honorees at a ceremony later this year. The Maryland Century Farm program was established in 1994 to honor families whose farms have been in the same family for more than 100 consecutive years, contain at least 10 of the original acres and gross more than $2,500 annually from the sale of farm products.

The new honorees include farm families from Kent, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Talbot and Wicomico counties.

"Applications are accepted year-round as families become eligible. I urge all those who think they may qualify as a Century Farm to apply," Riley said.

Applications may be obtained from the Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401, (410) 841-5882, or from local cooperative extension service offices.

New Century Farm families are:

- Kent County: Roland Reece Corey, Jr.
- Queen Anne's County: J. Robert Barton.
- St. Mary's County: Bernard Johnson and Charlotte Young.
- Talbot County: Philip and Ann Beaven and Dan Schwaning-er.
- Wicomico County: Ralph Harcum.

Shippensburg Fair Holstein Show Results

BETH MILLER

Correspondent

SHIPPENSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Amanda Naugle of Carlisle pulled off a triple play during the Holstein show at the Shippensburg Fair.

Naugle's senior 3-year-old Frena Blackstar Happy captured the Best Bred and Owned Award, was the 4-H grand champion and was the reserve champion in the open competition.

Jeffery and Michele Reasner of Shippensburg won the open grand champion spot with their six years and older cow C Warrenton Cc Michelle.

The FFA grand champion for the show was C Cedrorholm Conquest Jan, the senior 3-year-old of Melissa Hostler of Mifflintown. The FFA reserve champion was Dyar-Acres Nicole Hanover, the senior 2-year-old of Julie Ann Dyarman of Newville.

Fountain Farm Lead Molly, the 5-year-old of Elizabeth L. Walton of Carlisle, was the 4-H reserve grand champion.

There was a tie for the premier exhibitor award when Tower Vue Holsteins of Carlisle and Kevin M. Horst of Chambersburg both were chosen for first place.

Second place for the exhibitor honor went to JCY Farms of Greencastle. Third place was won by Smithdale of Shippensburg.

The premier breeders award went to JCY Farms, with Tower Vue in second and Frena Farms of Carlisle in third place.

Scott M. Walton of Carlisle was the big winner in the junior competition. His winter calf, Fountain Farm Emory Emeline, was the grand champion for both the open and the 4-H contests.

The FFA junior champion was Charles T. Fawks IV of Newville with his winter yearling Dyar-Acres Major Wish.

The open reserve junior champion was JCY Broker Raspberry-ET, the fall calf of Troy D. Young of Greencastle, Mitchell Naugle of Carlisle had the 4-H reserve junior champion with his fall calf Frena Encore Providence.

Fawks himself had an encore when his winter calf Dyar-Acres Supreme Beauty was picked as the FFA reserve junior champion.

Steve Wood was the judge for the show.

Messick Farm Equipment, Inc.

Elizabethtown, PA

Messick Farm Equipment's beginnings go back to November 26, 1952, when two brothers, Marlin and Merville Messick broke ground and erected a new building along Route 230, three miles north of Elizabethtown.

The dealership officially opened on February 1, 1953, with Marlin as Shop Manager, and Merville handling both the sales and parts department.

Two years later a full-time salesman and one additional mechanic were hired, and in 1962 an addition was built to the existing building, housing a showroom and additional parts area.

The successful Messick enterprise once again outgrew its shell, and a new 21-acre site was purchased at the present location along Route 283, at the Rheems Exit, Elizabethtown.

With the new facilities providing 7,200 square feet of shop space, and 6,000 square feet of showroom, Messick celebrated its grand opening in February of 1977. Messicks have since expanded the building twice and have built an additional warehouse.

Today Messick attributes much of its growth to its 44 employees, including 15 mechanics, 12 partsmen, 5 salesmen, and four office personnel.

Factory trained as well as privately instructed, Messick's servicemen have years of experience in the agricultural field. The firm's parts department has experience in providing customers with the correct parts as quickly as possible.

To Messick's staff, the idea of simply making a sale, is secondary to their goal of providing the customer with the correct equipment to get the job done. They are committed to keeping their customers up and running with over 1 million dollars in parts inventory.

Parts & Office

Over 100 years combined experience in the Parts Department with over 1 million dollars in parts inventory.

Messicks has a 1-800 number, 1-800-222-3373, also a fax number, 717-367-6662, to be able to provide their services to the customers. They ship and receive by UPS, Federal Express, RPS, Airborne, Motortruck, and via their own 'on the farm' Parts Route Delivery/Sales Truck. Their hours are 7:30-5:00, Monday-Friday, and 7:30-12:00 on Saturdays.

MANURE ODORS:

CURRENT SOLUTIONS

No odor control methods appear to be completely effective and many are cost prohibitive.

More than one control strategy should be used to address odor generation at all three sources — the livestock facility, the manure storage area, and manure application to the field. Here is a list of technologies currently available.

Chemical Additives

C. Mike Williams, director of the North Carolina Animal and Poultry Waste Management Center, has been evaluating various additives for odor control.

In a recent series of studies, Williams has found that some compounds provide moderate improvement in odor intensity, while others have no effect, or increase odor intensity.

Williams incubated small samples of manure and then treated them with one of several classes of commonly used additives: 1) Odor counteractant (atomized into the air stream); 2) Digestive deodorant; 3) Potassium permanganate (an oxidizing agent); 4) Sphagnum peat moss (an adsorbent); and 5) Chemical deodorant.

After one week of treatment, filtered air was pumped over the manure samples and past a piece of cotton cloth. The cloth was evaluated by 10 trained panelists. The panelists rated each cloth on an eight-point scale for:

- Odor intensity (0=none at all...8 maximal)
- Irritation intensity (0=none at all...8 maximal)
- Pleasantness (0=extremely pleasant...4=neither pleasant nor unpleasant...8=extremely unpleasant).

Only the counteractant and potassium permanganate decreased odor intensity and odor irritation. But as the table shows, the improvement was not dramatic.

The commercial name of the counteractant is NC 2000 from Newman Industries (Addison, IL; 630-628-7199). Potassium permanganate, used under the conditions of this test, would cost more than $400 per 1,000 gallons of manure.

The name of the deodorants have not been released. Note that these were preliminary tests conducted unless laboratory conditions. Field evaluations are needed for a more thorough analysis.

Tests On Chemical Additives At Iowa State University

Dwayne Bundy reports that several additives have proven to be effective at reducing odor and possibly solids.

The additives tested include the following:

- Shac Pit Additive, Shac Environmental Products, Alberta, Canada, (403) 528-4446

- MPC, Kane Manufacturing, Des Moines, IA, (515) 262-3001
- Bio-Safe 1040E, Bio-Safe Company, Bettendorf, IA, (916) 635-3962

- Agro Solutions Product, Agro Solutions, Tama, IA, (515) 232-1103

- Lisa product, Lisa, Inc., Boone, IA, (515) 432-1667.

In Bundy's laboratory setting, the products reduced the odor threshold from 58 to 85 percent. Shac, Bio-Safe, and MPC all increased available nitrogen.

Field observations by producers indicated that these same products reduced solids in manure storage. Costs vary depending on the size and nature of the operation, but appear to range from $.30-.50 per hog.

Altering pH

Reducing pH in manure with an acid (hydrochloric, sulfuric, phosphoric, or nitric) to about 5 increases nitrogen fixation, thus reducing ammonia emissions (Oosthoek and Kroodsma, 1990). Unfortunately, addition of some of these acids increases the nitrogen or phosphorus content of the manure, and can increase the release of hydrogen sulfide.

Lime can be used to increase the pH of manure which has been shown to reduce odor and hydrogen sulfide emissions (Day, 1966). At a pH of 9.5, almost no hydrogen sulfide will escape the manure. A pH level of about 12 allows solids to settle and reduces the moisture content and odor production (EPA, 1984). As a result of high pH, septage does not putrefy, cause odors, or present a health hazard.

A recent study by Dwayne Bundy at Iowa State University indicates that alkaline agents (such as various types of kiln dust, fly ash, and lime products) reduce odors from manure storage areas. The alkaline products were added at the rate of .25 to .50 pound for each pound of manure solids (10-20 pounds of product per 1,000 gallons liquid manure). Reduction in odor was significant, but it is apparently essential to thoroughly mix the product and manure. Costs of the product including mixing was slightly more than $1 per hog marketed.

Covering Manure Storage

Manure storage areas have been successfully covered with various organic materials including straw, leaves, and grass clippings. A formal project sponsored by the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture and Food (PAMI, 1993) demonstrated a subjective reduction in storage odors by floating a layer of straw on top of lagoons. Good quality, long-stem straw worked best, but even poor quality straws could be used if placed on top of floating sheets of polystyrene.

When applied alone, initial depths of straw should be 8-10 inches to avoid reapplication during a typical storage time. If less straw is applied initially, several reapplications may be needed.

When applying straw on top of polystyrene floats, potential problems including increased maintenance and difficulties with the floats when the manure is pumped out. Annual costs (1993) for a 25,000 square foot lagoon were estimated (Canadian dollars) at $1,100 for straw alone and $2,050 for straw supported by floating polystyrene.

Manure storage areas have also been covered with concrete, a conventional wooden truss roof, and plastic tarps. Costs of these options range from approximately $3 per square foot to more than $6 per square foot.

Injection

Either injection or incorporation of the manure goes a long way toward reducing odor from the most intensive source — spreading.

Unfortunately, injection is not possible for all soils and it may create some production problems for small grains and hay.

Aeration

Aerating manure effectively reduces odor by enhancing the growth of aerobic bacteria which generate less odor than the anaerobes.

Aeration decreases the biological oxygen demand (BOD) and total organic acids (TOA) contents, both of which are highly correlated to odor offensiveness (Evans and Thacker, 1985).

Getting the air (oxygen) into the manure on a continuous basis is expensive. Meyer (1994) recommends 1 HP per 1,000 square feet of lagoon surface area. This amount of aeration would provide oxygen for the liquid near the surface.

The material several feet below the surface would remain in an anaerobic state. For example, a 2,000-head swine finishing building would generate about 540,000 gallons of manure in six months. If this manure were stored outside, and had an average depth of manure of 12 feet, then the surface area would be 9,000 square feet. To aerate that volume of manure would require 9 HP, which would require about $450/month in electricity.

Methane Digestion

Until about five years ago, there had been two swine operations in Pennsylvania with methane digesters, but one has since ceased operation. The digesters were effective at reducing odor from the manure storage facilities.

Both operations used the methane to generate electricity and heat. But both digesters were expensive. (Today, a digester for a 400-sow farrow to feeder operation would cost $250,000 or more.) Will the savings in heat and electricity pay for the investment?

Probably not, when all costs of operating the digester are considered.

Fan Scrubbers

These devices are apparently used on a limited basis in Europe, especially in the Netherlands where hogs and people live in proximity. Scrubbers work by various principles, depending on air volume, to remove both dust and odorous compounds.

Limitations to the feasibility of scrubbers include cost, multiple exhaust-fan locations, curtain-sided buildings, and maintenance. In a recent series of discussions with a manufacturer of commercial scrubbers, I quickly found that the cost and maintenance make these devices impractical for hog enterprises.

Solids Separation

By concentrating the solids into a small area, the surface area of the odorous material is reduced. This means that fewer compounds will be carried off by the wind, and it also means that covering the high-solids area is more practical.

The secondary lagoon has a higher water content, and therefore a lower BOD content and less odor.

Composting

Composting is the aerobic decomposition of organic materials. Initially, composting generates odor, but as it progresses, it takes on an earthy, non-offensive odor.

Temperatures reach 120-1,400 degrees F at the peak of bacterial activity. The requirements for successful composting are rather forgiving but certain guidelines must be followed.

The carbon:nitrogen ratio should be 20:1 to 40:1, and the moisture content should ideally be 40-65 percent (NRAES, 1992).

The water and nitrogen contents are both rather high in liquid manure relative to the desired levels. Therefore the addition of a dry carbon source such as straw, corn stalks, or waste paper is needed to bring the dry matter content and the carbon:nitrogen ratio in line.

In a demonstration project at Penn State University, Bob Graves (1993, personal communication) found that adding enough dry material to absorb all visible moisture and eliminate seepage also appeared to provide enough carbon to support composting.

Oxygen should be introduced into the system by forced air or frequent turning of the piles or windrows. Ideal particle size is 1/4 - 2 inches diameter.

Potential Hazards

generated in livestock facilities present potential health problems for individuals working under these conditions.

A recent survey of 72 environmentally controlled swine facilities indicated that 77 percent of the facilities surveyed had ammonia levels above the acceptable threshold limit values for human exposure after an eight-hour exposure (Gerber et al., 1991).

A survey of 2,459 Iowa livestock confinement workers showed that more than 60 percent of those responding reported some type of adverse effect including cough, sore throat, runny nose, eye irritation, headaches, tightness of chest, or muscle aches and pains (Donham and Gustafson, 1982).

Susan Schiffman, a psychologist at Duke University, is studying the effects of livestock odors on the people who live downwind of hog operations in North Carolina. She is finding that odor can have a negative impact on humans (King, 1994).

Summary

Four broad categories of odor control include covering manure storage areas, treatment of the manure with additives, treatment of the air in the swine building, and subsoil injection or immediate incorporation of the manure at the time of application.

The area that begs for results is the treatment of manure and air. And while we have much to learn, we are getting more sophisticated in our treatment methods and evaluation techniques. This will help to weed out the abundance of snake oil that seems to be in the marketplace.

In the meantime, as technology advances, there will be many techniques attempted, and only a few may prove beneficial. In the end, the solution will likely be dictated by what our neighbors are willing to tolerate.

Trust Accepts Nominations

WASHINGTON, D.C. — American Farmland Trust, a national farmland conservation group, welcomes nominations for its first annual Steward of the Land Award.

The $10,000 award recognizes outstanding efforts by an individual farmer or farm family in land stewardship, agricultural conservation policy or the use of environmentally and economically sustainable farming practices.

The award honors the memory of AFT's late founding board member, Peggy McGrath Rockefeller. Throughout her life, Rockefeller dedicated herself to conserving the nation's agricultural resources. AFT's board of directors established the Steward of the Land Award to salute farmers who exhibit the same deep-seated commitment to farmland conservation and protection as Rockefeller.

The award includes a $10,000 cash stipend, special memento inscribed with the award recipient's name, and a plaque on permanent display at American Farmland Trust's National Office in Washington, D.C. AFT's board of directors will review the nominees and select the winner.

The award will be presented early next year at a special dinner or luncheon of AFT's board of directors. Travel expenses for two family members to the ceremony will be borne by AFT.

Nominations must be received by AFT's National Office by 5 p.m. on the first business day of December. For an award brochure and nomination form, individuals should contact American Farmland Trust, 1920 N. Street, N.W., Suite 400, Washington, D.C., 20036, (202) 659-5170, ext. 7130.

Soybean Checkoff Hearing Draws Support

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. House of Representatives Agriculture Subcommittee on General Farm Commodities recently heard positive comments on the national soybean checkoff in an official review of the producer-run program.

Testimony came from U.S. Department of Agriculture-Agricultural Marketing Service and state checkoff representatives, soybean producers, and United Soybean Board and American Soybean Association producer-leaders.

Both congressmen Tom Ewing (R-Ill.) and Ray LaHood (R-Ill.), who initiated the hearings, gave opening remarks indicating that they are in favor of the national checkoff and want to work together with producers to improve the program. The representatives stated their concerns lay with certain mechanics of the program. Subcommittee member congressman Tom Latham (R-Iowa) said he supported the checkoff and the excellent results obtained from checkoff dollars.

According to Jerry Slocum, who spoke as USB chairman and as a producer from Coldwater, Miss., the hearing continued with statements — both verbal and written — from producers in nearly 14 soybean-growing states favoring the checkoff's activities and results.

"One question that has been asked has been about checkoff dollars being used for lobbying," said Slocum about the national checkoff testimony. "We assured them lobbying is not permitted with USB funds."

Slocum said that overall, USB views the hearing as a success for all U.S. soybean producers.

"There's always more we can do to positively impact profits and to develop new domestic and international markets. But, we're proud of what the national soybean checkoff has accomplished to date through USB activities — and that was expressed in the hearing," he said.

Kubota Parts In Stock

We Ship Daily

Introducing Kubota's new Grand L-Series diesel tractors. Four compact models with 25 to 37 PTO HP. Designed to take on any job that demands power and mobility.

Available in 2WD and 4WD, the Grand L-Series features Kubota's new ETVCSS diesel engines that run quiet with cleaner emissions. Operator friendly with power steering, tilt wheel and enclosed muffler for greater visibility. The roomy flat operator's deck is ISO mounted to greatly reduce vibration.

The Grand L-Series has a choice of transmissions, the new fully synchronized main transmission with Synchro-Shuttle allowing shifting-on-the-go through the 4 main gears or the new GST (Glide Shift Transmission) which allows shifting-on-the-go through all 8 speeds, both run smoothly and efficiently with the new larger diameter, larger capacity clutch.

The Grand L-Series powerful hydraulic system, independent rear PTO and 3-point hitch hook up to a wide range of quick-attach implements to handle any job.

Kubota's Grand L-Series gives you power, mobility and a smooth quiet ride.

OF TALL SILOS

The Model 60 is a big-capacity 540-rpm forage blower built to center-fill silos 100' tall. It features a 37" diameter feed hopper that makes positioning and unloading with cross conveyers easy.

A large 12" feed auger moves crop to the 60" fan for maximum blowing efficiency. the Model 60 forage blower also features:

- Eight adjustable, replaceable paddles
- Heavy-duty, shearbolt protected PTO
- Reversible blower band
- Adjustable air gate
- 9' telescoping pipe
- Adjustable wheels

So reach for the sky with the Model 60 forage blower. Stop in today and we'll show you how to

NEW HOLLAND

PEAK PERFORMERS

READY WHEN YOU ARE

Durable. Dependable. Powerful. New Holland forage harvesters will be there when you need them, so you can harvest your crop on time, season after season.

Four power-driven feedrolls carry materials into the cutterhead for an even, controlled cut, and the rugged 12-knife cutterhead delivers a fine uniform chop.

New Holland forage harvesters. Ready when you are.

R42. Engineered For Better Returns.

Just because the R42 is the smallest member of the GLEANER combine family doesn't mean it's small on features. In fact the R42 has many of the same traits found in its bigger brothers. It just has a smaller bin capacity (170 bushel grain tank to be exact). And it's the perfect companion to the farmer who doesn't need a big combine but still wants the same features as the larger models. Take the Natural Flow Harvesting System for example. Its unique transverse mounting cylinder will move your crop in a ribbon like fashion from the concave through the cage. So your crop never changes direction giving you higher grain quality. The ComfortECH cab has an air ride seat that adapts to your height and weight. With lumbar support, adjustable arm rests and seat angles which add to its creature comforts. And with its 185 hp turbocharged, liquid cooled engine, you'll have plenty of power to get the job done. To get a closer look at the R42 just stop by and see us. We'll be happy to show you how the GLEANER R42 is engineered for better returns.

TRAIL AGI-POMPE®
 32' AND 42' FOR LAGOONS

GREAT PERFORMANCE IN HOG OR DAIRY MANURE

1- Highly articulated nozzle designed to slice and break the top crust from above the manure level as the propeller homogenizes the liquid with the remaining floating chunks.

2- 24" dia. mixing propeller providing full time agitation up to 21,500 US G.P.M. even when loading a spreader.

3- Hydraulic controls can be operated from tractor seat.

4- Rotative directional valve designed to be operated at low R.P.M. without stopping the P.T.O.

Gear box oil bath protected by a greaseable 3 seals mechanism on each shaft.

COMBINEGet more features for more performance

1 Grain header. The large-capacity auger is placed low to the ground so that crops fall into it from the cutterbar for gentle, sure feeding.

2 Feed elevator. Wide, 44-inch width matches the exceptional rotor capacity. Offset, U-shaped slats are stronger, longer-lasting and bolted on for easy placement. The front drum floats for optimum performance. An electric-over-hydraulic header reverser provides a convenient way for the operator to quickly remove an overload of material from the header and feeder elevator.

3 Front feed beater. Patented beater accelerates crop into the rotor for more efficient threshing, and less crop damage and component wear.

4 Rotor drive. Exclusive high-torque, hydrostatic drive has a unique, in-cab reversible action feature. Rotor speeds up to 1010 RPM are set from the cab.

5 Rotor intake. "Full-Circle" feeding to the sets of auger flights starts the crop on its spiral path through the threshing and separating areas. This provides optimum feeding performance and capacity, for more combine throughput.

6 Guide vanes. Guide vanes provide axial flow which ensures multiple-pass threshing and separating and the right crop dwell time for clean, undamaged grain samples.

7 Concaves. Exceptional concave area, plus the rubbing and impact action of the rotor, lets you set wider concave clearances for complete, non aggressive threshing with minimal grain damage of all crops. Replaceable concave sections and standard blank off plates make it easy to adapt to specific needs and crops.

8 Threshing lobes and rasp bars. The 3 unique helical threshing lobes and 3 sets of rasp bars smooth out and thresh the crop. Rotor knives can be added or removed for weedy and green-crop conditions.

9 Separating. There are 2,241 sq. in. (1.46 sq. m) of separating area. Open, rod-and-bar-design grates let kernels easily fall through to the separator pan, while straw is discharged. Adjustable deflector plates spread the grain evenly over the grain pan for superior cleaning.

10 Sweeps and guides. The 3 sweeps, in conjunction with the guide vanes, provide the crop with an axial, multi-pass movement across the separator grate while giving it rearward direction.

12 Direct discharge. Patented system exhausts the crop residue directly from the rotor, eliminating the complication and power requirements of an extra beater.

14 Cleaning fan. The speed of this large-diameter fan can be set from 267-850 RPM while on the go from the cab. An optional low-speed pulley allows speed from 200-271 RPM for harvesting light-seed crops.

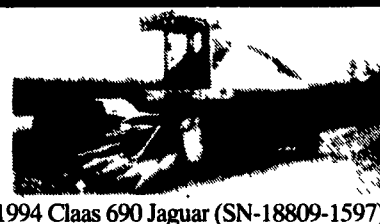

15 Pressurized cleaning shoe. Opposing action of chaffer and sieve eliminates spearing. Total area is 6,426 sq. in. (4.15 sq. m). An optional side-hill attachment prevents sideways migration.

16 Clean grain auger. A large clean grain auger, 10-in. (25 cm) grain elevator and large tank fill auger can handle your heaviest yielding crops.

17 227 bu. grain tank. Perforated tank extension can be folded down for 148 in. (3.7) transport and storage height. A perforated panel behind the cab gives the operator a clear view into the grain tank, plus a full-tank sensor with an in-cab display alerts the operator of a 95%-full tank.

18 Turret unloader. Electro-hydraulic swing, high clearance and extra-long reach give you 5 ft. (1.5 m) clearance beyond a 30 ft. (9 m) grain table for easy, on-the-go unloading in approximately 2 minutes.

19 Straw Chopper (optional). The 2-speed, fully adjustable chopper slides back for easy access and for windrowing. A unique chaff spreader door is standard equipment allowing a portion of the chaff to spread with the rotor discharge material. A fine-cut kit is available. Optional straw spreader distributes crop residue without chopping to save fuel.

Record-Breaking Sale Held

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — The 1996 Chester County 4-H Swine Show and Sale was held once again at New Holland Sales Stables.

Judge Keith Bryan had a challenging afternoon as 72 hogs were entered. A record-breaking sale was held that evening with the hogs averaging $1.19 a pound. Quite a large difference between the sale average and market price of 60 cents per pound for that day.

Coatesville. The 240-pound hog was purchased by Thrifty Pallet Company of West Chester for $5 a pound.

The reserve grand champion was exhibited by Jonathan Howe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Howe of Downingtown. The reserve champion also weighed 240 pounds and sold to Hatfield Packing Company of Hatfield for $2.05 a pound. Both hogs were bred by Nelson Beam of Elverson and were first named champion and reserve champion of the middle-weight division.

The grand champion trio was exhibited by Nathan Howe of Downingtown. The 665-pound trio was purchased by New Holland Sales Stable for 85 cents a pound. The reserve champion trio, weighing 675 pounds, was exhibited by Jonathan Howe of Downingtown and was purchased by New Holland Sales Stable for 70 cents per pound.

Champion and reserve champion lightweight were exhibited by Zac Zerr of Geigertown. Zac sold his 215-pound champion to Purina Mills for $1.05 a pound and the 220-pound reserve champion for $2 a pound to John Zerr of Geigertown.

Zac's sister Beth exhibited the champion heavyweight which was purchased by Dr. Scott Gradwell of Allentown for $1.05 a pound. Mandy Stoltzfus of Geigertown sold her reserve champion heavyweight for $1.05 a pound which was purchased by Keystone Farm Credit ACA of Avondale.

Champion senior showman was Derrick Frank of Elverson and reserve champion senior showman was Nathan Howe of Downingtown. Champion junior showman was Sara Howe of Downingtown and reserve champion junior showman was Mandy Stoltzfus of Geigertown.

Trophies will be presented to these individuals at the annual Livestock Awards Banquet in February courtesy of the Lancaster-Chester County Pork Producers Council. Volume buyer of the day was New Holland Sales Stable, staunch supporters of the Chester County Swine program.

Caitlin Fairbairn of Coatesville exhibited the grand champion 4-H market hog which sold to Thrifty Pallet Company of West Chester for $5 a pound.

Jonathan Howe of Downingtown exhibited the reserve grand champion 4-H market hog which sold to Hatfield Packing Company for $2.05 a pound.

F.O.4 September Milk $17.72

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Middle Atlantic Order Market Administrator Rex F. Lothrop today announced for September 1996 a Class I price $17.72 per hundredweight and a Class II price of $14.79 per hundredweight.

The September Class I price includes the 20-cent assessment for fluid milk promotion and consumer education.

The Class I price, less the 20-cent assessment, and the Class II price are up 57 cents from August and are $3.26 higher when compared to year-earlier levels.

Mr. Lothrop announced a Class III milk price of $14.54 per hundredweight for July 1996 and a Class III-A price of $16.06 for the month. The Class III price was up 71 cents from the previous month, and the Class III-A price increased $1.03.

The September 1996 Class I and Class II prices and the July 1996 Class III price are based on the July 1996 basic formula milk price of $14.49 per hundredweight at a 3.5 percent butterfat content.

The July 1996 butterfat price was $1.6798 per pound, up 18.08 cents from June. The July skim milk price per hundredweight was $8.98.

The USDA reported that the wholesale price of Grade A butter at Chicago for July was $1.4487 per pound on the mercantile exchange and the Central States non-fat dry milk price was $1.3257 per pound.
